The family. My Lambs.

I loved them so, That when the elder Shepherd of the fold. Came, covered with the storm, and pale and cold And begged for one of my sweet lambs to hold I hade him go.

He claimed the pet ; A little fondling thing, that to my breast Clung always, either in quiet or unrest. I thought of all my lambs I loved aim best, And yet-and yet-

I laid him down In those white shrowded arms, with bitter For some voice told me that, in after years, He should know nought of passion, grief or fears, As I had known.

And yet again

That elder Shepherd came ; my heart faint ;

He claimed another lamb, with sadder plaint. Another !--- she, who gentle as a saint Ne'er gave me pain !

Agast 1 turned away : There sat she, lovely as an angel's dream, Her golden locks with sunlight all agleam, Her holy eyes with beaven in their beam ; I knelt to pray.

" Is it thy child ? My Father, say, must this pet lamb be given Oh ! thou hast many such, dear Lord, in heaven,'

And slept.

" Go ! go ! " I cried ; For once again that Shepherd laid his hand Upon the noblest of our household band : Like a pale spectre, there he took his stand
