

Strawberries.

The season of strawberries is now at its height and housekeepers should be reminded that there is no better preserve than one of strawberries. Preserve-makers in this county have not been as successful with this fruit as the foreigners. The imported German preserves seem to retain the flavor and almost the firmness of the fresh berry. The secret of their process is said to consist in simple care. They cook but a few berries at once. Strawberries are not an acid fruit therefore they do not require more than three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit. They are very much better, however, preserved than canned.

The very best way of preserving strawberries is in their own juice. To six quarts of ripe, firm berries allow four and a half pounds of sugar. Put three pints of the berries in a porcelain-lined kettle with three-quarters of a pound of sugar. Place them at the back of the stove, where they will simmer and where they will on account get beyond blood-heat. In an hour the juice will have drawn out of them. Mash them with a potato-masher and strain all the juice out of the berries through a fine strainer. Add this juice to the remainder of the sugar and beat up the whites of two eggs with their egg-shells in the syrup. Let the syrup come to the boiling point rather slowly and boil steadily for about five minutes. Then strain it, putting a cloth inside the colander and setting the colander on the mouth of an open jar.

Return the syrup to the preserving kettle, which should have been first thoroughly washed. Have the cans ready and set in boiling water in a tin pan. As soon as the syrup boils, add a few of the berries, just enough to cover the top. When these have cooked for five minutes put them in one of the cans and put more berries in the syrup to cook. As soon as you have a careful berries cover them with syrup and fill another can. When all the berries are used there may still be some syrup left. Can this by itself as it is richly flavored with the strawberry and use it for flavoring desserts in the winter.

It is not strictly necessary to clarify and strain the syrup for strawberry preserves, though the preserves are much handsomer in appearance if this is done. Strawberry preserves should be kept in a cool, dark place or they will be liable to ferment in the heat of the summer.

Can Dyspepsia be Cured.

This is a question often asked by those who suffer from the effects of this disease. The question usually arises after the miserable sufferer has tried nearly all the remedies recommended and has failed to derive any permanent relief from them or from physicians. To such the testimony of a well-known and highly respectable young man of Pictou may be of interest.

Mr. Wm. Adamson, under date of March 15th, 1892, writes:—"I am very glad to add my testimony to the marvelous efficiency of your St. Lawrence Dyspepsia Powders and Bitters. Mine was a very bad case of dyspepsia and though I had tried nearly all the popular remedies, I was not cured or guaranteed as cures for that disease, I received little or no benefit and almost began to think there was no cure for me."

It was then that I was induced to give your remedies a trial though I must confess that I had but little faith that they would benefit me. But the results were wonderful. The wretched feeling that only those who have experienced the agonies of dyspepsia can know, completely left me after using but two packages of St. Lawrence Dyspepsia and now after finishing a package of St. Lawrence Bitters I consider myself completely cured. I can now eat almost anything in the shape of food and hardly know that I have a stomach."

Ram's Horn's Reason.

The eccentric genius who presides over the destinies of the Ram's Horn, a weekly paper printed in the United States, under the head of "Some Reason," does a little bit of paragraphing which is unique to say the least.

One reason why every Christian is not a millionaire, is because God can't trust him with so much money.

One reason why people sleep in church is because the preacher himself is not wide awake.

One reason why some people are not as wicked as other people, is because they don't have the same opportunities.

One reason why some people don't have better wives, is because they are such poor husbands.

One reason why some people belong to a church is because they haven't been put out yet.

One reason why some people marry is because they are lazy to be farmers or blacksmiths.

One reason why some women marry is because they haven't the courage to work for a living.

One reason why some children die young, is because they get everything they cry for.

One reason why so many people are in prison to-day is because they had mothers and worse fathers.

One reason why the sinner can't see God is because he don't look the right way. Instead of standing up and looking down, he should kneel down and look up.

There are some patent medicines that are more marvelous than a dozen doctors' prescriptions, but they're not those that profess to cure everything.

Everybody, now and then, feels "run down," "played out." They're tired, but no power to generate vitality. They're not sick enough to call a doctor, but just too sick to be well. That's where the right kind of a patent medicine comes in, and does for a dollar what the doctor would do for less than five or ten.

We put in our claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

We claim it to be an unequalled remedy to purify the blood and invigorate the liver. We claim it to be lasting in its effects, creating an appetite, purifying the blood, and preventing Biliousness, Typhoid and Malarial fevers if taken in time. The time to take it is when you first feel the signs of weakness and weakness. The time to take it, on general principles, is NOW.

