The most exaggerated reports reached Dublin, where, as well as in the immediate neighbourhood, the most lively interest was excited ; the recent nuptials of the pair, the Marquis's kindness-he had just forgiven his tenants a whole year's rent-and the engaging demeanour of the bride, were circum-stances which gave more than usual interest to the accident. PARLIAMENTARY. (From the N. Y. Albion.)

Of Parliamentary Intelligence we observe that in the House of Lords, on the 21st ult., the adjourned debate on the third reading of the Income Tax Bill was resumed. The Marquis of Clanricarde moved that the bill be read a third time that day three months, when the same was negatived by 99 to 28. And on the 30th, the Earl of Mountcashel drew the attention of the House to the vast number of emigrants from Great Britain and America to Canada, and asked if the government would guarantee the fulfilment of the pledge given by the House of Assembly, in 1841, to execute certain public works in Canada? The Duke of Wellington said there was no intention on the part of the government to depart from any of the pledges given on the subject referred to. So far as our inform Baillie moved for copies of the correspondence of Sir Alexander Burnes with the Governor-General of India, during his mission to Ca-bul, in the year 1837 and 1838, with other documents connec-ted with the ted with the occupation of Affghanistan. The honourable gentleman and Mr. D'Israeli severely attacked the Indian policy of the late Government, which was defended by Sir John Hob-house, Lord Palmerston and Lord John Russell. Sir Robert Peel objected to the production of the papers moved for, on the ground that it would be inconvenient to the public service. Mr. Baillie then wished to withdraw his motion, but Mr. Hume ar. Ballie then wished to withdraw his motion, but Mr. Hume pressed it to a division, when it was lost by a majority of 75 to 9. The following resolution was, on the motion of Mr. W. E. Gladstone, agreed to in committee on the Customs' Duties Bill, —"That it is expedient to permit foreign wheat to be delivered, under certain regulations, from the warehouse or the ship duty free, upon a substitution into the warehouse, or the delivery for exportation of equivalent qualities of flour and biscuit." On the 24th Mr. Lawson moved that the Poor Law Amendment bill he divided into two parts. Sir James Graham said.

SCINDE.—From Scinde our latest intelligence is also of a favourable nature. Pursuant to peremptory orders from Gene-ral Nott, Brigadier England, with 2500 men, left Quettah on the 26th of April for Candahar, a portion of the force at the latter place having been detached so as to meet General Eng-land and sid him in activity the convert through the Krister mediation by Great Britain between the Republic of Maxico and Texas; and a treaty granting reciprocal right of search for the suppression of the African Slave Trade. On Saturday evening last, we took a hurried walk through the chief part of the town, and were really struck not o with the rapid improvements making in the streets, but also with the number and elegance of the buildings now in course

To enumerate all would be a task beyond our recollection but some of the most prominent may here be mentioned. First, then, we may allude to the new Jail and Court-House, now in course of erection, of hewn stone, and which, when completed, will exceed, not alone in architectural beauty, but so in expense, beauty of situation, security, health, and commodation, probably any similar building in the British ossessions on the continent of North America.

Next to the Court-House, in point of expense, importance and beauty of situation, is the splendid mansion, now nearly finished, of Sidney Jones, Esq. This building, when com-pleted, will be one of the most commodious in this country, and will not be surpassed by any in its scite, and the neatnes and will not be surpassed by any in its serie, and the neathers and elegance of the gardens and pleasure grounds by which it is surrounded. In succession to Mr. Sidney Jones, we may place the residence of Mrs. Charles Jones, on King-street, which has been thoroughly remodelled, within and without, and presents to the eye one of the most pleasing objects in town. In addition to these, we also find on King-street the most endities of the series and the Paul Glasfied For most active preparations being made, by Paul Glasford, Esq., for the erection of a splendid stone building, between the residence of Mr. Buell and the shop of Mr. Flint. Nor is this all, on King-street Mr. Joseph Taylor, Mr. James Kincaid, and Mr. Fields have each contributed their mite to the beauty of the town, and to the employment of mechanical labour, by the erection of buildings, which we earnestly hope may amply repay their industry and enterprise. Passing north from King-street, we find that on Perth-street Richard Baker and Thomas Wright have each erected two or more buildings, which are (particularly Mr. Baker's) of a substantial kind. From Perth-street, proceeding east along Church street, it is amazing the great improvements which strike the eye. There we find four new stone buildings in Church street, it is amazing the given we stone buildings in strike the eye. There we find four new stone buildings in course of erection, by Mr. Edward Harrison; a very neat cot-tage in course of completion, by Mr. John Stacy; and the splendid stone building of Mr. David Mair, so thoroughly re-paired and adornes as to appear stresh from the mason's ham-mer and the painter's brush. And again, in rear of Church-street, we find several mechanics erecting buildings, which, more or less, contribute their quota to the growth and pros-perity of the town. Between King-street and the river, we find Mr. Mair making all necessary preparation for the erection of eight making all necess

On the east side of the east market square, Ormond Jones, Esq, has placed a build-ing, which is now being finished, and which is, we understand, intended for a hotel. To the east of the wharf of Messrs. H. and S. Jones, Mr. Houghton and Mr. Coulton have erceted a arge stone building, intended for a foundry; while, close to the north-west of the wharf, the Messrs. Jones are now busily grouged in a resting store building intended for a full state. To the east of the wharf of Messrs. H. and S. engaged in erecting an additional stone building, intended, we believe, for a forwarding store and office. On the west of Mr. Sanderson's, the Messrs. Chaffy have lately erected several buildings, enlarged their wharf, and enclosed the vacant lot of Nr. Fliut, with a view to carrying on their extensive business Mr. Finit, with a view to carrying on the view of the set of the s built a very handsome addition. To this, we may add, that Ormond Jones, Esq., has lately, we understand, sold several lds in front of his residence, which have been purchased by Mr. John Taylor, the Messrs. Stewarts, and others, with a view to the immediate erection of stone buildings upon them.

Nor should we omit to mention the enclosure of the burial-ground of the Established Church, by one of the best and most substantial walls in the Province; also the thorough repair and additions within, and the enclosure without, of the Roman Catholic chapel : while the draining, by underground severs, of the streets, the levelling of their surface, the faging of the side walks, and the great pains taken in the platting of acacia, locust, maple, and other shade trees, amply denonstrate the taste and enterprise of the people, and their desire to add to the comfort, beauty, and health of the town.

GRAFTON, IN THE NEWCASTLE DISTRICT.

(From the Cobourg Star.)

A few days since, business and pleasure uniting, we visited the village of Gratton, about eight miles east of this town. Graton is certainly one of the most pleasantly situated and happy looking villages along the mail route between Kingston and foronto, and its beauty has been very much enhanced by the improvements lately made. The inhabitants have, by public subscription among themselves, constructed side walks rough the whole extent, and two churches are in a state of grat forwardness; one belonging to the Congregation of the Church of England; and annexed, we believe, to the Coborg Rectory, is a neat and substantial frame building, showing great taste; the other a Presbyterian church, holds a
