THE T. EATON Co. LIMITED

130 Yonge St. Canada's Greatest Store. Toronto.

190 YONGE STREET, March 18, 1896.

Inauguration Days

These are feast days for those who shop. With the new season trade turns to us for new things in every department of dress. We're ready for Easter in a sense that thoroughly eclipses any past effort, and no matter how often you come you'll always find something new.

There isn't a false note in the whole chorus of new goods. You've been told of color charm and rare beauty only to find it better than we say. You can't come once or twice and see all the new ideas. We've a keen market, and the panorama shifts from day to day.

Perhaps more than half the folks who come here have looked all around the other stores. We hope so. We believe in intelligent comparisons and welcome them, and if at any time you buy anything here that isn't exactly right, bring it back and get your money.

Lots of New Books!

Trade traditions are against expecting the newest books at less than publishers' prices, but traditions are good for nothing—here. We save you money on any book published and on all the popular magazines. It's part of our business, and whether we say so or not, you can always depend on a big stock and every means for choosing wisely and well among the—

—Cloth bound books!
—Paper covered novels!
—Standard works!
—Very latest fiction!

We have now a cleaner, fresher stock of all that is popular in literature, and prices are decidedly worth your while. Authors and printers were paid well for their work, but improved machinery and enormous editions reduce the cost of production to almost nothing. You wonder at the values we're giving, but depend upon it we're not losing money.

Plenty of Everything!

It sometimes happens that dealers club together to prevent manufacturers selling to us. But we've never known the time when spot cash wouldn't bring us all the goods we want.

Ready cash is the secret of this ever enlarging success. We insist that you pay cash for everything, and in turn give you the benefit of extremely low prices. The one helps the other. Success grows with what it feeds upon.

We have plenty of everything except old goods. Constant pruning keeps the stocks clean and healthy, with brisk activity at every point.

CONSORTED WITH ALL SORTS AND CONDITIONS.

Jesus Was No Recluse Nor Ascetic—Nor Should His Followers Be—The Noble Example of a Truly Manly Life—In the World But Not of it—His Record One of Downright Good.

Canon DuMoulin, in his noontide address to an immense congregation in St. James' Cathedral yesterday, considered the example of Christ in his dealing with the world.

"The Saviour," he said, "was not a recluse, but mingled with His fellowmen of all sorts and conditions. He never once forgot Himself or His divine mission. He never left aught behind him but downright good.

The Problem to Solve.

"A great many Christian people say: 'I find it extremely hard to go out into the world, to mix up with society, and to hold my ground as a Christian; in fact, I find the two things to be incompatible.'

"If that be your experience," said the Canon, "I have to say to you, Use the liberty which God has given you, and stay at home. Follow the example of John the Baptist, who came neither eating nor drinking, who was a Nazarite unto God, who shunned social haunts, and satisfied himself in the lonely, solitary wilderness.

The Higher and Better Way.

"Nevertheless, there is a higher and better way. 'I pray not,' said the great Saviour to His Father, 'that Thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that Thou shouldst keep them from the evil.'

"It is a higher and more manly thing to be in the world and not of it, to mingle with your fellow-men and at the same time to be loyal and true to your God and Father in heaven. This is the great example of the social man, Christ Jesus.

High Motive and Noble Example.

"Jesus held social intercourse with the despised that he might touch their hearts, that he might win their souls, that he might raise them from the death of sin to life and righteousness, and if you are bound upon the same mission in the sight of God, your Heavenly Father, you may do the same thing without fear. You may carry yourself through the worst and most degraded society, if only you set this before you. I am here to do God Almighty's work, as Jesus Christ did it, and to save the lost and weary and heavy-laden.

"This is the social Son of Man, mingling with all classes of humanity, a Teacher teaching, a Saviour saving, a Shepherd seeking the sheep, in all His intercourse with the sons of men leaving a blessing behind."

NORTH TORONTO COUNCIL.

Bylaw to Limit the Number of Taverns and to Fix the License Fee.

