The Evening Chit-Chat

By MARY CAMERON

of the telephone operator.

She is perpetually running up against rude conductors, and lodging complaints against them.

When she dines in public, she makes it a point to announce in tones that can be heard half way across the room that she never saw such "perfectly wretched service."

It is she who telephones to the post office to complain that the postman loiters at people's doors too much, and her mail is delayed.

It is she who complains to head-quarters that the poor shop girl who had lifted down twenty-nine heavy boxes of lace that she might look them over, was rude to her.

And instead of being ashamed of her complaints, she appears to be proud of them.

She tells about them with a haughty air which seems to say, "This is what happens to anyone who does not yield me the perfect obedience to which I am accustomed."

If one does not know her, one gets the idea that she is a woman of power and position, accustomed to being waited on within an inch of her life.

But, whisper, while I tell you a secret. Nine times out of ten it is just the other way around. She abuses

"the little brief authority" belonging to her by virtue of her position as one of the public, which these folks are bound over to serve uncomplainingly, because she is not used to power.

If she were really a woman accustomed to being served she would know that ceaseless complaints are as much an indictment of the mistress's inability to command good service, as the servant's failure to give it.

If she were really a woman of position she would long ago have learned the forbearance, the patience, the gentleness that comes to all really worth-while people, who deal much with their inferiors.

And it's the same way, I think, with people who are always complaining of food, conditions, or accommodations when travelling. They want to impress upon you that they are accustomed to luxury, but miss this out to a very elaborate cuisine at home. We found out later that quite the opposite was true, and that our table at college must have seemed luxurious compared to that to which she was accustomed.

The person who has been accustomed to real luxury usually also has enough real refinement not to attempt to tell about it in this way. The men or women who try to show their power or superiority by abuse and complaints, would only be amusing if they were not so disgusting, and did not sometimes cause so much unhappiness and trouble.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware of. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confounded dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address World's Dispensary-Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Household Notes.

Kerosene rubbed on with a soft cloth will clean zinc perfectly.

Keep a bowl of cold water at hand in which to dip the fingers when hulling or capping fruit for preserving.

Paint your tin wash basins on the inside with a good white enamel paint if you would prolong their usefulness.

Wipe all dust from your windows and rub them with a cloth dipped in vinegar. If you desire a high polish on the glass.

Dampen slight iron scorchers and lay the injured material in the hot sun. In a few minutes the spot will have disappeared.

Cut off the ragged edges of old whisk brooms after they have outlived their usefulness and use them again as sink brushes.

Never wash marble with soap and water. Use ammonia in the water if you would have a highly-polished, clean surface after your trouble.

Put a small cork on the oilcan belonging to the sewing machine. This will prevent spilling oil in the drawer and soiling anything there.

If black silk stockings seem too thin they may be worn over ordinary black cotton or lisle thread stockings. But they want drilling—not in love, but in sea work. Why, some of the boys in my fleet were so green that they had to taste the sea-water to believe there was salt in it. But they are the backbone of the navy, all the same.

By tacking large pieces of pasted paper to the ceiling jets directly in front of the shelves, a clean dark place for canned fruit is made.

To avoid mixing up towels when all the family use the same bathroom, embroider initials, or one initial, on towels for each member of the household.

When filling pillows, to prevent the feathers from escaping rub wax over the wrong side of the case and iron with an iron hot enough to melt the wax.

A tape loop on the apron band is a convenience and will save the apron from being torn if hung on a hook. Sew the loop on the "wrong" side of the band.

Fill lamps on blotting paper and whatever oil overflows will be absorbed, thus saving the table. Get a heavy blotting paper and keep a sheet beside the oilcan.

Pull the bed out from the wall when you are making it up, and see how many steps may be saved by your being able to go around the head as well as the foot.

Paint your gaiters the same color as the house. You will prolong the can's usefulness, and if it must be stood outside the back door it will be less conspicuous.

Before laundering curtains measure the width and keep it for reference. Lace curtains in particular are often torn by being stretched beyond their original width.

Two measuring-cups kept in the kitchen will save rinsing out one a great many times. Keep one cup for dry ingredients, the other for liquids. Have both the same size.

Hot alum water, in the proportion of two pounds of alum to three quarts of water, applied to erections where ants and other insects abound, will effectually drive them away.

When the hands get stained from paring apples or from preserving grapes, wash them first in vinegar, then rub them with a slice of ripe tomato and the stains will disappear.

An old stocking for a duster is an idea of which one woman has taken advantage. She pulls the stocking over the hand and finds it convenient for the light dusting between sweeping-days.

Washing lamp chimneys by immersing them in hot water makes them very brittle. A safer way to clean them is to hold them over the steam of a tea-kettle and polish with an old soft linen cloth.

To dry tea towels on the back porch take a metallic curtain-rod, cover it to prevent rust, and put it upon two hooks. A rod long enough to hang two or three towels on at the same time will prove a convenience.

Every woman who has tried to cut chiffon or fine net has experienced the difficulty of obtaining a straight, and not a jagged edge. If you will lay the material over paper before cutting, all that difficulty will be done away with.

To remove grease spots from carpets mix Fuller's earth and magnesia together in equal proportions by scraping and pounding. Form this into a paste with hot water and spread on the spots. Next day brush off and, if necessary, repeat the process.

When cleaning pictures write a number on the back of each one as you take it from the wall, and write the same number faintly in pencil on the wall space behind it. This saves all trouble of trying to remember just where the pictures belong.

"Fighting Bob Evans."

Many gallant exploits in American warfare are recalled by the announcement that Admiral Robert D. Evans, who is on the retired list of the United States Navy, has just celebrated his sixty-fifth birthday. "Fighting Bob Evans," as he is known "on the other side," is not only extremely popular on account of his naval successes, but also because of his frank, breezy utterances. "There is a general impression," he once remarked, "that sailors have a sweet-heart in every port. Well, let us say in every other port, for the American boys are great lovers and great fighters. But they want drilling—not in love, but in sea work. Why, some of the boys in my fleet were so green that they had to taste the sea-water to believe there was salt in it. But they are the backbone of the navy, all the same."

Young Man Receives Sum from Father for Not Smoking Before 25.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 16.—Because he did not smoke before reaching the age of twenty-five years, John Gates, son of A. H. Gates, of South Pasadena, received $50,000 as a present. Fifteen years ago the elder Gates, head of the Gates Lumber Company, of Arkansas, entered into an agreement with his three sons—Charles, then seventeen; Don, ten, and Frederick, five—to give each a percentage of his business if he refrained from smoking until his twenty-fifth birthday. Charles reached the required age seven years ago with the pledge unbroken and received his share. Two years ago he smoked for the first time.
