

15 YEARS A DYSPEPTIC

Forced to Live on Stale Bread and Porridge.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HIM

AVONDALE, N. B., October, 1914. "I have been a great sufferer from indigestion for fifteen years. I was forced to deny myself all such hearty foods as beans, meats, potatoes and could not drink tea or coffee. For the past two years, I lived on porridge, stale bread, etc. I had treatment from two doctors, and tried nearly every kind of medicine, but got worse. Finally I saw a testimonial of "Fruit-a-tives" and concluded to give them a trial. I took nearly four boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and they have made me feel like a new man. I can eat all kinds of hearty foods without suffering, and am no longer constipated.

LESLIE A. W. BROWN. Many people look on "Fruit-a-tives" as a miraculous medicine. It has indeed performed what have seemed like miraculous cures in hundreds of cases of chronic indigestion, Dyspepsia, Constipation and Biliousness. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fresh fruit juices and valuable tonics. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Life. Life is not all one gala day of pleas ure; Life is not all a grieving for the wrong; But dress is mingled with its every treasure. And sadness forms a part of every song. And yet I think that song is aye the sweetest Whose minor chords are full of liv ing pain.

And he whose voice is by love's magic clearest, Most truthfully interprets every strain. And he whose strength temptation has defeated, Can measure best the depth to which he fell, And gaining strength by trials oft repeated, Attains at last the height where angels dwell. For one made wisely pure by long endeavor, By steadfast striving 'gainst the foe within, Will pass the portals of the soul's forever With greater joy than he who knew no sin.

Immortal life is won by each day climbing. One by one, each earth-receding rung. By heart's chords trembling in harmonious chime, With music by seraphic voices sung. —Mrs. Fiedick Ransoun.

Poverty and Drink. The Rev. A. F. Forrest, minister of Renfield Street U. F. Church, Glasgow, contributes the following letter to the Glasgow Herald: "Sir,—Mr. John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, who has a habit of speaking plainly—too plainly for some of his friends—said to an audience of working men:—'The best remedy for the housing evil is for the overcrowded tenants to think more and drink less; for their own well-being and for the benefit of the nation to help reformers to help them; to be persistent in rising upwards, rather than villigent in sliding downwards. Drink, betting and gambling,' he said, 'have got to be put down.' Lord Randolph Churchill, on the other side of politics, gave a similar witness:—'What a prodigious social reform what a head in advance we would make, if we could curb and control the depliable and destructive liquor traffic!' The present Chancellor of the Exchequer said recently in Edinburgh:—'If our people would drink as much as Americans, he would reduce taxes, and there would be no need for old age pensions. Whatever evils may be produced by our present economic arrangements, and I have no desire to make little of them or deny them, there are other and more serious sources of evil. It is not low wages and want of employment that accounts for the greater misery in thousands of homes. No, but intemperance, wastefulness, and idleness. If these vices were given up, and industry, thrift, and sobriety to take their place, the social problem might not be solved, but it would be much nearer solution. Make drink do its duty—keep it

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto.—I gladly give you my testimonial in favor of your wonderful medicine. Last October I wrote to you for advice as I was completely run down, had bearing down sensation in the lower part of bowels, backache, and pain in the side. I also suffered terribly from gas. After receiving your directions, I followed them closely and am now entirely free from pain in back and bowels, and am stronger in every respect. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my baby was born, and I recommend it highly to all pregnant women.—Mrs. E. WANDY, 92 Logan Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Another Woman Cured. Maple Creek, Sask.—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I am now in perfect health. I was troubled with pains every month. I know other women who suffer as I did and I will gladly recommend your medicine to them. You may publish this if you think it will help others.—Mrs. F. E. COOK, Maple Creek, Sask.

If you belong to that countless army of women who suffer from some form of female ills, don't hesitate to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

Pledges to Reform Drunkards. A declaration endorsing the pledge method of reforming drunkards was signed by 555 delegates and members of the Thirtieth International Congress of Alcoholism, which convened at The Hague, Holland. This plan of treating inebriates was first tried in the courts ten years ago by Judge J. Pollard, of the second district court, St. Louis, Mo. It is now known as the Pollard system. The method is simply to release persons convicted of drunkenness and petty offenses arising out of drunkenness on condition that they sign in open court a pledge to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors for one year. Its adoption is left to the discretion of the judge, and violation is met by enforcing the penalty originally suspended. The plan has been adopted by legislative action in Great Britain, Victoria (Australia) and Vermont. Judge Pollard states that of the thousands of whom he has bound in this way during ten years less than 5 per cent. have forfeited suspension for sentence.—The Sun vey.

