Our Little Needs.

A little more of love, a little less of pain, a little more of sunshine, a little less of rain, a little more of friendship, a little less of strife. These are what we're wanting to make the perfect life.
A little more of laughter and fewer, feverish nights, a little more of forbearance, a little less of hate, a little more of patience, less quarrelling with Fate.
A little more of kindness, a little less severity, a little more of affection, a little less anger, a little more of honor and less of business greed, a little more of brotherly love, a little less of selfishness, a little more of practice and less desire to please, a little more of smiling, with fewer drooping cheeks.
A little more of virtue and fewer petty sins, a little more of praying, a little less of blame, more thoughts for all our loved ones and less for future foes.
A little more of doing than talking, of the deed.

The Playactress.

BY S. R. CROCKETT.
CHAPTER XII.—Continued.

What sympathetic chord thrilled into the tired man's heart cannot be known, but certain it is that as this woman that had been a sinner with his hand with her tears, he moved in his deep sleep, and spoke slow and clear, as though he were giving out his text in church. "Neither do I condemn thee—go and sin no more."
"This is a strange thing, and I cannot explain it, but it is true."
They were his Master's words, but it was the playactress who had taught him their force. The minister slept on, but the woman lay back very quiet, with an expression of great peace on her face. At that moment the sunshine struggled through the London fog and brightened her face. She went and signed no more.

EPICURE.

THE playactress was once more before an audience. It was not a large audience. It consisted of one—a little girl named Alle. There were also some frisky lambs and some exceedingly nasty fat mothers, who looked as if, never, could they have been lambs and frisked upon the green. But these could hardly be called an audience. They were rather saps and scenshiffers.

The theatre was out on the broad field called the Home Park on the farm of Nether Larg, a field won by the hardihood of William Greig from the circumambient heather. There were great white gowns for footlights. The arched sky and the wings of the white clouds made a glorious set piece. The playactress was enacting the part of Cinderella. Her audience was in rapturous delight. Never was there such enthusiasm. But one thing marred the performance. There was no prince to present the slipper upon one knee, and say, "Fair Cinderella, wilt thou be my Queen?"
Alle stated this difficulty more than once.

Now, it chanced that after all, there was a prince. He was listening at the back of the great stone dyke, also peering two things princes ought not to do.
He had an overcoat on his arm and he had come down by the night train, walking over the fields from the way-side station.
Again Alle said—
"How splendid it would be if we had a prince all sparkling with gold and jewels! It is such a pity we have no King's son!"
The peering Tom of a prince at the dyke back sprang over. He took the little slipper that belonged to Cinderella which had fallen on the grass. He bent gallantly on one knee—a very proper prince. He kissed the slipper before he put it on.
"Fair Cinderella," he said, "wilt thou be my Queen—the princess Johnny Spencer?"
Cinderella held out the prince the daintiest foot in the world, and the prince shod it with the slipper he had kissed.

Little Alle clapped her hands with gladness.
"That is the best play in all the world," she said, "and I like it to end."

Shelburne's First Home.

There still stands at Shelburne, N. S., the first house built in that town. It was erected by United Empire Loyalists, who traveled north from Massachusetts when the thirteen American States determined to make war on England. It is a big clapboarded structure, well and solidly constructed after the colonial style, and although very old for a wooden building is still in a good state of preservation. It was here that the Duke of Kent, father of the late Queen Victoria and grandfather of King Edward, lived when he was in Canada in 1785. The sudden influx of Loyalists at the time of the Revolution did not profit Shelburne very much. Within three years the town had dwindled to a village. Whole houses were moved away on vessels, the people scattered to Halifax, Yarmouth, St. John, N. B., and even away up the St. Lawrence and into Ontario. Some, too, went back to their old homes in the new republic. At Shelburne are still found some of the descendants of the slaves the Loyalists brought with them. Shelburne is comparatively modern in appearance, but as one walks about he is struck with the ancient styles of some of the architecture. The streets are broad and well laid out. As you go into the woods, you find unmistakable evidence that where now thick bush and wild vegetation growing and trees are ready for the woodman's axe, there once were streets and houses and city life. As the cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum are buried under the ashes of Vesuvius, so is much of what was once the proud and populous town of a century ago.

Allison Ladies' College.

