

Don't Scratch Teeth

Beautify them in this scientific way

Don't try to whiten teeth by use of harsh abrasives. The enamel, if you harm it, won't come back. Polishing agents should be mild, as in Pepsodent.

Combat the dingy film. Do it as millions now are doing—in this scientific way. Then the prettier teeth you see everywhere now will come to you and yours.

The cloudy film

Your teeth are coated with a vicious film. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. When not combated, it forms coats which are the basis of tartar. Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. These cloudy teeth rob millions of much beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed in it, and they,

with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

Ways to end it

Film has been the great tooth problem. Old methods did not end it. So well-brushed teeth discolored and decayed. Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing. Now dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight film. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Careful people the world over now see and feel the results. A new-type tooth paste has been created, made to meet modern requirements. The name is Pepsodent. These two film combatants are embodied in it for daily application.

Five new effects

Pepsodent brings five effects which science now demands. One is to multiply the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth before they ferment and form acids. One is to multiply the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's agent for neutralizing mouth acids—the cause of tooth decay. It leaves the teeth as highly polished that film less easily clings.

All five effects come from every application. So film, starch and acids are constantly combated. Forces are created which night and day fight enemies of teeth. To countless homes, all the world over, this has brought a new era in teeth cleaning. The results will be life-lasting.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE OLD-FASHIONED FATHER.

They tell me I'm old-fashioned, And I fancy that I am, But when meals are four-hour rations And the baby wants to cram Just a little in between 'em, And declares it with a cry, Then I want to contravene 'em, 'Let her eat her fill,' says I.

Oh, I know the rules of science, And its edicts just and terse, And I bow in meek compliance To the doctor and the nurse, It is wise, there's no denying, To be thoughtful in her case; But when hunger starts her crying I would feed her, then and there.

Now they tell me that a baby Cries to get her exercise, And I must admit that maybe Infant science very wise, But when she is exercising For a full straight hour or more, And her yells are louder rising, Then it's time to walk the floor.

Oh, they tell me I must never Swing her gently to and fro, Or I'll be her slave forever, And she'll keep me at the door, Now they seldom let me hold her, For they're fearful as can be, That I'll ride her on my shoulder Or will bounce her on my knee.

I'm an old floor-walking father, And a bouncing dad am I, I'm old-fashioned, yes, my mother Takes her up than let her cry, And I feel an urge compelling, Though they tell me it's unwise, To do something when she's yelling, And to feed her when she cries.

"WHY GIRLS LEAVE HOME" A TRULY GREAT PICTURE.

The Warner Bros. production "Why Girls Leave Home" which is now showing at the Nickel Theatre most decidedly comes under the head of "big pictures." Not only because it is of greater length than the average screen product or because its settings cast and other adjuncts to the story are on a most elaborate scale but because it is big in theme and direct in treatment. "Why Girls Leave Home" goes right at the heart of the problem and does not deviate in the slightest from its purpose of presenting a clearcut and constructive story that reveals not only the reasons but skillfully suggests a correction of them. A masterpiece.

Strange as it may seem, the suave polished villain of popular conception is not the main reason, in fact he is a negligible quantity. The real reason "Why Girls Leave Home" is mainly "the parents." The producers of the pictures have selected two specific instances which, because of their wide contrast, cover a wide range. These two stories develop side by side through a most masterly construction of the scenario and afford solid entertainment every minute.

Anna Q. Nilsson heads a superlative cast which contains the names of over a dozen very prominent players who under the capable supervision of Harry Rapf and W. S. Nichol offer a series of character portrayals that are true to life.

Beautiful photography, elaborate settings and action every minute make "Why Girls Leave Home" a masterpiece.

BILLY'S UNCLE

"Doug's" Latest Picture Greatest Ever Produced.

"The Three Musketeers" Places Fairbanks in Class by Himself as Actor-Producer.

The audience at the Majestic Theatre yesterday was transported backward into the ages a distance of three hundred years through the medium of Douglas Fairbanks' current picture, "The Three Musketeers."

The story, based on Alexander Dumas' greatest novel, has to do with the plot of Cardinal Richelieu to bring about the downfall of Queen Anne of Austria who with King Louis XIII, ruled France in the Seventeenth Century. Being the power behind the throne, Cardinal Richelieu was jealous of the influence exerted by the Queen. In order to discredit the Queen, the Cardinal conspired to involve her in an affair with the Duke of Buckingham, prime minister of England.

His plot was frustrated through the heroic work of D'Artagnan and his loyal friends, the three Musketeers, in the most amazing series of adventures, duels and thrills that have ever been pictured.

Douglas Fairbanks' work as D'Artagnan entitles him to a position on the topmost rung of the ladder of fame. He is more restrained, by far more dramatic than in anything he has ever done before. His love-making is of the sort that rings true; it is neither silly nor over-done. The scene in which he comes to the Queen exhausted but with the jewels he was sent to recover is one of the most dramatic and realistic ever seen on either stage or screen.

