Sir Hibbert Tupper Finishes His Yukon Speech.

Questions Asked the Government-Post Office Amendments.

Ottawa, June 29 .- The motion submitted Tuesday night by Sir Hibbert Tupper, requesting the governor-gen-eral to issue a royal commission to two or more judges for the investigation of Yukon affairs, contains about 15,000 words; it would fill from ten to twelve columns of an ordinary newspaper. Sir Hibbert, in the motion, goes into all sorts of questions, suggestions and charges concerning the state of things in the Yukon, and deals with the whole subject so minutely that it is impossubject so minutely that it is impossible to follow him in detail in a newspaper summary. Yesterday he brought to a conclusion his speech in support of the resolution. It was 6 o'clock when he concluded his speech, which covered about nine hours in the two days. ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

In reply to a question by Mr. N. Clarke Wallace, Mr. Paterson stated that a basis of valuation has been fixed by the department of customs on the importation of binders, mowers and horse-rakes from the United States, and that in fixing the values the department had taken into account the price of the articles in the country of export and the terms and conditions of sale. Sir Louis Davies, replying to a question by Mr. Britton, said that the government has the question of the formation of a naval reserve or a naval brigade or a naval militia in Canada under consideration, but that it would not be in a position to deal with the matter at this session. There had, he added, been communication with the imperial naval authorities on the subject, but being of a confidential nature he could not bring it down.

Replying to an inquiry by Mr. Fraser (Lambton), Mr. Kirkpatrick stated that an action for $300,000 for breach of contract against the British-American Bank Note Company had been entered by the government. The government claimed that the stamps supplied had been lithographed from stone instead of from steel plates, according to contract, and that the stamps had, therefore, been inferior. The company pleaded that the stamps had been accepted by the proper officials at the time.

Speaking to a motion to adjourn, Col. Prior, after referring to an article in a Victoria paper, denied that he had ever opposed the construction of an all-Canadian telegraph line, but admitted that he did oppose the government building the telegraph line until the Northern Commercial Telegraph Company had been given an opportunity to carry out the work, for which they hold a charter, and which provided for a line which, it was true, passed through American territory.

THE POSTOFFICE ACT. Mr. Mulock's bill to amend the postoffice act was read a second time. He explained that it provides for the carrying of late mail to the trains on payment of a fee, and for the establishment of a system of indemnity for losses of registered mail matter, such indemnity in no case to exceed $25 per article. Another section repeals the provision that no one can be appointed superintendent of mail clerks who has not traveled in a mail car for ten years. This is to meet the case of men who have been taken from the mail service and put in the superintendent's office, and who now could not succeed the superintendent, although specially suited to do so. The act also permits newspapers to send out in sample copies the same notices, etc., as they can send to their regular subscribers. postal matter, stated that the existing fee for registration is pretty high, and after consultation with the accountant of the department he thought the min-

Mr. Mulock accepted the suggestion of Dr. Sproule that at least half of the qualifying period of service should be passed as a railway mail clerk, and the clause, as amended, was adopted, Mr. E. F. Clarke asked whether the government had taken any steps to-wards insuring the lives of railway mail clerks, who ran considerable risk

Mr. Mulock, in reply, pointed out that this step by the government might result to the advantage of the railway companies, who had been compelled in some cases to pay large sums to rail-way mail clerks injured in the service. The bill as amended by the postmaster-general was then given a third reading and passed.