Eczema on the Head. Mr. Fretwell, Southey, Ont., writes: "For years I suffered a sort of eczema on the head. I tried low-different doctors, giving me such a fair share of medicine, but none did me any good. I got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has entirely cured me. I give you my name because I want other sufferers to know about this wonderful Ointment."

"Effie," said the timid Highland lover. "I wad kiss ye, but I'm feart ye wadna let me." She blushed as red as the sunset but did not answer. "Effie, he repeated a little later. "I said I wad kiss ye but I'm feart ye wadna let me." At the third repetition she asked: "Dae ye min, David, yesterday, I couldna lift a bag of potatoes intae the cart an' ye lifted them for me?" "Oh, ay," he replied. "Well, that shows, David, she murmured, 'that ye are far stronger than me."

In Dread of Croup. Every mother dreads croup since she knows about Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Given in frequent small doses, at the first indication of trouble, this treatment loosens the cough and affords relief, and cures, its use should be kept up until the child is entirely recovered.

"I thought that is the fifteen years of my practice of medicine," said a physician. "I had answered almost every possible fool's question, but a new one was sprung on me recently. A young man came in with an inflamed eye, for which I prescribed medicine—to be dropped into the eye three times a day. He left the office but returned in a few minutes, poked his head in the doorway, and asked, 'Shall I drop this in the eye before or after meals?'"

You are probably aware that pneumonia always results from a cold, but you may not be aware of a subtle poisoning in pneumonia when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was used. Why take the risk when this remedy may be had for a trifle? For sale by all dealers.

A lawyer, annoyed at seeing a couple of Irishmen looking at a six-sided building which he occupied, lifted up the window, put his head out, and addressed them thus: "Why do you stand there like a couple of blockheads gazing at my office. Do you take it for a church?" "Faith," answered one of them; "I was thinkin' 'so till the devil poked his head out the windy."

Passenger (to Irish porter)—Is the baggage man? Irish Porter—No, sir. He's out to lunch. Passenger—Well, then, will he be back after his lunch? Irish Porter (thinking he was being jelled)—No, he won't be back after his lunch, for his lunch he went after.

Don't let repairs eat up your profits

Whether they represent actual cash outlay, or only the time of yourself and your help, repairs are waste just the same. When you make an improvement—no matter how small its cost may be—let it be permanent. Then it is a real investment, something on which you can realize in cash should you decide to sell your property; and something that will pay you constant dividends—convenience, slightness and comfort as long as the farm remains your own.

Concrete Improvements Are Permanent

They last as long as the very hills themselves. They do not require experts to build them. Their first cost, in most cases, is no more than for inferior materials.

Are you interested in the subject of permanent, modern farm improvements? Then write for the book that describes hundreds of them—

"WHAT THE FARMER CAN DO WITH CONCRETE"

It isn't a Catalogue. Every one of its 160 handsomely illustrated pages is interesting and instructive. They tell how to mix concrete, how to place it, what can be done with it. The book was printed to sell for 50 cents, but we have a copy for you free.

Your name and address on a postal will bring this book TO YOU ABSOLUTELY FREE. Mail the postcard to-day. The book will come to you by return mail.

He enclosed it in an envelope, addressed the latter, and sealed it carefully, with wax, upon which he impressed the seal ring he wore. He looked at his watch. "There's plenty of time. I'll slip up by messenger. There's a paper in his hand, a note, which he had just written, and which he was about to slip into his pocket. He carefully opened the front door and looked out. The street was deserted—almost but not quite—for at each end of the blocked thoroughfare a man, intent, apparently, on something, stood in the doorway. Finally he reached the open air. But there still clung to him a little eye of men and women. Suddenly he glanced down the street. "There," he explained to his friends, "is a man I want to see—a man I must see." And he hurried off. As he went he glanced at his watch. There was no man, but he simply started to get away, that's all. On the way he passed Officer O'Connell and Burke, the plain clothes man, who he did so he smiled upon them in way that was childlike and bland. They returned the salutation with art nods of their heads. "Burke nodded—for it was he. "He won't come out till dark now," he replied, "you see if he does." "Well," returned the first man, "he says he's all right, right though he can't be sure just who we are since we're all togged out in this way. We might just as well stick together now for a while, anyway. Gimme a now of tobacco, will you? That's the ticket." "There was a silence while he carefully adjusted the stuff to suit his taste. Suddenly he grasped the other man by the sleeve. "Geel!" he exclaimed. "Look a here. How the devil now did he get out? He gave us all right, right though he can't be sure just who we are since we're all togged out in this way. We might just as well stick together now for a while, anyway.