His Worship the Mayor, Reeve Davis, Deputy Reeve Pears and Councillors Armstrong, Pearl, Stibbard, Bryce, Harper, Donohue, Brown and Johnston formed the sitting held at Eglinton last evening.

The reeve and deputy reeves were instructed to attend the Court of Appeal, before Judge McDougall, on Thursday next, at 11 a.m., to defend the interests of the corporation in the matter of the appeal of the Township of East Gwillimbury against the equalization of the assessement of the County of York.

The petition of C. A. Durand, barrister, to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, to be appointed magistrate for the southern portion of York, and submitted for the recommendation of the town, was laid over.

The bylaw to abandon York roads was also laid over until the next meeting, to enable members of the council to get further data regarding its working.

Strong feeling was manifested against the maintenance of Yonge-street by the town without the accompanying control of the thoroughfare.

Councillor Bryce successfully introduced a bylaw to limit the number of taverns in the town to the present, three, and the license to $160.

Nine hundred dollars will be placed to the credit of the sinking fund for certain improvements on Eglinton-avenue and Yonge-street.

Town Notes.

Chief Constable Lawrence will probably to-day lay information against the parties concerned in the recent burglaries at the residences of Messrs. Jackes and William Aull. The former has identified a watch and chain and the latter an overcoat which was found on the person of one of the supposed thieves.

The choir of the Eglinton Methodist Church had an enjoyable sleigh excursion to the house of Mr. Robert Jones, on the 2nd concession, East York, on Monday night.

Deputy Reeve Lawrence entertained the Ariel Glee Club last evening.

Rev. J. K. McMorine of Kingston having had a "free ad." sent to him to be read from the pulpit pinned it to the church door. He said he found the notices for his own parish all his people could well remember.

PUBLIC DUTY AND PRIVATE INTEREST.

An alderman or a school trustee cannot enter into a contract with the corporation of which he is a member. Members of Parliament are subject to a similar restriction. Judges and certain public officials are debarred from accepting various privileges and from engaging in certain occupations. It would be quite possible for a member of Parliament to accept contracts from the Government and still retain absolute integrity and independence in the House of Commons, but experience has taught us that men, even the best of them, are liable to be influenced by considerations of this kind. It has, therefore, become a well recognized principle, and it runs through all our statutes, that a man's public duty and his private interest shall, as far as possible, be kept separate and distinct. The so-called property qualification of aldermen is a modification of this principle. When we elect an alderman who has nothing at stake in the city we put him in a position where his public duty and his private interest are constantly liable to clash. The temptation for an impecunious man to sacrifice his public duty is especially potent in municipal politics. Powerful corporations and private contractors are always willing to bribe any alderman upon whom they can rely for a vote when a vote is needed. It is a very good law, therefore, which prohibits any citizen from assuming the responsible duties of an alderman unless he has some property in the city, and is therefore personally and pecuniarily interested in securing an honest administration of the city's affairs. Municipal institutions are not carried on for the benefit of this or that individual, but for the benefit of the community as a whole. There is no dearth of aldermanic candidates among citizens who have property enough to qualify on, and as these are likely to turn out the better representatives, the city is justified in excluding all others. The individual is of little account when the welfare of the whole is concerned.

But whether the statute in regard to property qualification is a good or bad one, it should be enforced, and especially should it be enforced when a violation of it is evidently detrimental to the public interests. Ald. Macdonald, who was unseated yesterday, is known to be the agent and advocate of a company that is seeking a valuable franchise from the city. More than that, he is generally believed to be the controlling power in the city, if indeed he is not the company itself, body and bones. As possessing a substantial holding in the Aqueduct Company, Ald. Macdonald's private interest would be best advanced through the company's securing a profitable agreement with the city. His public duty would lead him to insist on the most favorable bargain possible being made with the company. Mr. Macdonald may be a very honorable man. Still, we think it is in the city's interest that he has been relieved from the embarrassing position he has occupied since his election as alderman.

