NOT ONLY FOOLISH BUT SUICIDAL TOO

American Manufacturers Say American Branches Here Will All be Closed

Montreal, Sept. 1.—That Canadians can for one moment entertain the idea of reciprocity seems utterly inconceivable to Mr. C. W. Post, manufacturer of grape nuts, postum, etc. Born and bred in the United States and being a large manufacturer and ranch owner there, it would naturally be expected that Mr. Post's sympathies would tend towards reciprocity, but considering himself a broad-minded man, and at the same time confessing to having the interests of Canada at heart and in view, Mr. Post declares himself opposed to the pact despite the hornet's nest which he says he will assuredly raise about his head by such a public statement as this.

Even on his way through Montreal today to the Laurentian Club, Lac la Pêche, from Battle Creek, Mich., Mr. Post declared, "If I was a Canadian I would never stand for it for one moment, and as a native of the United States I shall use all the influence in my power against it. As one of the governors of the National Association of Manufacturers in the United States, I would very much like not to have any duty to pay because from this point of view, I would prefer to manufacture in the States and pay for labor there; but as a manufacturer who, to avoid having to pay a 25 per cent. duty on manufactured articles, found it the very much better policy to come over to Canada with a quarter of a million dollars and buy Canadian brick, hire Canadian bricklayers, buy Canadian machinery and establish a large factory at Windsor, Ont., I must naturally look at the question from the Canadian point of view and consider how reciprocity would affect the industries of the country.

What has happened since last January. Every American in Alberta has become a violent reciprocalist, simply because the House of Representatives and the Senate at Washington have favored the trade pact. As a result of the sentiment that has been aroused in the central and southern regions of Alberta, where the American element is predominant, "Annexation," "Political Absorption," "loss of nationality," or whatever you like to call it, cannot be cast aside as a hobby, but is rather the true issue, live, realistic, serious and impending. "This will be the last election," said a leading lawyer in Calgary in an interview with your correspondent today. "If reciprocity carries in Canada the increasing influx of American immigration before the next election will take the power of representation out of our hands and give it to those who come here from the United States."

To say that the American is a good pioneer for the country because he happens to have money and is a good farmer, does not offer sufficient compensation to the British-born Canadian subject, who sees, underneath it all, a desire and an organized attempt to merge the commercial interests of Canada with those of the United States, on the part of the American element not only in Alberta, but throughout the whole west, is quite evident. Is it not a sufficient fact that every American who comes here as a settler, interviewed (and no one can travel in the west without meeting Uncle Sam at every turn) not only favored reciprocity but generally added—"why we see no reason at all why this part of your country should be separated from ours?" Is it not striking, too, that both Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Bennett of Calgary, who have just returned from a short tour through southern Alberta and with whom I was speaking today, should have experienced the same thing?

Proud of Bennett. Such is the situation which is strengthening the cause of the anti-reciprocity fighters in Alberta, chief among whom is Mr. R. B. Bennett, Conservative candidate for Calgary. Everyone is proud of Mr. Bennett in this city and everywhere you are told "Wait till Bennett gets down to Ottawa, and he will stir things up." His oratorical ability has made him immensely popular with all classes and all the way through Alberta one hears of the remarkable speeches which Bennett made in the Legislature at the time of the Alberta Waterways project. Sheriff Van Wart, the Liberal candidate opposing Mr. Bennett, is regarded as a strong contestant, chiefly because of his experience and ability as a political organizer. One strong Conservative said today: "The Liberals could not have put up a better man against Mr. Bennett. It will be a close election in Calgary, but the feeling is that Bennett will win, and, if he does, there will be no more pronounced public verdict against reciprocity in all Canada, for Mr. Bennett is making the agreement the issue of his campaign, attacking it in every phase most violently."

THE GOVERNOR WAS SHOT DOWN

Northbrook, Atlantic Russia, Sept. 5.—The governor of the Zarautulug settlement was shot and killed yesterday by an unknown man. The assassin was arrested.

The man presented the card of an engineer of the prison, and was received by the governor in his private office. Immediately upon crossing the threshold, the assassin drew a revolver and fired two shots at the officer. Both bullets took effect, the governor being instantly killed.

The murderer, attracted by the shooting, rushed into the room, and the man after a struggle was overpowered. It was at the Zarautulug prison that Sazonoff, the revolutionist, who in 1904 assassinated Minister of the Interior Von Plehve, committed suicide last fall, as a protest against corporal punishment inflicted at the prison.

If ambitious for success in a big way, there are some callings you should avoid. Do not teach music in a country town and expect to become a rival of the money kings of the world.

RECIPROCITY ISSUE IN WEST

Influence of Yankee Settler Thrown in Favor of Closer Connection With U. S.

