NEWCASTLE

PROMOTION HOTEL FOR CAMPBELLTON

Business Men Endeavoring to Form Company and Erect Hotel.

BADLY NEEDED

A number of local business men headed by Mr. David Richards are endeavoring to promote a joint stock company to erect a first class hotel here. A number of the married men are behind the proposition and the outlook is encouraging.

Plans for a fine building have been prepared and the promoters are endeavoring to interest additional capital. It is estimated that the house will cost between forty and fifty thousand dollars, and will be up-to-date in every respect.

At the present time Campbellton needs a first class hotel in the worst way. Business men and commercial travellers are obliged to stay at Matapedia or Dalhousie over night, and depend on trains to get into Campbellton the next day. Such an enterprise should have the earnest support of all married men having the best interests of Campbellton at heart.

Mr. Jos. Daubois, owner of the Waverley Hotel lot has agreed to place his lot at the disposal of the proposed company, and several other men have agreed to take stock. Already about twenty-five thousand dollars have been subscribed.

MISERABLE FOLKS could trace both state of mind and body to some one or other form of stomach disorder.

Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablet is a "vest pocket" remedy that nature provided and that medical science has proved a wonder in preventing and curing stomach ailments. If you've a symptom of distress in your stomach test the Pineapple cure, 35 cents. Sold by A. E. SHAW'S Pharmacy.—152

Summer school of science has not forgotten the session they held in Campbellton 10 years ago as shown by the following letter to Mayor Murray, enclosing a check for our relief fund at the close of their session at Liverpool N. S. Liverpool, N. S., July 30, 1910.

His Worship, Mayor Murray,
My dear Dr. Murray:—

You have received from Mayor Mulhall, of Liverpool, a draft for $125 raised by the Summer School of Science and the town of Liverpool. We usually have a concert at the school to supplement our funds. In view of your misfortune, and in remembrance of the many courtesies your town as a whole and particularly your own self showed the school, I suggested that the whole proceeds be forwarded to our suffering friends to remind them that the school has a memory and that unstinted kindness has an influence which may show its results in unexpected places. I was sorry that the sum was not larger, but we send what a full house gave us, and send it in the spirit you showed when the opportunity was on the other side. We are still as ever your appreciative friends of the Summer School of Science,
S. C. STARRAT,
President.

MAN AND WIFE IN DISTRESS.
Rev. Dr. Bohrer, of Buffalo, says: "My wife and I were both troubled with distressing Catarrh, but we have enjoyed freedom from this aggravating malady since the day we first used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. Its action was instantaneous, giving the most grateful relief within ten minutes after first application." 50 cents. Sold by A. E. SHAW'S Pharmacy.—152

GREAT "SCOOPS."

"Corners" In News That Have Astonished Fleet Street.

If one morning, some days prior to the introduction of the Budget, an enterprising newspaper published full details of the career of the Chancellor of the Exchequer intended to impose an immense sensation would be created. And it would probably be only a preliminary to the commitment to prison of the editor and all who had assisted in the violation of the Act which prohibits the publication or communication of secret state documents.

But in the old days the restrictions were not so stringent. The history of the past teems with amazing newspaper "scoops," which have made the world marvel at the ingenuity and daring of the men who have obtained them. A "scoop" to a newspaper man often means comparative wealth and fame. He will gladly risk his life and liberty to obtain one. And in these days, when the whole surface of the globe is covered with trained journalists, it is daily becoming more difficult.

"Secret Treaty Between England and Russia" announced a newspaper placard on one occasion, and in the paper itself was given the text of the treaty. The agreement had been communicated to a journalist by a Foreign Office employe, who had been engaged in copying it.

It was through the dash and daring of a man who swam, with the aid of a raft, from the stricken city, and then took horse to the nearest telegraph station, that the first news of the terrible San Francisco earthquake came to the outside world; whilst the reporter of a London evening paper, who found himself with other pressmen—in possession of important information, detained in quarantine on a vessel in New York harbor, jumped overboard, although he could not swim. Fortune favored him, and a sailing-boat picking him up, he was able to get his message to London in advance of his rivals.

By posing as a tailor's assistant, another smart "Knight of the Pen" obtained a fine interview with one of the great generals on a visit to England who had resolutely refused to talk to pressmen.

All manner of devices have been adopted by newspaper men to keep their own "exclusive" news. Some have telegraphed long extracts from Shakespeare at enormous cost in order to keep the wires clear for an expected message. And some have time their ingenuity is taxed severely to evade the censor. The telegram which brought the news of peace at the end of the South African war read simply: "Whitcliffe greets you." Only when a smart sub-editor turned up the Prayer Book and found the words, "Peace I leave with you," in the Whit-Sunday lesson, was the message construed into its real meaning.—London Answers.

THE ANGLO-SAXON.

An Italian savant gives opinion that the Anglo-Saxon is the first of the races of the human family, superior over all. It is true that Julius Caesar and Napoleon Bonaparte, both Latins, were the two greatest men of profane history. If we shall decide that men of action are above men of thought and men of feeling. And that recalls the ingenious speculation of the great orator, Thomas F. Marzani, who in a splendid burst of eloquence made Bonaparte a lineal descendant of Caesar.

At St. Helena Napoleon was sometimes garrulous, and there he said the best soldiers in the world were the English, and he opined that at the head of an English army he would have been invincible. He put the French second, the Russians third, and they included the Poles; the Germans fourth, and he placed the Italians at the foot, though every drop of blood about his veins was Italian. It is a rather curious fact that this demigod, who gorged France with glory, was not in a single atom French, except that he was Latin.

One of the first figures of political history is Alfred the Great, a pure Saxon, red-headed and blue-eyed, no doubt. Another was Oliver Cromwell, an Anglo-Saxon to the marrow. Yet another was George Washington, and he, too, was Anglo-Saxon from "skin to core and from core to skin."

And do not forget that Robert Bruce and Robert Burns were Saxon, one of the half-breed and the other of almost the full breed.

For letters, for spoken and written eloquence; for men of feeling; for material advancement; for law, liberty, opportunity and manhood, the Anglo-Saxon is first and the rest nowhere.

Wrong Babe In Coffin.

An unusual incident is reported from Cork, where the parson—Lyons by name—of a child that had died at the age of five weeks applied to the workhouse for a coffin in which to bury the child. The mother and her woman friends brought the little coffin between them to the house in Smith street, but noticed on the way that it was unusually heavy for one so small. On arriving home they opened it, and were horrified to find it contained the shrouded body of a man, and still another was lying with it. The police was communicated with, and it was ascertained that the child whose body was loitering in the coffin had died in the institution and was to have been taken away the day before. When the attendant got the message he made a mistake and brought the body was in the coffin. The police was called in to remove it.
