How He Earned Candy.

One summer afternoon a group of children were playing at the end of a pier that projects into Lake Ontario, near Kingston. The proverbial careless child of the party made a backward step from the pier into the water. None of his companions could save him, and their cries had brought no one from the shore, when, just as he was sinking for the third time, a superb Newfoundland dog rushed down the pier into the water and

Those of the children that did not ac pany the boy home, took the dog to a contectioner's on the shore and fed him with as great a variety of cakes and other sweets as So far-the story is, of course, only typical of scores of well-known cases The individuality of this case is left for the

The next afternoon the same group o children were playing at the same place, when the canine hero of the day before came trotting down to them with the most friendly wags and nods. There being no occasion this time for supplying him with delicacies, the children only stroked and petted him. The dog, however, had not come out of pur sociability. A child in the water and cakes and candy stood to him in the close and ob vious relation of cause and effect, and if this relation was not clear to the children, he resolved to impress it upon them. Watching his chance, he crept up behind the child nearest the edge of the pier, gave a sudden push, which sent him into the water, then sprang in after him and gravely brought him tend her household duties, and at times confined to her bed.

Allowing this lady to diagnose her own case: "I always felt weak and tired, and at night I could not rest on account of nervousness, which made my life miserable, and my body became wasted almost to a skeleton. Friends despaired of my ever getting strong again. During all this time I doctored, and took several patent medicines. Some doctors claimed it to be womb trouble, and desired to perform an operation. I was induced by a local druggist to try South American Nervine, and the first bottle gave me great relief. I have taken in all eight bottles, and am now completely well, and I always keep a bottle on hand, as I believe it to be the best medicine ever put on the market."

Running all risk of reiteration, for this is Running all risk of reiteration, for this is a case where the grand truths of what South American Norvine will do can not be too often told, the fact that this remedy strengtheus at the nerve centres, from which point flows the life blood of the system, is the real secret of the marvelous success that attends its use. It does not stop at removing disease and wiping out nervous troubles. It is a great health builder and flesh builder, and men and women who knew not robust health before enjoy all these pleasures after having taken this medicine.