(Special correspondent to the Toronto News and The Daily Gleaner.)
Calgary, Sept. 6.—Sunny Alberta with its millions of acres of fertile wheat lands; its miles of rolling foothills, the ideal ranching district of America; and its superabundance of coal lying dormant in the northern and western ranges of the province, faces a greater peril in the proposed reciprocity agreement than any other part of the west. The climate here is milder in winter than in Saskatchewan and Manitoba; interests are more advanced than in any other part of the prairie country, all of which has brought an unusually large number of Americans into Alberta. There are more old settlers from the United States in Alberta than in any other part of Canada, and altogether, it is said that fully thirty per cent. of the total population of this province has come from across the line. Until reciprocity was suggested these farmers had turned their backs on their own country and were becoming assimilated into the life of Canada.

Annexation a Live Issue. What has happened since last January. Every American in Alberta has become a violent reciprocalist, simply because the House of Representatives and the Senate at Washington have favored the trade pact. As a result of the sentiment that has been aroused in the central and southern regions of Alberta, where the American element is predominant, "Annexation," "Political Absorption," "loss of nationality," or whatever you like to call it, cannot be cast aside as a hobby, but is rather the true issue, live, realistic, serious and impending. "If reciprocity carries in Canada the increasing influx of American immigration before the next election will take the power of representation out of our hands and give it to those who come here from the United States."

The American Influence. To say that the American is a good pioneer for the country because he happens to have money and is a good farmer, does not offer sufficient compensation to the British-born Canadian subject, who sees, underneath it all, a desire and an organized attempt to merge the commercial interests of Canada with those of the United States, on the part of the American element not only in Alberta, but throughout the whole west, is quite evident. Is it not a sufficient fact that every American who comes here as a settler, interviewed (and no one can travel in the west without meeting Uncle Sam at every turn) not only favored reciprocity but generally added—"why we see no reason at all why this part of your country should be separated from ours?" ## MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Quebec, L. I., Sept. 5.—Wm. Childs, of New York, last night shot and killed Miss Catherine Vanwyck, of Brooklyn, and then turned his revolver on himself, inflicting a wound from which he died within an hour. Childs had been very attentive to the young woman all summer, and it is said that she did not reciprocate his affection.

Bachelors' wives and old maid's children are always well taught.

LIBERALS WILL VOTE BORDEN

John McClary's Open Letter Turned Hundreds of Liberal Mechanics Against Pact

London, Sept. 4.—Mr. John McClary, a leading manufacturer here, in an open letter to the press, attacks Reciprocity strongly, declaring that it means the surrendering of all control over our tariff and the transferring of the development of our unequalled resources to the United States. "Permanently free trade for the farmer, he declares, must undoubtedly result in free trade in manufactures shortly, and that this will not only force manufacturers to liquidation, but will seriously affect all Canadian banks and the credit of all Canadian citizens."

Mr. McClary's letter has had the effect of turning hundreds of Liberal workingmen here against Reciprocity. Former Liberal Candidate Opposes Reciprocity. Pictou, Ont., Sept. 4.—Mr. W. P. Niles, prominent exporter of Wellington, who as a Liberal candidate, opposed Mr. R. A. Norman, M. P., in the last provincial election, has taken a determined stand against Reciprocity. Mr. Niles was chairman as a campaign meeting held in the interests of Mr. B. R. Hepburn, Conservative standard bearer in Wellington.

"Reciprocity will work out to a loss," was his declaration. He then proceeded to tell what he knew from experience in the seed pea business. It was admitted that the United States farmers were getting slightly better prices for seed peas per bushel than were the Prince Edward farmers who supply the Niles warehouses, and Hogg & Lytle warehouses in Pictou. There was now a duty of 40 cents on the bushel on peas entering the United States. Were this duty removed, Mr. Niles declared, the Wisconsin warehouses would have their seed peas grown in Canada, but would have them handled in the United States warehouses. United States labor would be used, and the thousands of dollars annually now going out in wages to Wellington men and women would be lost.

"The seed pea business is a serious one of Wellington. I can see no benefit from Reciprocity, and do so lose," Mr. Niles said. "Again, if the duty is taken off canned goods, what will be the result? In Maryland they can grow tomatoes and pack them cheaper than we can. This is practically why none of our canned goods are exported. They can be exported from the United States cheaper. If the duty is taken off the canned goods the result is evident."

Another Cornwall Liberal? Wm. Will Vote Borden.

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 4.—G. D. Atkinson, Cornwall, is another prominent Liberal who will vote Borden. Mr. Atkinson came to Cornwall a little over five years ago from Valleyfield, Que., and purchased the express roller mill here. Mr. Atkinson says it will be a national calamity if Reciprocity carried. "Reciprocity would be a serious blow to our business as millers," he admitted, "but the same may also be said of all other businesses." Mr. Atkinson maintains that he is still a Liberal, but will vote against Reciprocity.

A BOLD THEFT

Verdun, France, Sept. 5.—A bold theft, occurring yesterday in a church located in the centre of the city. A man detached and carried away two valuable paintings after breaking the frames. The theft occurred in broad daylight, while a priest was performing a christening.

Do as the most do and fewer will speak evil of thee. Town men talk about farmers a good deal, behind their backs.