The evidence given before the Master in Chambers in this case shows that the Aqueduct Company is in a bad plight financially. One gets the impression from facts that are constantly coming to light regarding the company that it is a "snide" concern. It is at any rate a concern that this city cannot afford to recognize in any shape or form. The city of Toronto ought to keep good company. We cannot afford to jeopardize our reputation by forming a partnership with the Georgian Bay Ship Canal and Power Aqueduct Company, as the concern is officially styled.

Should Have Read "Obedience."

Editor World: In your paper yesterday morning under the heading, "Sabbath-Breaking Preachers," you make Mr. Clute, who appeared in defence of the three Seventh Day Adventist ministers, convicted for working on Sunday, say that these ministers both preached and practised disobedience to the law in civil matters.

Now having been present at the trial, and having heard Mr. Clute's argument, I am prepared to say that he did not make any such statement. The argument was that they both preached and practised obedience to the law in civil matters, but that the observance of the Sabbath was not a civil matter in any sense. It is religious worship, and nothing else; and when the law of the land conflicts with the law of God, as it does in this case, it is the duty of every true Christian to obey God rather than men, and, if necessary, to suffer the consequences. Kindly insert this letter as a correction, and oblige EUGENE LELAND.

St. Catharines Star.

The astronomers have been fooled again. Perrine's comet, which was billed to hit the earth Saturday, and knock things gally-west, has turned tail, and is fleeing no one knows where. What a joke it would have been if it had come near enough to shoot into Lake Ontario and extinguish itself with a dull, sickening sizzle.

LADIES DAY IN VANITY FAIR

THE VERY LATEST STYLES IN SPRING MILLINERY.

Glance Around Some of Toronto's Stores—Hats Which are Gems of the First Water—Masterpieces of Millinery—Flowers Suggestive of Eden's Bowers—Suggestions Which Ladies Will Appreciate.

Very gay and withal somewhat bizarre are the styles in ladies' apparel that will obtain during the summer season of this year of grace. Yesterday's openings in the big millinery and mantle emporiums demonstrated the fact that to womankind the fashions are still the all-absorbing subject, and the throngs of shoppers in the downtown streets made it difficult for ordinary mortals, intent on everyday business, to move about with any degree of comfort. Within the big stores the crowding was intensified, and it was found impossible to do any business owing to the crush.

At W. A. Murray & Co.'s

From early morning until the closing hour the large millinery and mantle showrooms of W. A. Murray & Co., 17 to 27 King-street east, were thronged with fair devotees of the goddess of fashion, and the great display of fineries was worthy of the admiration it evoked. The millinery department, the centre of attraction, was a blaze of color with hats of the multitudinous varieties that will have vogue this season. The hats are of all shapes, profusely trimmed with flowers, from the smallest blossoms to beauty roses and peonies. On one hat 20 roses were arranged. Fancy straws will be in favor, and hair braids experience a revival. Chenie ribbon is much used, as also Dresden ribbon, Egyptian effects, point lace and tulle, which, with huge brushes of osprey, afford endless scope to the artistic milliner, and the specimens of the art shown at Murray's are "perfect dreams." Small hats, turbans and toques will be in favor, while many orders for large picture hats are in. Hats will be larger in the crown, and will be worn forward over the face. Bonnets also will be larger.

The mantle department at Murray's was inspected by thousands of visitors, who were greatly taken with the new designs in jackets, capes and costumes. There is displayed a large number of novelties in exclusive designs, which are in such variety that an attempt at adequate description would be bootless. It would take a good deal of space to describe a single garment, and we can only recommend those of our lady readers who stayed at home yesterday to make a tour of inspection through this store without delay.

In silks and dress goods there is greater variety of coloring and pattern than for some seasons. Sicilian novelties in mohair effects, with Dresden, Oriental and pompadour designs will be the rage, while similar effects in silks will also obtain. The new dress goods vary, as Murray's artistic young man said yesterday "from the light tints of a summer morning sky to the gorgeous coloring of the autumn woods," and the display justified the words.

John Catto & Co.'s New Store.

