Thos. Gilbert was charged by John Borthwick with conversion of $5. appears that Borthwick wished to sell his dog, and told Gilbert that i he sold the dog he could keep al over $10. The dog was sold for $15 and according to the contract, Gilbert kept the five dollars. Borthwick denied any such agreement and wanted to get his V back. Magistrate decided that it was clearly a case of a contract and it was dismissed. H. R. Yates was charged with speeding his car up Brant Avenue. Mr. Yates was out of town and the case was adjourned for a week. Antole Karch was charged by J. M. Bond, a well known G. T. R. detective with the theft of some coal from a car standing on the G. T. R. tracks. Wm. Johnson, the foreman of the McDonald Coal Yard, for which the car was intended, gave evidence that the car was a ton short when it was opened. Karch was suspected and accompanied by Louis Stander and Detective Bond, the house was searched and a considerable quantity of coal was found in the kitchen. Karch de nied the theft and declared he had bought the coal but had torn up the receipt. He further declared that he had witnesses to prove that the coal had been come by honestly, but they the man every chance, the action was laid over until Friday to allow him to get his witnesses.
