DOMINOES AND GEOMETRY.

Simple Demonstration of Euclid's Knotty Forty-Seventh Proposition.

considered, is more puzzling to student than Euclid's famous forty-seventh—th quare described on the hypothenuse of a the squares described on the other two sides. It may almost be called a paradox For example, draw a line five inches in length for the hypothenuse, and when you have completed the riangle by drawing the altitude and the base, you will find that the altitude is three inches, and the base four inches. The proposition is, therefore, that a square described on a line five inches in length is equal to the square described on a line three inches in ength added to the square described on line four inches in length; which seems

of course Euclid demonstrates the proosition mathematically, but a very simple and practical demonstration may be made with dominoes. Each domino is a rectangle made up of two squares. Now raw a right-angle triangle with a hypothenuse that will measure the same as five squares of the dominoes. Place five dominoes on it endwise, and two dominoes lengthwise, and then five more endwise; and you will thus have a great square with the centre small square blank. The twelve dominoes thus used will give you twenty-four squares, and the blank one in the centre will make twenty-five.

Now, place four dominoes on the alti tude of the triangle, arranged so that the centre square will be blank, and eight dominoes on the base, in two rows four each, placed endwise. The four do noes on the altitude will give you eight quares, and the blank one in the centre will make nine, and the eight dominoes of the base will give you sixteen squares.

Matter Has Become a Court Question Belgium. The railroad officials of Belgium are now periously thinking of introducing smoking ars, in which only women shall be allowed to travel.

A few weeks ago a young woman entered at the Brussels depot of the Southern Railroad one of the carriages reserved for adies. A few minutes afterward another woman took a seat-near her, and no so er had the train started than she lit a cigarette and began to smoke. Thereupon the other woman became indignant and threatened to complain to the conductor as soon as the train stopped. Her words, however, produced no effect on the woman who was smoking. "I am in a car riage reserved for ladies," she said bland y, "and I am not aware of any law which prohibits ladies from smoking."

The other retorted that she ought to have gone into the gentleman's smoking car if she wanted to somke her offensive eigarettes, and she vowed that she would ake the matter into court if the railr officials did not give her immediate satisfaction. When the train stopped she told her story to the conductor, but he was loath to inte efere, and the result was that when she arrived at her destination she consulted a lawyer, and he has now by an action n court formally raised the question Should railroad companies be compelled to provide separate smoking cars for those

THE WINTER DECKLOAD.

Shipping Man Points Out Benefits of Dominion Legislation.

"A very important change will be made in the law by the act which has just been passed by both branches of the dominion egislature, and the maritime province should materially benefit under the new condition, said a prominent shipping man to The Telegraph yesterday. "For many years vessels have been pro-hibited from carrying more than a limited deckload to the West Indies and other places except South America when sailing from Canada between the 1st October and the 16th of March. The anomoly of the old law is at once apparent when it is considered that, under it, vessels could take full deckload round Cape Horn to Chili, Peru, etc., and yet could only take three feet of deckload to ports in Africa, the voyage fowards the equator being al most identical in each case. "A lot of valuable information has been furnished to the department of marine this year by St. John parties, who have also given them the practical opinions of local shipowners and shipmasters as well as the opinions of Yarmouth, Windsor and ther Nova Scotia shipping people. When the bill concerning the safety of ships came before the senate a short time ago-che matter was again taken up vigorously by Hon. Senator Wood and others and with the satisfactory result that the marbill by providing that the three foot deckload from Canada in the winter season should apply only when the vessels are bound either to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland or to the continent of Europe north of Cape Finnisterre in Spain, and not being a port or place within the Mediterranean Sea.

"Vessels will, therefore, now be able to carry deckloads all the year round to Portugal, the Mediterranean, Africa, Australia, the West Indies or North and South America, etc., which places Canada is about the group periting at the United in about the same position as the United States. This should materially assist in developing trade from the maritime prov-inces in the winter season, and no doubt it will be especially valuable in assisting to work up business with South Africa, which should prove a fine market for New Brunswick and Nova Scotia spruce."

CROUPY COUGHS OF CHILDREN.

The tendency to croup is a foe that all parents have to fight. Croup comes in the night, when the help must be right at hand if it is to be helped at all. Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam is a blessing to all families where there are children subject to attacks of croup or any mean cough. It has a wonderful reputation for its efficiency and fully deserves it.

a wonderful reputation for its efficiency and tully deserves it.

You cannot tell what night your child may wake up choking to death with croup. In such a case what do you do? Send for a doctor and wait an hour, or perhaps two hours, while the child is gasping for breath? How much simpler where the true specific for croupy coughs and all throat troubles is right at hand. Indeed, no other way is safe with young children in the house.

Adamson's Cough Balsam is a most delicate medicine for children, relieving the little throats at once. Its action is soothing and certain. It clears out the phlegm, which produces the croupy condition, and is a safeguard which no mother who knows about produces the croupy condition, and is a safe-guard which no mother who knows about it will dispense with. Kansas City, Mo., May 5-Saloons in Kansas City were closed tight today, the Mansas City were closed tight today, the first time in six years. But one arrest for failure to respect Mayor Reed's order was made and one of the quietest days for a long time was the result. Saloon keepers spent an active day, however,, circulating petitions to the mayor and police commissioners, giving their side of the question and requesting a resumption of the oldand requesting a resumption of the old-regime. A mass meeting, under the aus-pices of the Law Enforcement League, at-tended by 500 men, was held and strong resolutions commending the mayor and adopted. It was determined to keep up the agitation for Sunday closing and a committee was appointed to secure evidence against saloon keepers who may observe the law.

Omaha, Neb., May 5—The Sunday closing orders issued by Mayor Moores, were, in most instances, observed today. Two saloon keepers, in outlying portions of the city, were arrested for failing to bolt their side doors, and half a dozen boot-blacks were also detected in the act of disturbing the Sabbath quiet. They were arrested, but were bailed out by "Mogie," the so-called king of the newsboys.

The mayor says he is satisfied with the down, but he has not decided just how but the Orpheum transferred its show to Council Bluffs.

HALIFAX WHARF COLLAPSES AND PULP IS LOST.

Loss is About $2,000--The Woman Suicide Yet Unidentified.

Halifax, May 5-(Special)-About 50 feet of the Furness pier, on which was stored 300 tons of wood pulp, waiting shipment to London by the steamer Loyalist, collapsed this evening, the pulp going into the harbor. Fortunately, no one was on the end of the wharf at the time. The wharf was only about a year and a half old and was considered one of the strongest in the city. The damage is estimated at about $2,000.

The body of the woman suicide is still unidentified. Saturday, a man in a New Hampshire town, whose wife had left him four years ago with their four-year-old boy, wired the chief of police, asking for photographs of the woman and of the boy whose picture was found in her bosom, as he thought the woman might have been his wife. Since then he wired that his wife wore No. 5 boots and, as he dead woman wore No. 3, it leaves aer identity as much a mystery as ever.
