Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, snasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes. s and raises the phleam, soothes

No one can tell you how it happened, but it did happen and the first thing Nibbles knew the balloon started to shiver all over, up came the stakes that held it into the ground and with a quiver that caused the little dog to shiver, too, up went the balloon, high, high into the air.

"Goodness me." Nibbles cried in surprise, "where can I be going to? What would my mother think if she saw me sailing up in the air like a bird? His mother would have been terribly frightened, no doubt, but luckily for the old dog she was far away and could not see the peril her young son was in,

"I suppose as soon as I get tired of flying I can just bite a hole in the balloon, and it will sail down again," Nibbles told himself. It was nice sailing up there, he thought, so high and so dry as it was, and he did not want to come down just then, He did No one can tell you how it happened,

He was floating over the sea, a great big blue sea every bit as blue as the sky above him, but how it roared and bounded onto its shores. It was a very angry sea. Nibbles certainly didn't want to fall into it. He wished now that he had heeded his mother's advice and had not been so curious. It would never do to try to bite a hole in the balloon now,

In another minute unless something happened he would be a frozen icicle himself. What could happen so high up there with nothing but blue sky above and blue angry sea below?
