G. KNOWLING, Ltd.One Hundred Men
On An Island.

(From the Chicago Herald and Examiner.)

Put one hundred men on an island where fish is a staple article of sustenance. Twenty-five of the men catch fish. Twenty-five others can the fish. Twenty-five cook a fish. Twenty-five hunt fruit and vegetables. The entire company eats what thus is gathered and prepared. So long as everybody works there plenty. All hands are happy. Ten of the allotted fish catchers by catching fish. Ten more dry and hide part of the fish they catch. Five continue to catch fish, but work only part of the day at it. Fewer fish go into the community kitchen. But the same number of men insist upon having the same amount of fish to eat as they had before. The fifty men who formerly cleaned and cooked the fish have less to do owing to the undersupply of fish. But they continue to demand food. Gradually greater burdens are laid upon the fruit and vegetable hunters. These insist upon a larger share of fish in return for their larger efforts in gathering fruit and vegetables. It is denied them and soon twenty of the twenty-five quit gathering fruit and vegetables. But the entire one hundred men continue to insist upon their right to eat. The daily food supply gradually shrinks. The man with two fish demands three bananas in exchange for one of them. The man with two bananas refuses to part with one for fewer than three fish. Finally, the ten men remaining at work quit in disgust. Everybody continues to eat. The hidden fish are brought to light and consumed. Comes a day when there is no food of any kind. Everybody on the island blames everybody else. What would seem to be the solution? Exactly! We thought you would guess it. For we repeat that you can't eat, buy, sell, steal, give away, hoard, wear, use, play with or gamble with WHAT ISN'T.

Barbara McDonald Wreck.

SAILORS HAD AWFUL EXPERIENCE—TERRIBLE HARDSHIP AND SUFFERING.

The survivors of the Nova Scotian vessel Barbara McDonald, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and put up at the Seamen's Institute. They are: Mate Joshua Whittle, Able Seamen Robert Emberley, Steven H. Pike, Cook Torston, and J. A. McDonald, owner.

They tell a story of awful hardship and suffering. Launched less than a month ago the ill-fated schooner left Cardigan, P. E. I., on the fourth of her maiden trip. Meeting fair weather until Wednesday last the run down was pleasant enough. On this day, however, a S. S. W. wind, which increased during the day and reached the proportions of a hurricane by sundown, was struck, and by early morning on Thursday the gale was so terrific that all sail had to be hauled down and the ship let run before the wind. While assisting at this work the captain, who was a man of about sixty five, was caught by a heavy stern sea and carried overboard into the darkness. He was never seen again. The canvas successfully tied up, the ship was headed to sea and for fifty-two hours was driven before the storm under bare poles. Then the gale abated enough for them to turn back towards land. On their return trip she struck Blackhead Point, three miles this side of Cape Pine, when in a dense fog. It was too rough to lower a boat, and the men had to stand by until daylight next day. The decks were being swept and boats and every other movable article were carried away. The crew huddled on the lee side, and for six hours they clung onto the hull. On Sunday early morning about three o'clock, a great sea carried them ashore on an almost perpendicular cliff of about three hundred feet in height. Bruised and sore they were from long contact with the waves, the seamen started to climb this, and after something like five hours they reached the top. They

by now hear the sound of Cape Pine fog-alarm, and finding their way there were kindly treated by the keeper. Walking from there they reached Trepassay and took the train for here. The members of the crew state that they have never seen worse weather or storm. The Barbara McDonald carried a load of produce for George Neal. The hull was partly covered by insurance, while the cargo was fully covered.
