The senator wanted a Canadian tariff and one that served the Canadian peo-ple. The quality of our products, both industrial and agricultural, must, he declared, be looked after and he ad-vised the local legislature to take technical education strongly in hand. Nahieal education strongly in name. National sentiment and national pride, he said, were being developed. There was a time when the Americans carne over to capture and destroy Toronto and Montreal, yet now them came with the olive branch, seeking trade rela-tions, and why? because we had as-serted our self-respect and proved to the world that we are worth negotiating with for treaties. Senator Ross said there should be no bargaining when Canada is put at a disadvantage. Canada had already driven the Americans to some extent in the markets of Europe and in 20 years more a still stronger foothold would be secured. To obtain this he declared there should be no race or religious troubles in the land, repeat-ing with Webster, substituting "Can-ada" for United States": "The union, Hon. J. Building construction constitutes one of the largest and most important industries in our rapidly growing Dominion. Millions of dollars'are spent every year by the Canadian public in the construction of buildings for various purposes. Over $13,000,000 was expended in the City of Toronto alone last year.

The sound of the hammer and the ring of the trowel are the forerunners of development, as well as the proclaimers of industrial prosperity. There is nothing that is more significant of the character and habits of a people than the architecture and the construction of their buildings. Together they are the barometer of culture and prosperity. Nevertheness, it is singular to note how little the average man of to-day knows of modern building methods. It is not until he contemplates the erection of some structure that it dawns upon him how few are his ideas about this important industry.

Much of the faulty construction in many buildings and a large proportion of many of the building disasters and conflagrations are directly attributable to the fact that the layman knows so little about building. Building matters generally are covered solely by technical journals from a purely technical standpoint, which means little to the average layman and in fact, few laymen ever see those papers

The Toronto World, in keeping with its constant endeavors to keep pace with the times, has decided (as a result of its observations as outlined above) to establish a department commencing at an early date to be devoted to building and real estate. And it aims thru the co-operation of architects, engineers, contractors and real estate dealers to give this great branch of our industrial development the recognition it deserves.

It will aim to acquaint the average readers in a plain, simple way with the progress in modern building methods; to aid in the beautifying of the City of Toronto by encouraging the erection of tasteful, modern and safe buildings; to encourage the opening up of the outlying districts suitable for residents and factory purposes and thus prevent the unsanitary tendency of overcrowding and congestion in the downtown districts.

In making this new departure let it be understood that it is not our object in any way to interfere with the legitimate interests of the architect or the contractor, but to aid them thru the promotion of building of the better class and give the industry in general that encouragement its place in our industrial development entitles it to.
