The laws of the state will not allow him to take a carcass out of the country, but if by any chance a buck could be smuggled across the line he would be seized by the Canadian authorities for the deer season here is yet a long way off.

—Miss Margaret Wallace, who is a medical missionary in China, has written from Wei Ha Wei to her sister, Miss Jean Wallace, of this city, under date of Aug. 12. News had just been received of the relief of Pekin, but there were no particulars. A celebration was being arranged for that evening, in which the worshipful Terrible would take a leading part. The nurses were preparing for the sick and wounded to come down from the front. Miss Wallace says: "I have seven new patients down from Tokio yesterday. Three of them were at Lady Smith. Two of them have phthisis. Poor boys. They want good feeding. Three of us are running the canteen hospital, and it is hard work. We have now 64 men. I would rather have them very sick than well enough to run the guard and get drunk, as some of them do. The English are great for beer and stout, and they get it pretty freely, as the water is not good tasting—condensed sea water. My wind stores are in Shanghai and have ordered them up. The only thing I need is a winter coat. I have none at all. Have to wear a steamer rug, like an Indian. We got some chairs, bureaus and tables lent to us, so we are well stocked. . . . We expect the hospital ship that was in Africa to come here, Lady Churchill in command. A lot leaving for England today, to make room for those coming from the front."

JULIA ARTHUR WILL ACT AGAIN.
Something like a mild sensation is caused by the announcement that Julia Arthur intends playing Hamlet. It recalls the famous Patti gobs of farewell. Last year Miss Arthur declared she would never, never act again, and that she was quite content to settle down in Boston as Mrs. Eastman F. Cheney. But it is as hard for her to give up the fascinating life behind the footlights as it is for all the host of other actors and actresses who have tried it and failed. Consequently her added statement that this is really the last attempt creates amusement. Miss Arthur has an original interpretation of Hamlet. It is not like the divine Sarah, nor in fact patterned after any conception of modern times. Possessing a millionaire husband, Miss Arthur can well afford a production which rumor says will put all Hamlets in the background, if for a other reason than its scenic magnificence. Costumes and ideas are to be obtained in Europe, and the tragedy will be presented some time next March at the Broadway Theater. In a few weeks the actress starts on a private car tour of her husband's road, the Santa Fe.

HURON COLLEGE ALUMNI

Interesting Morning and Afternoon Sessions Held Yesterday—Able Papers Presented.

The sessions of the Huron College Alumni Association yesterday were very interesting.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was partaken of at St. Paul's Cathedral at 9:30. The meeting of the association was continued at Huron College, Rev. S. F. Robinson, of Walkerton, occupying the chair.

Rev. G. M. Cox read an admirable paper on "The Leading Characteristics of St. Luke's Gospel," pointing out the character traits that it is a Gospel especially adapted to the needs of the world at large as distinguished from the Jewish people, and laying great stress upon St. Luke's lengthy account of our Lord's Passion ministry, which, while it occupied only two months in time, is given nearly ten chapters in space by St. Luke—chapters which contain parables such as the Good Samaritan and the Prodigal Son, which have wielded such a mighty influence upon the whole world.

The animated and highly instructive discussion which followed was engaged in by Revs. J. Downie, Provost Watkins, D. Williams, of Stratford, and W. Stout, of Kirtland. In the discussion it was ably maintained by Provost Watkins and the Rev. D. Williams that St. Matthew's Gospel was written originally in the Greek language, and that the writers of the New Testament had a fair general education, while some are acknowledged to have been scholars. Renan's acknowledgment concerning St. Luke's Gospel was quoted: "This is the most beautiful book there is." Rev. William Stout drew attention to the fact that the pure Hebrew was a dead language at the time of our Lord.

Provost Watkins moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Cox, and also that the paper be printed.
Rev. S. F. Robinson read a paper on "Church Lessons from Canadian History," which proved to be a most interesting and powerful exposure of the quarters from which the church had been opposed and despoiled in the past, and contained a stirring appeal to the clergy to uphold to the utmost her claims upon the people of her own communion and to guard against the influences which militate against her progress in Canada today. The speaker in the most fearless manner gave his reasons for believing that the different church divisions, which were politically more opposed to the Church of England than they are to the Church of Rome.

IN THE AFTERNOON.

Rev. John Downie gave a searching paper on "Consecration," in which he reviewed the leading saviors of the Old Testament and the New, and showing that separation unto God was a distinguishing feature of God's people in all ages. A ship is safe in the sea, but not safe if the sea is in the ship; so the church is safe in the world, but not if the world is in the church.

Rev. R. S. W. Howard, B.A., gave an excellent paper on the need of systematic teaching of fundamental church doctrine. He maintained that the pendulum had swung too far on the side of instruction in practical goodness as a natural reaction against the excessive doctrinal teaching of earlier days. The various heretical cults, as spiritualism, Christian Science, etc., were strongly dogmatic, and the best means of guarding against these false teachings of the day was by solid instruction in the sound doctrine. Many popular novels were now written with the view of insidiously instilling false teaching. The reconstruction that is needed is that return to the old doctrines which are the true basis of all truly religious life.

Rev. T. S. A. Wright, B.A., spoke at length in support of Mr. Howard's paper, maintaining that the Church of England is above all things a teaching church.
Rev. F. G. Newton spoke of the growth in the creeds, the church year, and the Thirty-Nine Articles, which he had received as a child. He advocated instruction on the doctrines of sin, atonement, etc., natural and orderly procession upon certain evenings.

Revs. Canon Hill, A. P. Moore and others continued the discussion.
Rev. F. G. Newton, of Warwick, read a deeply earnest and helpful paper on "The Quiet Hour as a Source of Power." Many ministers were conscious of a lack of power, and in various ways the priceless benefits of an hour each day privately, in prayer with God, in reading and meditating upon his word, were set forth. As the Israelites gathered their manna early, so we should get our spiritual food early in the day.

This paper was considered of such an impressive nature as to be more helpful without being subjected to discussion.
After votes of thanks to the speakers, the bishop gave a few encouraging words. He said: "We want not more gold in the treasury, but more inner communion with God and more and more of the love of God shed abroad in the hearts of our people. Not the declaration of dogma, but the drawing nearer to the personal Saviour, is what will draw us near to one another." He exhorted the members to keep up the association and to strengthen one another. After prayer by the bishop the alumni adjourned to the annual supper.

CHAIRMAN OF NO. 3

Ald. Garratt Chosen to Succeed Ald. Plant—Fire Department Affairs.

It was necessary last night to appoint a successor to Ald. Plant as chairman of No. 3 committee. Ald. Wray was the choice of Ald. Dreaney and Ald. Ross, while Ald. Jenkins and Ald. Garratt supported Ald. Pritchard. To break the deadlock Ald. Dreaney suggested Ald. Garratt's name, and he was unanimously elected.

Chief Roe suspended Fireman Tom Hartley, who left his work the other day without reporting. He had to attend to some legal matters. The suspension was reported to the committee, who decided to leave the affair in the chief's hands. The latter intimated that Hartley would be reinstated, but the pay of his substitute will be deducted from him.