Shelburne, N. B., January 7.—The negotiations are brought to a successful conclusion, Gogorza, the town's most noted baritone singer, will be heard in Sackville next April. He will take part in a grand musical festival which will be held under the auspices of the Mount Allison Conservatory of Music. The festival will mark the formal opening of Fawcett Memorial Hall, Mount Allison's large convention and assembly hall, now under construction.
In addition to Gogorza other notable musicians will be brought to Sackville for the event. These will be both vocalists and instrumentalists. Moreover, part will be taken in the festival by the excellent orchestra of the Conservatory, some thirty pieces, and by the vocal classes of the Conservatory. It will not only be by far the most noteworthy event of its kind ever arranged for in the Maritime Provinces but it will be one of the leading musical events of the year in America, so notable are Gogorza and the artists who will be brought to assist him.
Dr. Jordan, the principal of the Ladies' College and Conservatory of Music, is now working out the various details attaching to the festival. First among them, come the completion of the negotiations to bring Gogorza from his home in Italy to this side of the water. A further announcement in regard to the great singer's date of arrival in America will be made in the other notable artists who will assist him in Sackville will be expected shortly.

Ease For Piles!

"I USED TO SUFFER, BUT—"
This is the experience of a lady who used to suffer from this terrible ailment, but found a cure. The writer is Mrs. E. Boxall, of 97 Scott St., St. Thomas. She says: "I consider it my duty to write of the benefits derived from using Zam-Buk. For some months I was a constant sufferer from bleeding piles. I used a great many ointments, but got no relief until I tried Zam-Buk. It cured me, and I have had no return of the trouble. Since my cure I have advised several others suffering from piles to use Zam-Buk, and in each instance have had satisfactory results."
If you suffer from this ailment apply Zam-Buk at night before retiring, and you will be satisfied with the trial! A contributory cause of piles is often constipation, and a mild laxative will greatly aid the operation of Zam-Buk. For fastidious individuals, and those due to blood poisoning, etc., Zam-Buk is equally effective. It is a soothing, cooling balm, which stimulates the cells beneath the epidermis and epithelium to natural action. It relieves the tension which in the case of piles causes such acute agony, and in all respects will be found eminently satisfactory.
Zam-Buk is also a cure for eczema, skin eruptions, cuts, burns, rashes, chapped hands, frost bite, cold sores, bad leg, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Keep Your Temper.

Which of all domestic virtues is most essential to a happy married life? The ability to keep one's temper, beyond all question. There is nothing which lends more to misery, not only for its possessor, but also for those about him, than an ungovernable and unreasonable temper. No one is worse to live with than an ill-tempered man, except perhaps an ill-tempered woman. Had tempered people completely spoil the lives of those who associate with them. The feeling of strain is ever present; one never knows just when the storm will break, although apparently, the weather, metaphorically, is set fair. Life in these circumstances becomes a burden almost beyond bearing.

When Sleep Fails You

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will bring rest, comfort and vitality by building up the nerves.
Mr. Jas. Wesley Weaver, a veteran of the Froben Hall, Fort DuRoi, Ont., writes: "For years I was afflicted with nervousness and dreading insomnia, so that I never knew for three years what a full hour's sleep I had. I had spells of weakness and cramps in stomach and limbs.
"Though I tried several doctors, it was money uselessly spent. Finally Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was brought to me and slight doses cured me. It is simply wonderful what benefit I have obtained from this treatment!"
Sleeplessness and headaches are warning of approaching nervous collapse. You can positively remove these troubles and prevent pneumonia or other fatal diseases by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers. Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

The Farm and Crime.

Something over half the population of Canada is engaged in agriculture and yet agriculture furnished less than five per cent. of the criminal population of the country in 1908. The farm provides more than the house and street of the state; from these comes the moral fibre as well.
Another fact in the criminal record. Over 52 per cent. of those convicted of crime in 1908 were classed as laborers. Does not this indicate that incapacity and ignorance are among the chief causes of crime? And does it not point to the necessity of a broad, more better educational system—a system which will train, as well as give manual training as well as the other subjects now taught?

The Cough of Consumption

Your doctor will tell you that your fresh air and good food are the real cures for consumption. But often the cough is very hard. Hence, we suggest that you ask your doctor about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It controls the tickling, quiets the cough.
We pack our bottles with our own hands. We use the best quality of glass. We use the best quality of paper. We use the best quality of ink. We use the best quality of everything.
One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will cause an increased flow of bile, and produce a gentle laxative effect the day following. Formals on each box. Show it to your doctor. He will understand at a glance. Dose, one pill at bedtime.

Mistakes of Life.

Judge Rentoul addressed the Bartholomew Club, London, recently, on the Fourteen Mistakes of Life, he said they were:
To attempt to set up our own standard of right and wrong, and expect everybody to conform to it.
To try to measure the enjoyment of others by our own.
To expect uniformity of opinion in this world.
To look for judgment and experience in youth.
To endeavor to mould all dispositions alike.
Not to yield in unimportant trifles.
To look for perfection in our own actions.
To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied.
Not to alleviate, if we can, all that needs alleviation.
Not to make allowances for the weaknesses of others.
To consider anything impossible that we cannot ourselves perform.
To believe only what our finite minds can grasp.
To live as if the moment, the time, the day, were so important that it would live forever.
To estimate people by some outside quality, for it is that within which makes the man.

