The Planting. A PARABLE.

" I said unto my little son, who was watching, with tears, a tree he had planted: 'Let it alone; it will grow while you are sleeping?" " Plant it safe, thou little child :

Then cease watching and cease weeping Thon hast done thy utmost part ; Leave it, with a quiet heart ; It will grow while those art sleeping."

" But, O father !" says the child. With a troubled face close creeping-"How can I but think and grieve, When the fierce winds come at eve, And snows beat-and I lie sleeping?

I have loved my linden so! In each leaf and future flowret: Watched it day by day with prayers, Guarded it with pains and cares, Lest the canker should devour it.

" O good father !" says the child. "If I come in summer's shining, And my linden-tree be dead-How the sun will scorch my head, While I sit forlorn and pining

Rather let me evermore Through this winter time-watch keepin Bear the cold, and storms, and frost That my treasure be not lost-Ay, bear aught !--- but idle sleeping.'

Sternly said the father then : Who art thou, child, vainly grieving Canst thou tend the balmy dews, Or the rich sap interfuse, That one leaf shall burst to living ?

Canst thou bid the heavens restrain Natural tempests for thy praying Canst thou bend one tender shoot Stay the growth of one frail root? Keep one blossom from decaving ?

If it live and bloom all fair, Will it praise thee for its blooming ? If it die will any plaints Reach thee, as with kings and saints Drops it to an equal tombing

Plant it; consecrate with prayers; It is safe 'neath His sky's folding Who the whole earth compasses, Whether we watch more or less-His large eye all things beholding

If He need a goodly tree For the shelter of the nations, He will make it grow : if not, Never yet his love forgot Human tears and faith and patience

Leave thy treasure in his hand-Cease all watching and all weeping. Years hence men its shade may crave, When its mighty branches wave Beautiful-above thy sleeping.

If his hope, tear-sown, that child Garnered safe with joyful reaping, Know I not; yet unawares, Oft his truth gleams through my prayers, · It will grow while thou art sleeping !

Though long, the article given below will give satisfaction to our readers: We would not willingly, says the Guardian, charge the opponents of a prohibitory law, with making wilful misrepresentations of the nature of this legal reform movement, and yet it is difficult to evade the impression that such is the case when we we the kind of factics employed for bishment of the object really contemplated. One of our city papers, in a late article on the regulations of the regulations of the regulations of the base discord by one unkind word, where only which in the first instance was supposed to have been the sleep of death. This case of India Walk, Tolago, dated April 8th, One of our city papers, in a late article on the subject, represents it as an attempt to inflict "Sumptuary Laws" upon the community. In the strict application of the term, we understand the term of the
