On one occasion, it matters not when, a man was heard boasting of the remarkable efficiency of a yeomanry corps to which he belonged: "Why, sir," he exclaimed, "they allow three men to each horse in the regiment."

"Three men to each horse; what's that for?" queried one of his listeners.

"One to ride and the other two to hold him on," proudly replied the warrior, as he absent-mindedly drained off someone else's whiskey and went out.

A dear old gentleman, who is deeply interested in Sunday-schools, and who never loses an opportunity to pray for them, recently embodied the following singular request in his petition at prayer-meeting:

"Dear Lord, bless the lambs of this fold, and make them meet for the kingdom of heaven."

Wealthy Man (to beggar).—No, I shall not assist you, and you needn't envy me my riches. With all my wealth I'm wretched, for I'm a martyr to indigestion.

Beggar—Well, gov'ner, I've 'card a lot about hindigestions but I've never 'ad the chance of 'avin' it. All I arks is gov'ner, gimme the chance!
