CLARKVILLE.

Bulletin News Service.

On June 15, 1903, the coyotes and other wild creatures of the plain were undisturbed in the twenty mile strip of country between Saddle Lake and Flamingo, except when once in a while a lone traveler chanced to pass over a little-used trail, that passed by Saddle Lake.

On June 16 two families pitched their tents there, and began home-building. "Somebody followed and more in April, 1908, the whole scene has changed as if by magic. Instead of vacant land as far as the eye could reach, with no sign of human being ever setting foot there, it is now a thriving settlement of happy home builders. And the change is not long out of sight of a settler's house."

A post office, a church and good general store, have come with the home-seekers. They have given place to well tilled fields, and useful gardens. Instead of the solitude of other days, the neighing of horses, lowing of cattle, chatter of geese and the cheerful cackle of Mrs. "Biddy" is heard in the land.

Many new homes are going up. Several are nearly completed. Among these are Mr. Tennant's.

The settlement prides itself not only on the fertile soil and natural advantages found here, but upon the cultural prize of its settlers, who are fast working up the raw material into substantial farms. There is pride too in the musical talent found in the settlement.

On Easter day a splendid programme was given at the church, which called out an unusually large crowd. The music was most excellent, especially the anthem, "Praise Jehovah," sung by the Greenfield family.

M. H. G. Rood, "sheepman" brought in one hundred and twenty-three head of fine sheep, from the States last fall, and reports at this time, forty fine lambs, and not one of his flock taken by the mutton loving coyote.
