Courteous Though Married.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Oh, yes, I know he was her husband," said Molly, the little stenographer lady authoritatively. "We were discussing the relationship of an interesting couple who sat opposite us on the trolley. 'How?' we asked. 'Because,' said Molly, 'before you people got on I knew they were married. I heard him speak very sharply to her about something.' She said it with entire simplicity, quite without intention of making any humorous comment upon married life, which of course made the comment all the more trenchant. Last summer, one going down to the summer colony for the week end, I found my hostess very anxious to ask me about a certain young man whom I knew personally and she only by sight. They Didn't Pay Any Attention To Each Other."

"He has come to that cottage down the beach to visit," she said, "and they've had a young lady staying with them all summer and he is with her constantly. We thought at first he must be interested in her, but they seem to sit on the piazza all the afternoon reading to themselves and not paying the slightest attention to each other. We can't understand them."

"It's really quite simple," said I. "The young lady who is visiting the G—'s is his wife and he has come down to spend his vacation." "Oh," said my hostess. "Well, that explains why he didn't pay any attention to her."

Again: A group of us at an inn were much interested in a couple at a nearby table. The man was rather fascinating, the fashionable doctor type, Van Dyke beard, a hint of the inscrutable in the set of his face, and a hint of the caressing in his eyes. The woman was distinctly unattractive, of the type which was most unfavourably called the schoolma'am type (seldom have the members of any profession less deserved such a stigma than the well-dressed, up-to-date, charming and frequently pretty schoolma'am of to-day). She was prim in her manner, in the set of her mouth and the do of her hair. Her clothes were good, perhaps expensive, but utterly lacking in the touches that make style.

The Pastime Of Guessing Relationships. We looked at them as often as we dared and indulged in our favorite pastime of discussing their relationship.

"She simply can't be his wife," was the first comment. "See how devoted he is, how he fixed her chair, and how interested he seems in everything she says."

In a way these little incidents are amusing and in a way they are sad. Yes, I know it would be impossible and perhaps undesirable to transplant all the little ceremonies and attentions of courtship life into married existence.

But surely we needn't let them all wither and die away.

The Happy Medium Can Be Made So Happy.

There is a happy medium and in this case it is a very happy medium. Gracious words, thoughtful attentions, mutual forbearance do cost so little effort if we will only get our mind set that way, and they do make life so much sweeter and brighter.

It is often just as easy to say a kind thing as a cutting, and to summer and in the winter eke out an existence in New York and Boston by running railroads or banks, or by speculating in stocks. New Hampshire has made the fortune of many a farmer's boy by driving him to the city.

New Hampshire deals extensively in lumber, stone, hay and scenery. It is also extensively speckled with factories, spinning cotton and wool. The rivers of New Hampshire are the most industrious in the country. A puny, undersized stream which would be drunk up by the cattle in Wyoming in three days if it were there, will run a dozen factories on its way through New Hampshire.

Concord is the capital of New Hampshire, although the Boston and Maine Railroad has often threatened to move the legislature to its offices in Boston, where the state's business could be transacted more conveniently.

Vigorol

If you want to feel well, bright and cheery, full of ambition; be able to move about quick and smartly—VIGOROL, the Great French Tonic, will brace you up—it cleanses the whole system. If the manufacturers could only impress this upon every one who does not feel as they ought to, the world would owe them a great gratitude; but all we can do is to ask you to try one bottle and see for yourself. The change will be wonderful. You need a spring medicine—then take VIGOROL. Sold at all drug stores.

CHILDISH JOYS.

As I went forth, on my ten toes, a snowball hit me on the nose, and knocked that organ out of place, a-spreeding it all over my face. "My blessing on the merry boys," I cried, "and on their harmless joys! I'd gladly sacrifice a nose, out here among the virgin snows, to see the children glad and gay, as I was on a bygone day. If I had noses by the score, I'd see them all bunched up and sore, if that would make the children glad, and this gray world less grim and sad." And while I spoke these words of cheer, a snowball hit me in the ear. It jarred my spinal column loose, and added all my vital juice. I leaned against a fence and said, "What thought that snowball split my head? Some boy was filled with utter glee, when he let drive that shot at me, and if my ruined dome of thought, some comfort to a kid has brought, it surely does not ache in vain; not futile is its grist of pain." And as I freely tottered by, a snowball hit me in the eye.

Grenfell Hall Concert.

The Patriotic Concert given at Grenfell Hall last night was largely attended, amongst those present being His Excellency the Governor, Lady Davidson, Miss Davidson, Rev. Dr. Jones, Hon. R. Watson and many other prominent citizens.

The programme consisted of songs by Misses Jones and Taylor; Messrs. Jones and King; recitations by Miss Curtis and Mr. Eddy; piano solo, Mr. Hurst; violin solo, Miss Johnson; selections by H. M. S. Calypso String Band; mandolin solo, Miss Sharpe and Mr. Thomas; and a sketch entitled, "The Suffragettes."

The principal feature of the programme was the sketch which was presented in a most entertaining manner by Mrs. Outerbridge, Mrs. Colville and Miss Hayward. The selections by the band composed of Messrs. Jago (2), Luxon, Lloyd, Macklin, Laundry and Berley, were particularly pleasing. During the interval His Excellency the Governor, at the request of Rev. Dr. Jones, delivered a short address congratulating Mr. W. H. Jones, Superintendent of the Institute on the caple manner with which he conducted the Institution which he hoped would continue to prosper.

Following the concert refreshments were served and the singing of the National Anthem brought the enjoyable evening to a close. During the evening Misses Johnson and Jones and Mr. Hirst acted as accompanists.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Dandruftine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.

Our Volunteers.

Five more young men presented themselves for enlistment yesterday, as follows:—

Hy. Allardys, Aberdeen, Scotland. Walter Adams, St. John's. John Adams, Harbor Grace. Frank Pumphrey, Hr. Grace. Jas. Hennessey, Hr. Grace.

The total number of enrolments to date is 2,701. During yesterday the men were engaged at indoor drill.

Taken by Mistake.

Two outport men reported to the police yesterday afternoon that a bag of clothing and a valise also filled with clothing, which they had left at the railway station had disappeared. Enquiries elicited the fact that the articles were taken by mistake and would be returned.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them. I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect, that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X. Lamp and GASTHEAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.