The spring importations of this firm include an immense assortment of silks and dress goods in the various materials which fashion decrees shall be worn, as well as a large stock of jackets and capes. Yesterday the store at 57 King-street east was one of the main points of interest to sight-seeing crowds. As seen in Catto's showrooms, the new capes are shorter than ever. Button trimmings and Medici collars are features, and some wonderfully neat effects are seen. Golf capes are made in lighter weights, in plaids and similar materials. Jackets also are shorter this season, and the favored materials seem to be frieze and box cloths. Velvet inlaid collars are on nearly all the new garments. The costumes shown at Catto's are very modish and artistic. One of shot taffeta, with trimming of Chenie silk, black chiffon, black satin and beads, with very full sleeves and crepon skirt, was especially striking. Sleeves this season will be fully as large as ever, but, Mr. Catto says, the tendency hereafter will be to smaller sleeves.

In dress goods mohair effects will be first in favor. Messrs. Catto show a great variety of new mohairs in blacks and colors, plain and figured, as well as printed effects, in revival of the old Paisley patterns. In brocades, silks and fancy dress goods there is endless variety, some of the exclusive patterns shown being marvelous in design and coloring. This firm have scoured the countries of the continent for novelties in silks and dress goods, and that their efforts were highly successful must have been conceded by the crowds of ladies that inspected the display of new goods yesterday.

At Suttcliffe & Sons.

"She wore a pretty bonnet, with birds and flowers on it." This was the air merrily played by D'Alesandro's Orchestra when The World's young man visited Sutcliffe's grand millinery opening yesterday afternoon. It was with some trepidation that the reporter entered the store to write up a description of the new goods he saw, as his knowledge of millinery is very limited, but he was put into the hands of several clever young ladies, who piloted him through the crowd of admiring visitors and showed him some real wonders, and he is now able to converse with the utmost sang froid regarding dainty and fragile shapes, which all have names of their own. The "Vanderbilt" is a magnificent hat of black mohair, lace-trimmed, with gold and black tulle, black ostrich tips and beautiful silk roses. The "Princess" is a large hat that will undoubtedly be the terror of theatre-goers. It has a round crown and pointed rim, trimmed with black chiffon and fancy straw, set off at the back with three Prince of Wales plumes, in white and black. Then there is the "Trilby," a hat which excites the utmost admiration of all the fair visitors. It has a square crown of lemon satin, covered with black mohair lace, and with a black rim. The effect is completed by ostrich tips and shaded silk and velvet roses. "Marjory" is a hat well worthy of such a pretty name. The crown is cream satin, a black tulle brim, with full lace ruches, and trimmed with black ostrich tips and shaded satin violets.

There are so many styles, the product of tasteful feminine minds and deft fingers, that The World's young man could not take note of them all, but ladies understand these things better than men, anyway, and they should go and see for themselves. The whole display renders a most pleasing effect, and the members of the firm say they can accommodate any number of visitors. It is a noticeable fact that flowers and foliage predominate in the way of trimmings, and that fruit trimming has again become popular. D'Alesandro's Orchestra will be in attendance all this afternoon.

McKendry's Millinery Opening

was grand in every respect, and the firm's reputation for supremacy in these affairs was fully maintained. The show of millinery is the most extensive they have ever made, and the store was yesterday visited by hundreds of ladies, who expressed the greatest of satisfaction and admiration at the brilliant display of pretty hats and bonnets which will be such a large factor in making the fair sex look pretty during the coming season. The commodious showroom was crowded all day with fashionable people, who were apparently delighted with the styles imported for this season's trade. Out of so vast a collection it is almost impossible to select any style for particular mention. One feature of the season is that it will be most difficult for ladies to make up their own hats, as few factory shapes of hats are being used. The deft fingers of the professional milliner now take a length of fancy-plaited straw and by a few simple twists transform it into a new turban or a large crowned hat. Turbans of shot straw are to be greatly worn this season. One that is particularly noticeable is trimmed with a silk Dresden crown, and the left side trimmed high with osprey, carnations and green roses, the back being finished with rosettes of silk tulle and ornaments in the centre. Another is a very pretty straw turban, trimmed with fine silk lace and Dresden silk ribbon bows nine inches high. A very sweet hat was made of shirred tulle and full lace edge, with black silk lace. The crown is composed of green satin, with opal shades of lace on top richly embroidered with gold. This hat is trimmed very wide at the back, with Honiton braid on black tulle, and two handsome black plumes being set immediately on the back of the crown, a yellow rose underneath.

