A group of 31 COPS (Cadet Organization Police School) visited Ottawa last week, and among their many tours, spent several hours watching Parliament in progress. The boys, all from the Mississauga and Port Credit area were accompanied to Ottawa by Constables Walter Richardson and Tom Crossan. The cadets visited Peel South MP Hyl Chappell at the Parliament Buildings, where Wally Deakon, MP for Toronto's High Park riding, and a resident of Port Credit, took time out to explain various government procedures.

Town seeks close liason with provincial planners

Mississauga general committee was last week concerned that Queen's Park planning policies might stymie development of the town. Committee wants close liasion to be established between town officials and staff at the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs in connection with the Metro Toronto and Region Transportation Study.

The study was being discussed by the Ontario cabinet late last month. It would affect Mississauga's agricultural area south of Steele's Ave., west of the Credit River to the town line with Oakville and north of Hwy. 5.

One proposal embodied in the study is the establishment of a green belt right across the town and a mile wide.

'We want to be in on these discussions right from the start,' reeve Chic Murray told committee, Wednesday. 'All they have to say is 'this is it' and we've had our course.'

The MTART study is a blueprint for planning the area between Oshawa and Hamilton.

'I think our staff should be in on the planning of it,' commented mayor Robert Speck. 'If it suddenly drops on you, you have to start from scratch.'
