

before us let us not venture to predict what future happens to her, but with all the earnestness and sincerity we can command, bid her leap on, knowing with what richness she will be endowed when the Master ~~recounts~~ <sup>recounts</sup> ~~enues~~ <sup>enues</sup> which "have been the cost of these"

And now I have done, Mrs George, and you who I have learned to love, "goodbye" but not without another word.
In the pictures at which we have been looking hold a place in your hearts, as dear, I know as they do in mine, than I believe that in some darkest corner