Next meeting in Temperance Hall, Thursday, July 21st, at 3.30 p. m. The meetings are always open to any who wish to become members.

Gospel Temperance meetings, conducted by members of the W. C. T. U., are held every Sunday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock, in the vestry of the Methodist church. All are welcome.

The flower mission in connection with the W. C. T. U. intend sending a box of flowers to Halifax for distribution among the sick and poor, each week during the season, commencing Wednesday, the 19th. Contributions will be solicited and gratefully received by the flower committee.

The W. C. T. U. of this place are to be congratulated upon choosing as their President so efficient a person as Mrs J. F. Tufts. Mrs Tufts is at present in company with her husband, taking a trip to the Pacific coast, and will probably be away for two months. Mrs D. F. Higgins in the meantime is satisfactorily filling the place of the President, and the work of the Union is going on.

Dress Reform.

As the general object of the Women's Christian Temperance Union is the enlightenment and uplifting of the human race it will not be out of place to discuss in this column, the question of dress reform. Shall we upon the death of a relative wear mourning? This has become a serious question and one we should seriously consider. Any reform in this direction must be by concerted action on the part of the sisterhood, or at least by the leaders in a given community setting an example to others. The burden of providing and wearing mourning presses most heavily upon those who are least able to carry the load and by assisting to abolish the wearing of mourning our wealthier sisters could in this way, not only vastly improve their own comfort but materially benefit the poor.

Why should we wear mourning? Is it not a heathen custom brought down to us, from the gloomy days of darkness that enshrouded mankind before Christianity revealed to us the hope of a future eternal blessedness?

Do we not deny our religion when we dress ourselves in black for a relative who has gone from us to enjoy this blessedness?

Why should the burden of wearing those sombre garments fall upon women alone?

I seem almost that our brothers should do their mourning by proxy or make us their scape-goats to carry their grief into the wilderness of forgetfulness.

Another reason why we should not wear mourning is its unhealthfulness.

How much discomfort this custom entails only those know, who have submitted to the galling yoke.

Besides a poisonous substance is used in making crape, which floating in the air in minute particulars, enters the lungs, causing often serious troubles.

These points can be supported by numerous illustrations but I will give them now, only emphasizing them in closing.

1st. Mourning is very expensive.

2d. Mourning is very injurious.

3d. Mourning is very unchristian.

WHITE RIBBONER.

How Lady Somerset Became an Abstemious.

Was told by her in the following manner:—

"I see before me a happy home with all that wealth and luxury and rank can give. I see two happy children come down to their dinner time after time, and I see the happy father and mother laugh to see these children drink the wine set before them."

At last it became known that something was wrong. I see the boy on his way to college, and by-and-by I see him a sad and hopeless drunkard. I saw him at twenty-three all the beauty gone from his once fair face, and at twenty-four I saw him laid in a drunkard's grave.

But the girl she grew to the sweetest womanhood I ever saw, and had as a wife everything this world could give her, and by-and-by I saw a little cloud no bigger than a man's hand rise over her and shadow that young life. I prayed with her. I wept with her. I implored her by all she held sacred, to pause. Her reply was that if I became a total abstemious she would. I had never thought of that before. I hesitated. I said, "Let me think this thing over."

To-night that home is broken up. The children know something is wrong with the mother, and the husband is heart-broken, and I know if I had not hesitated that day I might have saved that woman.

With this experience, when God gave me a "go light on this question, I told Him I would go out and plead with men, sinners and do battle with the giants."

THE KING OF MEDICINES!

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

This is to certify that I was sick with liver, stomach and kidney disease, which brought on chronic diarrhoea. Was unable to work the most of the time for five years; that I tried all the Sarsaparillas, and bitters recommended for the disease which did me no good. I also took treatment from five different doctors in this Province with the same results. I then went to the Hospital of Piro's Institution, Buffalo, and after a long time those noted doctors pronounced me incurable and I came home to die, as I feared all went to water. Hearing about Dr. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, I purchased a bottle from R. P. Seely, who will vouch for what I have written. Before I had taken a half bottle of the medicine I was a different man. Could eat anything. Two bottles cured me and I have had no symptoms of the disease since. Am now fat, hearty and strong, and I wish this published so others may benefit by taking the same medicine without spending $600 as I did for medicines and treatment that did me no good.
