

THIS is the "IDEAL" Accident-proof Crib, designed for baby's comfort and safety and mother's convenience and freedom from worry.

Ends and sides are extra high to prevent the baby climbing out, and the spindles are close together so that baby cannot get its head between them. The side lowers to make the crib an annex to mother's bed when desired. "IDEAL" Crib is made in a number of attractive patterns and various sizes, all strong, durable and without dangerous sharp corners or rough edges. The "IDEAL" guarantee label identifies the genuine. Sold by most stores.

LIVES WAGERED ON BILLIARD GAME

Play to Decide Which Shall Kill Father and Which Brother for Inheritance - Police Fortunately Intervene in Time to Save Lives - Heartbroken Father Becomes Insane.

Paris, Nov. 23.—Two brothers, Joseph and Camille Rostaing, are in prison in Grenoble for the attempted murder of their father and their brother, and for assaulting the police.

Both Camille and Joseph have been in prison more than once, and hated with the hatred of bad men their brother Charles, who is a decent fellow, and works hard to keep a house roof over his father's head and his own.

One day the two convicts found the place where Gustave Rostaing kept his savings, a wooden stocking stuffed into an old butter jar, robbed it and spent the money in a week in Grenoble. This was too much. Old Rostaing would not allow his sons to do this, and he had them arrested. He went to the mayor of the village told him what had happened and asked him to help him. The brothers were forced to leave home.

One evening Camille conceived a terrible idea. He and his brother had been drinking, and the two were playing billiards in a cafe. "I'll tell you what we'll do," said Camille. "The old man has lots more money somewhere and that stunk Charles has put by some money, too." "I'd like to kill them both," said Joseph. "We should inherit the estate." "That's just what we will do," said the younger brother. "And I'll tell you how we'll do it. I'll play you a game of billiards. The winner shall go for Charles, and the loser shall tackle the old man." And with a grim nod of understanding the two chalked their cues, and the game for these terrible stakes began.

They had been alone in the cafe at its beginning. But both were good players. Several people looked in to watch them playing, and before long there were a dozen people in the room. The two brothers had started their game on an abject note. As the points crept up, both drank a good deal, and as they drank the two began to talk of what they meant to do and what the stakes were. As Camille made his last cannon he threw down his cue and shouted to Joseph: "I'd like to see you kill the old man." Killing Charles will be rather a joke than otherwise.

A man slipped out of the cafe and ran to warn the gendarmes. There are only three of them at Montellier, Verrier, but these were ready. Camille and Joseph took no notice of them nor of the frightened crowd which had collected around their father's house. Each of the two robbers carried a drawn revolver in his hand, and entering the cottage set to work to smash, maul, and every piece of furniture and everything of value on which they could lay hands.

Charles Rostaing was not there.

RELATIONS STILL STRAINED.

Cologne, Germany, Nov. 25.—Foreign correspondent of the Cologne-Gazette writes: "The explanation leaves no doubt that an Anglo-German war is imminent in July, according to an apparently despatch from Berlin in the Cologne Gazette, which adds: 'The acute crisis is past, but the situation remains grave. Germany awaits with even greater tension Great Britain's coming explanation. Upon these will depend the relations of the two countries in the future.'"

An Accusation Problem.

The number of women who commit murder appears to be on the increase. Maybe the sentiment which prevents a woman murderer from paying the extreme penalty has something to do with it. Parole boards and governments are susceptible.

Her Part.

"Will you thread a needle for me? I want to sew on a few buttons." "Why, certainly. There you are. Needle and thread, and buttons while I go to the bridge club. Sometimes I wonder how you managed before you were married?"—Washington Herald.

It Becomes Serious Then.

Betty—Really, Kate, how can you say that? You know I don't think seriously of marriage.

Her Married Sister—Oh, as to that, you won't naturally, until after you are married. Nobody does.

"He's a queer man. Won't argue about the tariff."

"What's his reason for not arguing about the tariff?"

"Says he doesn't know anything about it."

WAS A GREAT SUFFERER

FOR FIVE YEARS
FROM DYSPEPSIA.

Dyspepsia is one of the most prevalent troubles of civilized life, and thousands of people suffer untold agony after every meal, for nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, and Mrs. Wm. J. Boyce, Leppas, N.B., writes: "I was a great sufferer from dyspepsia, and I had tried many different doctors and proprietary medicines, but could get no relief. One day a friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I did not have much faith in it, but I thought I would give it a trial. To-day I am completely cured, and I will always recommend it."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for about thirty-five years and is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

An Average.

(Lippincott's) A Western representative in congress was talking one day of his record while in that body. "I'm ashamed of it," said he. "I think I've done very well on the whole. When I reflect upon it, I am reminded of an epitaph that I saw once in an obituary ground in a country town of my state.

"This epitaph devoted a verse or four lines to the virtues of the good man who lay beneath the stone, and concluded with this line in prose: 'He averaged well for this vic-

LIMITS.

The limits cover an area along the Spanish, Vermilion and Onaping Rivers, and their tributaries for five miles back on either side, estimated at 6,000 square miles, and are easily workable, and the whole territory is well watered with good flowable streams and lakes.

The Canadian Pacific Railway runs through the property from East to West and the Canadian Northern Railway is being constructed running North through the East side and then West along the Northern limit.

PLANT.

The Company's Mills and Plant are at Espanola, Ont., on the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The Pulp Mill has capacity of 140 tons (dry) pulp per day. A Paper Mill now under construction, will be in operation by April, 1912; it will have a capacity of 100 tons news paper per day, and provision is being made that the capacity can be doubled at a minimum extra cost.

The Company owns its Water Power and Electric Power Plant from which 10,500 H. P. is now being used; in addition the Company owns employees' dwelling houses, general store, water supply and sewer system, etc.

