LETTER FROM ST. ROMUALD.

On Thursday, the 19th January, a service for the repose of the soul of the late Rev. P. T. Sax, fermer cure of St. Romuald, was sung at the request of the Reverend Sisters of Notre Dame Convent of this parish. The choral parts of the service were magnificently rendered by the Convent pupils, assisted by the Messrs. Gravel and Desmarais, whose musical services on more than one occasion have been brought into requisition and thoroughly appreciated. The large number who were present was another convincing proof of the reverence and affection with which the reverend deceased was regarded by his parishioners. Two masses for the dead were also sung last week at the request of the pupils of New Liverpool school as a slight token of gratitude for numerous acts of kindness at the hands of their deceased banefactor. On the 23rd December the remains of the late Rev. P. T. Sax were consigned to their last resting place beneath the grand altar of the magnificent temple of which he was the founder. Few, if any, will easily forget the profound sorrow with which the news of his death was received. For several years past he had been ailing, and, at length, three years ago, finding the cares of a large parish were becoming too ardnous for his fast-declining strength, he tendered his resignation to the Archbishop, and, amid the teurs of his congregation, pronounced his farewell with visible signs of emotion depicted on his features. Immediately after High Mass on that memorable day, the citizens of Hyacinthe presented an address to their beloved pastor, expressing regret at the loss they were about to experience, and thanking him at the same time for the innumerable benefits he conferred upon the parish which he had governed for twenty-four years with such admirable wisdom and discretion. Shortly after his resignation, he took his departure for the Holy Land, and after visiting the various spots sauctified by the presence of Our Divine Saviour, he returned to Quebec and took up his residence at St. Romuald. His health had always been precarious, and in the summer of 1881 he had an attack of paralysis from which he only partially recovered. Finally, on the night of the 20th December, he succumbed to a stroke of apoplexy, and expired two hours later, the last rites of the Church being administered by Reverend Father Hoffman, cure of St. David. The whole parish was plunged into mourning; the regret was deep and universal; it seemed as if each family had lost one of its most mourners to pay their tribute of respect and take a last look at the placid and saintly

LETTER FROM QUEBEC.

Don't begin to blow too hard about your Land League collection in Montreal. All things considered the Quebec boys are a long way ahead of you. At last night's meeting a remittance of four hundred dollars

Like all Northern animals the "Quebecquois" is very sleepy in the winter time, but just stir him up a bit, and you will find he is all there. On the twentieth instant the Lard Reague will give a concert in the hall in rear of St. Patrick's Church in commemoration of Ireland's declaration of independence, and every Irishman with a soul inside of his four hones is bound in duty to be present. The Presideut of the League, Mathew A. Hearn, Eaq. Q.C, one of the ablest lawyers in the Dominion and an eloquent speaker, will deliver an address suitable to the occasion.

The late cashier of the Banque Nationale F. Vezins, is deservedly regretted by all clares. Unlike others in similar positions. he was at all times a gentleman. The new cashier, P. Lafrance, Eeq., is a young man of ability and possesses also that courtesy which distinguished his lamented predecessor.

Death has been remarkably active among Quebecers of late. Within a few days of each other two old residents have passed away to the quiet world beyond, regretted by all their friends. I refer to Messrs. John Lane, Sr., and Patrick Lawler. Both were among the earliest Irish settlers in Quebec. and left after them honest and upright names, creditable alike to themselves and the Irlah element. May they rest in peace.

That "egg" has not been hatched yet. Why does not the Daily Telegraph send a reporter to interview the Major-Generals and Brigadiers up in the Citadel on the question. Was it "Yalla soap" or "bottled earthquake," or what was it? Surely the public that pays the niner for these scientific heroes ought to know if "bottled earthquakes" are thrown around promiscuously in a crowded thorough. Sare or not.