In bonnets the trimmings are mostly of pretty flowers and foliage. The newest fad is sequin mohair lace and ties of tulle edged with black Valenciennes lace. Pretty shade roses are worn, one of the newest colors being "Flame." A specialty is being made of the show of mourning millinery, which is under the supervision of special experts, who turn out grand work. Children's hats are in light summer colors.

Missionaries in China.

A letter was received at the Methodist Mission Rooms yesterday from Rev. James Endicott, who, along with many other missionaries in China, has been compelled to remain in idleness for a long time, owing to the disturbed state of the country. The letter was written at Tchang, on Jan. 22, and states that Rev. Mr. Endicott, along with Miss Brackvill and Miss Ford, of the W.M.S., was returning to his former station at Sze Chuen. Dr. Hart and Mrs. Hartwell had arrived safely at Chung King.

WELL YESTERDAY — DEAD TO-DAY.

Sudden Taking Off by Heart Disease.

That pain in the side, that sense of smothering, that palpitation of the heart, that restiveness rendering it impossible for one to remain long in any one position—these are symptoms of heart disease that should be immediately heeded. And practical heed will be given by securing a bottle of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, the most wonderful heart specific that has ever been given to the world. As has been shown frequently in these columns, some of the most desperate cases of heart trouble have been cured by its use.

One dose will relieve in 30 minutes. The remedy is harmless as milk, as it is entirely vegetable.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS OF TWELVE YEARS' STANDING

Cured by Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder —An Extraordinary Experience.

Catarrh nearly always leaves its mark after it. These are frequently revealed in deafness of the victim. A case in point is that of Capt. Ben Connor, of 189 Berkeley-street, Toronto, who was deaf for twelve years from catarrh. No medicine or treatment did him any good, until he procured a bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, which gave immediate relief, and continuing to use it, in a short time the deafness was entirely removed. Mr. Connor's friends, who knew the extremity of the malady, are loud in their praises of this medicine; and Capt. Connor himself will be only too glad to answer all enquiries concerning his case and remarkable cure.

Growing Prevalence of Bright's Disease.

Bright's disease shows itself usually in depression of spirits. Life loses its zest. Efforts bring an early fatigue. There is loss of appetite; listlessness; sleep fails to refresh. There may be, may not be pain in the region of the kidneys. It is not only astonishing, but alarming the extent to which this disease is seizing the ablest men of the country. The deceptive nature of the trouble is almost akin to that of consumption. Our dearest friends are carried off with it before we are aware of the nature of their disease. The one salvation is to rid the system of the trouble at its inception. This is being most successfully accomplished by South American Kidney Cure, a medicine that will cure any case of Bright's disease that has not already signed the death warrant of its victim. It is a medicine that most completely rids the system of those elements that go to constitute this disease, working distinctively on the kidneys.

Rheumatism is Still Being Cured in from One to Three Days by South American Rheumatic Cure—More Testimony.

Mr. Z. A. Van Luven, Governor of the County Gaol, of Napanee, Ont., writes: "My wife has been a great sufferer from rheumatism for some time past. The disease attacked the limbs and was drawing them out of shape. The pain was most excruciating. She could not get anything to cure her. Mr. Huffman, druggist of this town, recommended South American Rheumatic Cure. The first few doses gave my wife perfect relief. To-day, after taking four bottles, of the remedy, she is certain that the disease is entirely eradicated from her system and blesses the day she first heard of this remedy."

The ruling price of wheat at Brandon last week was 50 cents.

PALE GIRLS

Weak, languid and listless, suffering from heart palpitation, nervousness, stomach troubles or constipation, should use Indian Woman's Balm. It cures.

WEAK WOMEN

Run down, easily tired, pain in back or limbs, troubled with dizziness, rush of blood to the head, faint feeling, nauses, try Indian Woman's Balm. It's nature's remedy for women.
