THEY SHIVER ON THE BRINK. A Washington dispatch says that the hitch in the matter of sending the Dominion Commissioners to Washington to negotiate a reciprocity treaty is due to two things: First, to the inability of Sir John Macdonald and Secretary Blaine to come to an agreement as to the articles which shall be considered; second, to the fact that Newfoundland and the Dominion have not come to an understanding.

It is known that Secretary Blaine has refused to enter on negotiations for reciprocity in natural products alone, in accord with his declared policy to have all-round reciprocity or nothing. But it must not be supposed that even reciprocity in natural products is wanted by the Dominion Government, if indeed it knows what it does

In the West, the Conservative leaders lenounced the idea of reciprocity in farm products as inimical to the interests of the agriculturists. If they proceed with reciprocity in natural products, these men must belie their words, and leave supporters like Mr. Marshall in a strange quan-Then in the East the Conservative leaders pledged their party's support to the continuance of the duties on coal, no mat-ter how seriously they handicap the railways and the manufacturers in these great central Provinces. It is true that Sir Charles Tupper, when he attempted to bribe the Grand Trunk manager into intimidating his employes to vote solidly for trade restriction, professed to believe that Sir John Macdonald favors the removal of the tax on coal. The elder Tupper labored to convince Mr. Seargeant that his son (the Hon. C. H. Tupper), when he supported the coal duty in a mining constituency, was, to put it mildly, compelled by political exigency to resort to falsehood. But if there ere any doubts as to the position of the Conservative wirepullers on this subject it is smoved by the declaration of the Halifax "The Advertiser" looks forward with Herald, which now strongly argues that Si Charles Tupper was himself insincere when Herald, which now strongly argues that Sir he held out to Mr. Seargeant the prospect that the duties on coal would be abandoned. The Herald asserts that the special privileges of the mining companies will not be bandoned, though it is known that some of the more enterprising of the mine owners would prefer perfect freedom to trade with our neighbors in the States to a restricted market that keeps them out of the trade of the New England States.

The fact of the matter is that the men now in power at Ottawa have twisted and turned so much that their most zealous adherent cannot tell what they do want. It yould not be surprising if they had to delare, by word or deed, that they did not themselves. They have professed a desire for reciprocity one day, and withdrawn it the next; have argued in favor of eciprocity in natural products with the States, when they knew they could not get it, and have on many occasions labored to convince the people that even that descripocity would be an injury to them. The United States Secretary is to be excused if he is pretty firm with a set of men who have been so persistently working at cross-purposes, and asks, with a pointedness that cannot be got over: "What do you want?" Because the adventurers do not know what they want, or are so hemmed in by promises to the com bines, they hesitate to respond to Mr. Blaine's query. Indeed, the principal concern of the Conservative leaders seems to be to keep the question drifting until after Parliament meets, and thus, if possible, avoid discussion and exposure. In this they should be foiled.

AVERT THE CRISIS! A contemporary points out that Mr. Carling is no longer a member of Parliament, but that he is still Minister of Agriculture, and it suggests that he ought to resign. The suggestion is respectfully referred to our ex-member for his consideration. Meanwhile, while reminding our contemporary that great bodies move slowly, we would, in fairness, refer Mr. Carling's case, as well as that of the other defeated Minister, Mr. Colby, to that oracle of the proprieties, the To ronto Empire. On June 26, three weeks after the Ontario elections were held, the Empire reached the conclusion that an outrage of the most stupendous character was in process of perpetration because Mr. Drury and Mr. Gibson had been defeated, and no one had taken their place in the Cabinet. Here follows the Toronto organ's stirring arraignment:

"How much longer is Mr. Mowat going to indulge his taste for irresponsible dictatorship and centralized autocracy by governing the Province of Ontario with about helf a Cokingt?" When Ministers erning the Province of Ontario with about half a Cabinet? . . . When Ministers are disqualified by losing their seats they are in principle, and according to the spirit of our constitution, no longer responsible advisers of the executive and administrations of the problem of the spirit of the second spirit of the sp advisers of the executive and administra-tors of our public affairs. . . . Mr. Mowat is setting this principle of our Gov-ernment at defiance. Any executive action is in such circumstances a mere farce. The fact that Mr. Mowat thus shirks a further appeal to the people and hesitates to face the danger of fresh Ministerial defeats, emphasizes the truth that his position in the country, instead of being strengthened as his organs falsely boast, is really weakened."

The opponents of reciprocity in bananas, anges and peanuts are not losing their sleep over the outrageous conduct of the Dominion authorities in extending the time limit in which Cabinet vacancies hould be filled beyond the three weeks set by the Conservative organ; but it is just possible that there may be a crisis in the ranks of the Conservative office-seekers-among the M. P.s who would fain write Hon. before their names. For this cause, we earnestly request the Empire to ome to the rescue, and once more formulate an indictment of the men who bring the country to the brink of a dreadful abyss by unconstitutional conduct.

At one time it was governed by power, and defied every torce that attacked them. But by last century their irfluence had decayed, and in 1770 British troops occupied a portion of their territory. It has also been settled that since the time of the civil war the negro population has made no perceptible movement northward. With the exception of the District of Columbia, the States bordering on the South have lost colored population rather than gained, and during the last decade there becomes apparent a southward movement of the colored element from the leader States into those dorselved in the morning or in the night with head ache. ation.

The popular feeling against Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs Jackson has rapidly increased of late, and on Saturday evening a mob of indignant residents of Clitheree attempted to burn Mrs. Jackson in effigy. In response to a call quietly circulated hundreds of persons gathered in the market place and marched in procession through the chief streets bearing the effigy aloft. The police became aware of the purpose of the mob, and when the crowd arrived at the house occupied by Mrs. Jackson they found the constables guarding it in strong force.

Finding themselves foiled in their original purpose, the mob became furious. After a hasty consultation of the leaders, the street lights were extinguished, and the crowd attacked the house with stone and other missiles, smashing the window. and other missiles, smashing the windows and doing other damage, the utmost efforts of the police being necessary to prevent the rioters from effecting an entrance to the building. The maddened people then proceeded to Mrs. Baldwin's house, which proceeded to Mrs. Baldwin's house, which they pelted with stones, mud, sticks, etc., breaking many windows, and, but for the timely arrival of a large posse of police, would have battered down the doors. The mob fought desperately in their attempts to get into the house, but the police finally succeeded in dispersing them.