In the first terrible winter spent by the Pilgrims at Plymouth, in Massachusetts, the seods of pulmonary disease were planted, and took deep root in families which became the progenitors of thousands of the American people. The prevalence of consumption, thus early developed, directed the attention of the most eminent physicians and scientific men to an investigation of its cause and the means of prevention and cure. The best results of professional studies on this subject are combined in Dr. J. C. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is now recognized as the world's remedy for coughs, colds. consumption and other diseases of the throat and lungs. We believe it to be absolutely certain in its remedial effect. It is a safe, pleasant and reliable remedy, and if kent on hand in every household will prove, in many cases of colds. coughs, &c., a means of preventing more serious results .- Richmond, Va., Religious Herald.

THE SLOSSON-VIGNAUX BILLIARD MATCH.

THE AMERICAN PLAYS A MAGNIFICENT GAME, AND WINS-CHILDISH CONDUCT OF THE DEFEATED -- HISSED BY HIS OWN COUNTRYMEN-IN-TRASE EXCITEMENT.

Panis, Feb. 3.-To-night the Slossou-Viguaux billiard match was resumed at twenty minutes past nine. The crowd was so great that in the rush to get into the room the entrance door was broken down Marshal AcMahon vainly attempted to get in, and, after waiting a long time, went away disappointed. When the game was resumed this evening the score from yesterday stood: Slosson, 2,400; Vignaux 2.084. Slosson continuing his interrupted break ran 17, followed up in the next inning by 136. Vignaux in the second inning making beloved members. From all parts came | 87, when for some time open table play and small scores were the result. In the seventh inning Vignaux ran 189, missing on a masse features of the pastor who had lived and died shot. Both players had been playing for safety, but in eleventh inning Slosson 125 and in the thirteenth 95 made " no count," Siesson having the balls on the rail. The referee decided in favor of Slosson, which caused great applause. Vignaux getting very nervous hereabouts, went to pieces: he knew be was playing an almost hopeless game. At twenty minutes past 11 this evening an interval of ten minutes was called, the score then standing: Vignaux, 2,343; Slosson, 2,792. Slosson had just completed the 13th inning. In the 16th inning Slosson had 88, following it with 11 and 48. Meanwhile Vignaux had made 44 ture that "Out of the plentitude of and began the 18th and last inning, making by careful open table

A NATION OF GUITEAUS.

The sneer which the London Times, the inspired organ of the British Government, flings in the face of the American people, is that we, as a nation, are unworthy to punish Guiteau, because we have shown ourselves to be a nation of Guiteaus. "An epidemic of scandal and social outrage is afflicting England at the present time." says Mr. Hatton. "The latest trouble is a strange outbreak of crimes affecting the domestic hearth and illuminating the ranks of the higher classes of society." It is well known that there are more crimes committed in the east end of London during a week than upon the whole broad continent of America in a year; but Mr. Hatton restricts his list to what he calls the "higher classes." The criminal calendar begins with the Moorewood brothers, four of whom visit the elder, at Christmas, and try to force him to sign a paper giving them money. They leave him naked and bleeding; are arrested for assault; forfeit their bail and go yachting with the Earl of Shrewsbury, who has previously eloped with their married sister, a Mrs. Munday. A slight improvement in some branches of the wholesale trade has been noticed during the approach of the Lenten season, and the week, and business as a whole may be prices are steady. considered in a healthy condition. The city retail trade has been exceptionally busy, and the prospects for the country trade are improving steadily with the roads and weather. Pravellers are forwarding a large number of orders, and manufacturers all over the country are taxed to their utmost capacity.

DEY Goods.-The outlook for the Spring trade improves considerably with the advance of the season, and there is now little doubt but that it will be well up to the average. Most of the imported goods have been received and in a very short time new stocks in every department will be complete. No more fervent tribute to Ireland's devotion to the Faith has ever appeared than this book from the pen of a French Missionary. It glows with enthusiasm and bears eloquent testimony to the trath of Father Burke's words: "Ireland's tree of Catholielty never yielded to any blast, ... she raises her head to-day as graceful, as b-autiful, as loaded with every flower of promise and fruit of fulfilment as in the day when the dying hand of Patrick waved its last b-nediction over her, and when with his fainting and dying voice he made his nat prayer to God that Ireland might keep her faith until the end of time." the end of time."
