By far the most pretentious offering at the Grand Opera House this season is the engagement of "King Dodo," who will hold court on Saturflay, matinee and night, Dec. 17th, season's company is a particularly brilliant one and the production is made upon the same elaborate scale which delighted New York during the long run at Daly's Theatre, and Chicago during the eight months' run at the Studebaker.

"King Dodo" is the creation of Pixley and Luders and is classed as comedy opera. It is full of tuneful, catchy music—melodies which are invariably whistled after a performance.
