

The Foster Brother;

The Orphan of the Wreck.

CHAPTER XXV.
THE JOINTS OF FRIENDSHIP—THE LUNATIC
ARMY—A MEETING OF FRIENDS.

"Harry, Harry," burst out George, "Is anything wrong at Ardgoon? Has anything happened to Lillian?"

"Lillian well, as far as I know; but you—I could not tell till I had seen you and had my horrible doubt confirmed or dispelled."

"What doubt?" asked George.
"Tell me this. Did you see my father and Nathan Garrett after we parted?"
George started. The question was so simple, and yet so important, that he almost seemed to have forgotten to answer it. He looked at Harry, and then at the ground, and then at Harry again. He could only reply that he had not seen them.

"But did you not get my note in the morning?" cried George.
"Not till night," said Harry. "I imagine then your state, especially with the discovery we had made."
"How surprising that the letter should have been delivered to such a messenger. The landlord of the inn assured me that he was faithful. Had he been prompt likewise, your anxiety and sorrow would have been spared."

"Hush, Harry! For my sake—for all our sakes—let the matter rest," cried Harry, appealing with passionate vehemence to the doctor. "He has revealed the truth to you, I know."

"And if he has," answered the latter, "no one knows better than you how the confidence must be respected. My dear boy," he added, laying his hands affectionately on Harry's shoulders, "if there is anything painful to think of, why seek to aggravate it by either putting your question or insisting on an answer? George says truly when he asks for all our sakes that the matter may rest under silence."

"Confirmed—confirmed," groaned Harry, "and yet the confirmation was not needed. Their guilt was stamped on both their faces."
"Their guilt," repeated George, with a questioning look, "seen in their faces—what mean you?"

"I mean that when I appeared before them and charged them with the crime they—"
"What! you did this?" interrupted George, with startled energy.
"I did. Why should I not? Nay, how could I refrain, seeing that I had such proof for the suspicion?"

"You—you charged them with—"
"With having murdered you," said Harry, hoarsely.
"And they?" questioned George, with faltering eagerness.
"Their tongues denied it, but their blanched faces were confusion enough for me. I told them in their teeth they did, and left them, proclaiming my intention to bring them both to justice. And by the heaven above us, George, I solemnly swear that this I would have done, my father though he be."

CASH!

TREMENDOUS SUCCESS!

Ready Pay Principle Victorious!

THE NEW STORE

"CASH" is now doing Double the Amount of Trade for Ready Pay than any Credit Establishment in Guelph is doing.

WHY?
Because for Ready Pay a small profit only is asked, the money is turned over five times when Ready Pay is made, but the credit system entails an extra per centage added in making goods, in order to guard against bad debts. The man who gives credit cannot buy his goods as well as the man who does not.

WHY?
Because he has to buy his stock on credit, and is thereby deprived of the large saving to be made by buying for cash, but the man who sells for ready pay has the money in hand when he goes to market, and can take every benefit that the trade will offer. Such being the case, who can wonder at the great rush there is going on at present at the new store. "CASH" is creating quite a panic among the slow coaches who have been living at their ease on large profits, and he is now going to make a shaking among the dry bones.

Hurry up with your money. Don't forget the spot.