ASSETS.

The depreciated appraised value (Canadian Appraisal Co.) of the fixed assets including pulp mill as at Dec. 31st, 1910, $2,489,684

Actual cost of new Paper Mill in course of construction, and which will be completed in March, 1912 900,000

Surplus of liquid assets over liabilities as at Dec. 31st, 1910 222,500

Estimated value of standing timber as per report by Mr. John Brophy 10,000,000

$13,612,184

FUTURE EARNINGS.

The General Manager of the Company estimates that on the completion of the Paper Mill, the net earnings of the Company will amount to at least $400,000 per year, before deducting Bond interest. This does not include any profits on railroad ties, or Jack-pine lumber, which in his estimate, should yield considerable revenue.

EARNINGS.

The operations of the Company have been very successful and the earnings have steadily increased, as shown by the following figures: those for 1909 and 1910 have been certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co.

	1909	1910	1911
Net earnings from pulp after interest charges, depreciation, etc.	$169,555.30	$207,899.93	$250,000.00 (estimated)

*The estimated figures for 1911 are based on results up to Oct. 31, 1911.

For the period up to the end of October, 1911, the net price received by the Company for its Pulp has been 60 cents per ton in excess of the net price received for the year 1910, while the cost of production has decreased over $1.00 per ton.

Boston Girls

Boston, Nov. 17.—"Gasky" is a living reputation of the contention that the English (or American) language is difficult for foreigners to assimilate. Gasky, Gaskwar, commonly called "Gasky," son and heir of the Gasky family of Sarag, East India, Jones, or crowd gathered in the grill room of a downtown hotel, after that Harvard Carlsle game. "O, well, it was only a substitute team. The 'Varsity' would have walloped those Redskins easily," he remarked. At this juncture a new group entered, and greeted the prospective Gaskwar by pulling his hat down over his ears and similar demonstrations of regard. "Gasky" grinned at them amiably and drawled in purist American: "Say, what do you guys think you've got here—an assassin's mark?" The facility with which the oriental student has mastered the idioms of the American language indicates that the day will be all the more at Baroda when Gasky returns home to help spend dad's four million per annum.

Boston and New England matrons who are bewailing the high price of foodstuffs and the scarcity of certain staple necessities may feel that they have still to be thankful for there's a sauerkraut shortage in Germany according to the consular report which comes daily to the Boston girls' desk. Before this desperate condition of affairs the local dietitians fade into nothingness. Incidentally how unobtrusively humorous Uncle Sam's representatives abroad occasionally are.

The Hub's artists so seldom see the ghost walk that they naturally turn to their own Copley Society for matter part of the month. Whatever this organization does is always done in white and the horde of painters, sculptors and illustrators who are going to the just onlookers know that their own professionals will produce a ghost party weird and awesome in its feelings. A picture feature of the affair will be a jack-o-lantern drive participated in by many of the people who are some pumpkins in the social set. A few non-members of the society will be admitted and will doubtless speculate over the bewitching ghostliness of Yankee Bohemianism.

Women shoppers of towns north of Boston are glad to learn that the situation for allowing electric express cars in the Hub has been renewed. The service as it has been built up in Brockton, Quincy, Taunton and other places to the southward has been the greatest possible convenience. Only a Boston terminal is needed.

SEEKS HUSBAND; DYING BOY WANTS HIM

Baltimore Woman Asks Police to Search for Man Missing Six Weeks—Plea of Six Child.

Boston, Nov. 22.—That she most gratify the wish of her dying boy to see his father "before God takes me," Mrs. Phillip L. Rest of 3709 E. Avenue, Baltimore, was the petitioner of Police Taylor yesterday asking him to search in this city for her husband, who has been missing six weeks.

According to Mrs. Rest's letter, little son is not expected to live much longer than a week, and she said she often brings tears to her eyes appealing to see his father. "I want to see papa before God takes me," is the way a boy usually appeals to mother.

"I beg of you to put forth your services in full force and send a wayward father home to his dying boy," wrote Mrs. Rest.

In an effort to find a sister she lost not seen for thirty-two years and who is supposed to live in this city, Mrs. Rose Simon of 343 Madison street, New Haven, Conn., has written to Superintendent Taylor, requesting him to seek the missing woman here. She, Marcelle Ward, and the last time sister saw her was in 1879.

Seeking his uncle, who is believed to live in this city, Charles A. Scullion, Mount Angel, Oregon, has also written to Superintendent Taylor, requesting him to seek the missing woman here. He, Charles A. Scullion, who two years ago worked in the foundry of Hoopes and Townsend, at Broad and Buttonwood streets.

A request was made of Superintendent Taylor yesterday by Wm. J. Mil of 1013 Berri street, Montreal, Canada, to search this city for his brother, drew Milhen, whom he is anxious to locate.

HEIRESS WINS SON OF "PERFECT WIFE"

T. Wesley Wright of Orange Expects Bride Will Be Just as Good as His Mother.

New York, Nov. 22.—If ever a woman and woman about to wed for the first time, it was Miss Dorothy May Palmer, daughter of Thomas Palmer, of No. 24 C. Mercer street, and T. Wesley Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Wright of No. 7 Glenwood avenue, both of Orange, N. J., may well ask for distinction. They are to be married next Monday in the First Presbyterian church, Orange.

Miss Palmer, discovered seven months ago that she was the heiress of an Englishman. This wealth upon her because her mother, dead, had been so charmingly rich. Mr. Wright is entitled to pride, family, too, and his mother also is of origin of it. When a certain lady, at a misadventure, permitted him to make the public declaration of his perfect wife did not exist he had one from Alfred A. Wright, Jr. Mr. Wright wrote to
