

BH "ENGLISH" PAINT

SAID THE FARMER.—"I never look for bargains in paint—and I wouldn't buy cheap paint at any price. My time is worth money to me, so I use BRANDAM, WENDERSON Limited, 'ENGLISH' Paint whenever I have a job of painting to do. I find B.H. 'ENGLISH' Paint spreads easier than cheap paint—I can do my painting quicker with it. I find too that it holds its color longer—so I don't have to paint so often. All in all, therefore, B.H. 'ENGLISH' is the cheapest of all the paints I have used."

CHAPTER IX.

Forget-Me-Not.

"Pray do not be late, Antonia; but first, come into the drawing-room. I have a note for you to give to Mr. Hales. I wish he would not preach such lengthy sermons, the horses have to wait too long at the church-yard gate too long on Sunday morning."

"As Lady Dove walked along the passage, she made an imperious rustle, sweeping her long train on the ground. She was thinking of several things of importance to her, and not at all of Antonia, when suddenly, on the door of the smaller drawing-room she saw again the terrible words, 'Toney's Time-Table.' She uttered a little shriek.

"Good gracious, Antonia! What's this?"

"I knew I should forget, Aunt Dove, and you said I was to pin it up, so I've done it on every door downstairs."

Lady Dove tore down the offending paper.

"It took me a long time," said Toney sadly; then her spirits rose, "but never mind, it will impress it on my memory, won't it?"

SHE SUFFERED TEN MONTHS

Mrs. Blankenship Tells of Her Restoration to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ellistown, Va.—"I feel it my duty to express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time."

"Now I have been restored to health and it has come from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what this medicine has done for me and I will always speak a good word for it."—Mrs. ROBERT BLANKENSHIP, Ellistown, Va., Montgomery Co.

Was Helpless—Now Well.
Trenton, Mo.—"About two years ago I had female trouble and inflammation so bad that I was literally helpless and had to be tended like a baby. I could not move my body or lift my foot for such severe pains that I had to scream. I was very nervous and had a weakness."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me to such an extent that I think there is no medicine like it for female troubles. I am up and able to do my work again and I give you full permission to publish my letter for the sake of other suffering women."—Mrs. W. T. FURNELL, 320-10th St., Trenton, Mo.

DOCTORS COULD NOT HELP HIM

BUT GIN PILLS DID

"During August last, I went to Montserrat to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone in the Bladder. He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try Gin Pills.

"They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take Gin Pills—and, to my surprise and joy, I passed the stone. Gin Pills are the best medicine in the world, and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life."

and Mrs. Hales came in at this moment. "We must make a place at this table for our new pupil."

"Mother, your face would tame any wild creature."

"Oh, I hope not. A certain amount of animal spirits is delightful; and I can't help laughing when I think of her coming into the room with that dog."

Silvia mentally shrank from the new pupil. She had been so happy enjoying along her brother's teaching that she hated the change. It was only the need of money that made her agree to the plan. The living was much impoverished by the glebe remaining unlet, and Amy's schooling was a great tax upon the home resources. Suddenly Silvia looked up and exclaimed:

"There she is!—and oh, the dog is there too! I really did not offer to educate a dog! I wish you had been asked to take Jeanie and Maud Hamilton instead."

"Such grand young ladies would have frightened me," said the Vicar, laughing. "Poor Silvia! never mind, we must make the best of our young lady."

"Young lady!" sighed Silvia, "the term does not apply to her."

But against all expectations Toney fastened Trick to the scraper and rang the bell in quite a correct fashion. The Vicar hastened to the door. His feelings by no means resembled those of Silvia. Something in Toney's face and in her smile and above all in her love of children had touched him. He held out his hand to her and she shook it cordially.

"I've come, you see," said Toney, "but what on earth I am to learn I can't think."

"Oh, you'll like lessons with Silvia."

"You think so? I don't. Your sister is one of the velvet sort of girls—Mr. Hales, I want to consult you."

"Yes," he was trying not to smile. "Do you—have you ever been married?"

There was not a smile on Toney's face, she was too much in earnest for laughter.

"Married? Oh, no, I have married my parish."

"Then you can't understand. I thought Uncle Dove would, because you see, he is married."

Here Toney laughed.

"Perhaps my mother—if you'll come in—"

CHAPTER X.
The New Pupil.

Silvia Hales was sitting in her brother's study ostentatiously reading; Green's History of the English People but in reality listening for Miss Antonia Whitburn's footsteps. Mr. Hales was jotting down notes to his next Sunday's sermon.

"I don't think I shall like that girl at all. Cecil," said Silvia in her soft voice. "From what mother said of her the other day and from what I saw she must be very extraordinary."

"She is certainly not commonplace," said the Vicar, smiling at the recollection of Lady Dove's tea-party.

"Most unlikable, isn't she?"

"I shouldn't say that. She has a good deal of spirit."

"Spirit? Really, Cecil! She is not our style of girl at all."

"We certainly don't see many like her, if that is what you mean, Silvia."

Silvia shrugged her thin shoulders.

Croup Comes Suddenly

ABOUT midnight the child awoke coughing—that peculiar, metallic cough called croup, and which strikes terror to the mother's heart. Then begins the struggle for breath, and if relief is to be obtained treatment must be prompt and effective.

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup will not hesitate to pronounce it an unequalled success. It is wonderfully prompt in loosening the cough, clearing the air passages of the head, and soothing the excited nerves.

There are imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Be sure you see the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, on the bottle you buy. 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents; at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