Little Helps.

In making hot starch add one tablespoonful of lard and one of salt to each gallon of starch. Be sure and use white hot.
For cold starch use about half the usual quantity of starch and add a tablespoonful of powdered borax. This stiffens without danger of the iron sticking.
For ironing holders get asbestos if possible. Cover the holders when finished with little sacks or cases buttoned on. These are easy to launder and easily replaced. For quickly made holders to use around stoves use your salt sacks and other small sacks. Slip the holder inside, turn the end back inside and fasten with a small safety pin. When scorched or soiled these are easily removed and a new cover quickly put on.
If a slight scorch is made on a white garment sponge freely with a cloth wet with hydrogen peroxide and iron dry. The scorch will disappear like magic.
To Save Elastic.—To save elastic in children's blouses, which cost sometimes as much as the material of the blouse, take a piece of tape or salvage the size of the child's waist, four inches. Cut the tape in half, insert four inches of elastic, put the tape, with the elastic in the center of it, in the hem of the blouse. It will act the same as if it were all elastic and wear better. Therefore you can make six blouses with the same elastic which you would otherwise put in one blouse.
To Smooth Irons.—Tack a piece of sandpaper on the end of the ironing board to smooth the iron.
Unused Linens.—Valuable linens that are unused should at least be washed once a year, thoroughly dried, and refolded. This will prevent yellowing and also the injury which results if creases are allowed to remain too long.
Fever Sores.—Fever sores and old chronic sores should not be healed entirely, but should be kept in healthy condition. This can be done by applying Chamberlain's Salve. This salve has no superior for this purpose. It is also most excellent for chapped hands, sore nipples, burns and diseases of the skin. For sale by Rand's Drug Store.
The average woman can put up convincing arguments why a man's overcoat should last four winters, and why her bonnet is only good for four weeks.

Europe's Dirtiest Town.

All holiday travellers should shun Boryslaw, in Galicia—the back of Europe—truthfully called the dirtiest place in Europe. It is the oil trade centre, and is decidedly not beautiful. In the main street all the houses have been built on mine refuse, and most of them have sunk below the level of the street. In fact, there is not a solid brick or stone building in the whole of the town, and many of the houses are in a state of partial or entire collapse. Unrefined petroleum is everywhere. It gets into everything—food and clothing—and the atmosphere reeks of it. Along one side of the main street is a raised wooden pavement, and beneath it is an oily ditch. Boryslaw's main waterway is a narrow, sluggish, oily stream. On its banks the town's refuse is cast, and the market booths are erected along-side, while the local washerwomen—though, from external appearances, one would judge that laundreses did not exist there at all—do their washing in its oily depths.

Health, Wealth, and Work.

So long as Nature's laws require that mankind shall work, the necessity of keeping one's self in health and strength is of first importance. Many people believe that men of great wealth do nothing. That is a mistaken idea. They may not work with hammers or shovels, but they work with their nerves, brains and muscles. Scores of millionaires have worked themselves into nervous prostration in their efforts to control, to avoid, or to ignore their millions. But it is the humble workers who suffer most.
Mr. Arves Burtin, of Robertville, Gloucester Co., N. B., is a sturdy man of 65, who works in the lumbering districts in winter, and who, therefore, must have good health. Some years ago, he suffered much from Dyspepsia, with headaches, dizziness and rheumatism. In a statement, dated June 24th, '08, he says he used only Mother's Balm for four bottles cured him completely.

Obstinate Indigestion Can be Cured by a Fair Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

No trouble causes more widespread suffering and discomfort than indigestion. The ailments takes various forms. Some victims are ravenous for food; others turn sick and faint at the sight of meals; but as a rule every meal is followed by intense pains in the chest, heartburn, sick headaches, flatulence and shortness of breath. Indigestion assumes an obstinate form because ordinary medicines only subdue its symptoms—but do not cure. So-called predigested foods only make the digestion more sluggish, and ultimately make the trouble take a chronic form.
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure indigestion because they go right to the root of the trouble. They make new, rich blood that invigorates weakened organs, thus strengthening the digestive system so that the stomach does its own work. That is the Dr. Williams' way—the rational way—to cure indigestion and the ailments that arise from it. This has been proved time after time in the published cures wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Miss Blanche Wallace, Dartmouth, N. S., says—"I suffered greatly with my head and stomach, and often took fainting spells. I could not retain anything on my stomach and while I naturally craved food I really dreaded mealtime with the pain and discomfort that followed. I tried a number of remedies but got no relief. My mother was using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at the time with so much benefit that she induced me to try them. The result was that soon the trouble had passed away, and I have since enjoyed the best of health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
