Absolute Cure For Sheep Scab

1/2 of the woolen cloths worn in the world are made from wool obtained from Cooper dipped sheep. Cooper's Dip is used on King Edward's famous prize-winning Southdowns.

It is imported into Australia and the Argentine free of duty, because the sheep-owners know it is an absolute necessity.

Cooper's Dip is the dip officially recognized by the United States Government.

By royal decree, every man in Spain, growing Merino wool, must dip his sheep in Cooper's Dip.

At the Royal Show, England, in the breeds of sheep, every prize-winner used Cooper's Dip.

Last year, enough of Cooper's Dip was used to dip 250,000,000 sheep.

Mention this paper and tell us how many sheep you have, and we will send copy of our book "Sheep Scab and How To Cure It," free of charge.

of wheat. The present year is an example of this. The world had gone short on wheat, but of oats we had a larger supply than usual. In this country the oat harvest might have been taken as a likely indication of lower values, but high-priced wheat has held oats up to a fairly good level of value thus far.

Speculation as to what crops, the seed of which is still in the bins, will sell for next fall, is rather idle. To one conversant with the world's situation, it looks as if the high prices that have prevailed for wheat during the past year must be continued. The world is short in wheat, and there are no indications up to the present to indicate that the crop of 1909 will bring the reserves up to strength and supply demands from every quarter. As a matter of fact grave doubts are beginning to be entertained by those desirous of lower-priced wheat, that the crop of the present year, unless it is a bumper one, and the backward seed-time all over this continent pretty well precludes that, there is likely to be as wild a scramble for the world's first food product during the season of 1909-10 as anything seen during the present year. We see no reason why wheat should not maintain a high-price level during the coming cereal year. If you note the option quotations in our market column, you will see that wheat for next fall delivery is already selling over the dollar mark. While there may be a slump in prices, it is hardly likely to happen. We can see no reason why oats should not be a good price next fall. There is as much indication for strength in them as in wheat. At present, October delivery is quoted in Winnipeg at 38c., and in Chicago at 41c.

SPRINGHALT

Have a gelding eleven years old. While standing in the stable, he lifts his left hind foot from the floor, and holds it up for several minutes at a time. He does this so much that his foot must be off the floor nearly half the time. When he puts it down, he stands up on it as though it were all right. He does not limp or show any lameness in walking. He does not flinch when the leg is felt or compressed with the hands. I can not see any lump or swelling on the leg. He has been doing this ever since I bought him on March 1st last. When I first noticed the habit, I thought that probably the hoof needed trimming, as it seemed to be rather overgrown. I, therefore, had the blacksmith trim all four of his hoofs. When trimming the affected foot, I had it done so as to remove as much pressure as possible from the sole by paring the sole well down and leaving the wall of the hoof to support the weight. But this brought no improvement. The sole of the foot seemed to be sound and of good color. At some time in his early years the horse has had his right hind foot badly cut, probably with barb wire, and the blacksmith thought that perhaps the horse favored the right foot so much then that the left foot is now paying for the extra work it has had to do. I think the horse has worms. He chews the woodwork in his stall. He rubs his upper lip sometimes just as a painter would rub or slap a paint brush back and forth to get paint well into the wood. His coat is rather rough too. The horse eats well, but for a horse of his size (about 1,400 lbs.), he does not drink as much as one would expect.

Sask. W. G. K.

Ans.—Cases such as you have described are occasionally met with in practice, where a horse has received an injury to one leg, and, as a consequence, has been allowed to stand on