Marguerite De La Motte's work in the part of Constance, the little seamstress who was the Queen's closest companion, and who was also in love with the intrepid and resourceful D'Artagnan, is one of the most naive interpretations this clever little actress has ever given us.

Every other part is splendidly cast. Most notable among the players are Adolphe Menjou as King Louis XIII, Mary MacLaren as Queen Anne, Nigel De Bruiter as Cardinal Richelieu, Thomas Holding as the Duke of Buckingham, Barbara La Marr as Milady de Winter, Boyd Irwin as Rochefort, Lon Poff as the gaunt, spectral monk, Father Joseph; Willis Robards as De Treville, captain of the King's Musketeers, and Leon Barry, George Slegmann and Eugene Pallette as the three Musketeers.

Medicine Men.

In all times some degree of healing power has been ascribed to the priesthood. Medicine men, mystic men, shamans, or by whatever name they might be called, were to be found in every tribe of North American Indians. Some of these knew the medicinal qualities of roots and herbs and practiced rude surgery, and others were "fakers." A medicine man of the Dalapal, a Yuman tribe on the Colorado river, says John G. Bourke in an article on the Apache medicine men, would cast a bullet in a mold containing a small piece of paper. The healer would have an Indian kneel to him and the lead, because of the paper, would split into pieces and do him no harm. Another would secretly fasten the end of a roll of sinew to a twig, swallow the twig and hold the twig between his teeth. After the sinew had softened and expanded "because of the heat and moisture of the stomach" the magician would astound his friends, Bourke says, by drawing out yard after yard, declaring he did not need intestines, and was pulling them all out.—Adventure Magazine.

The Potential Value Of Figures.

Probably you remember the old story of the man who objected to a blacksmith's charge for shoeing his horse. "Very well," said the smith, will you give me a farthing for the first nail I drive, a halfpenny for the second, a penny for the third, and so on?" The man agreed, thinking that he was making a good bargain.

Supposing that there were five nails in each of the four shoes, how much do you think the last one came to? No less than 1,048,576 farthings, or £1,092 5s. 4d!

When you come to doubling a thing over and over again the increase is amazingly rapid after the sixth or seventh step. The tenth doubling gives 512; the thirteenth 1,073,741,824; the 60th, 1,152,921,672, 406,846,976—a truly appalling string of figures.

You can see from this how a cold, influenza, or any other disease caused by microbes becomes worse so rapidly once it has started. Most microbes double themselves once in a day, and so a cold in the nose or throat therefore reaches the 20th step in five hours, the 30th in six and a half and the 60th in fifteen.

Can you wonder that a cold is bad when you realize that your body contains a microbe population equal to a thousand million times the whole human population of the earth?

Prizes for the Elimination Race.

To date two entries have been received for the Nova Scotia Fishermen's races off Halifax, the winner of which will go to Gloucester to defend the International Fishermen's trophy. These are the speedy Blue-nose, Capt. Angus Walters, of Lunenburg, 1921 winner of the cup, and the Canada, Capt. Joseph Connor, which competed in last year's series, finishing second in the first race and bringing up the rear in the second. Canada has many admirers, who say that she was not in her best trim in the 1921 contest and may make an altogether different showing this year.

Entry of the schooner Mahaska, commanded by Captain Mack, and built at Lunenburg this year by Smith and Ruhlman for W. C. Smith and Company, is hoped for. The Mahaska has many friends in Lunenburg and elsewhere who regard her as a dangerous rival for the Blue-nose and who look forward to seeing a contest between these two splendid vessels.

At a meeting of the Nova Scotia Race Committee yesterday afternoon, it was decided to revise the prize list as follows: $5000 and the Nova Scotia Trophy to the winner; $1000 to the boat securing second place in the series; and $800 to the schooner finishing third. The winner, going to Gloucester, will receive, if it is understood, the $5000 voted by the Dominion Parliament and at Gloucester she stands to receive another $2000 if she loses or $3000 if she wins.—Morning Chronicle.

Rural Route No. 1, Mascouche, Quebec. The Minard's Liniment People. "Sir—I feel that I should be doing a wrong if I neglected to write you. I have had four tumors growing on my head for years. I had them cut off by a surgeon about fifteen years ago but they came again till about three months ago I had one as large and shaped like a lady's thumb, on the very place where my hair should be parted, and it was getting so embarrassing in public that it was a constant worry to me. About three months ago I got a bottle of your liniment for another purpose and saw on the label good for tumors. Well I tried it and kept it for exactly two months, with the result that it has entirely removed all trace of the tumor, and were it not that they had been cut off fifteen years ago, no mark would have been seen. I have not asked for this testimonial and you can use it as you see fit."

New Brunswick, N.J., Sept. 20.—The inquiry into the killing last week of the Rev.
