

90. [States [must] cooperate with competent international organizations or, where such organizations do not exist, through other international arrangements, and ensure that their nationals, vessels and crews thereof, do not violate rules adopted pursuant to such regimes].

91. In areas of the high seas where a management régime has been agreed within the framework of a [competent international [or regional] organization] or, where such an organization does not exist, through another [international] arrangement, States [must] ensure that high seas fishing is undertaken only in accordance with the conservation and management rules adopted under that organization or arrangement.

92. [With respect to a stock occurring both within the exclusive economic zone of a coastal State and in an area of the high seas adjacent to it, the management regime applied to the stock [must] provide for consistency of the measures applied on the high seas with those applied by the coastal State within its exclusive economic zone: [high seas fisheries [must] not be directed toward the stock when the stock is fully utilized by the coastal state within its exclusive economic zone].

93. [With respect to a highly migratory species, the management régime on the high seas [must] fully recognize the sovereign rights of the coastal State in its exclusive economic zone and, taking into account the special interest of the coastal State in the species while outside its zone, avoid adverse impact on the resource within that zone].

Data and Information

94. The transparency of high seas fishing activities [must] be ensured. States [must] make available to appropriate international [or regional] organizations all relevant data relating to catches on the high seas. The relevant international [or regional] organizations should establish appropriate monitoring programmes including the standardized collection of scientific data and the deployment of scientific observers.

Capacity Building

(see under General)

Global and Regional Cooperation and Coordination

95. The international community should strengthen capacities for collaboration between regional and global [international] fishery bodies [dealing with conservation and management of the oceans and seas. The], the United Nations Environment Programme Regional Seas Programme should be strengthened and the following action should be taken:

- (a) Relevant United Nations or other international Agencies should develop guidelines for better implementation of the Law of the Sea Convention (UNCLOS). FAO should prepare technical guidelines on responsible fishing in the high seas.
