Unreasonable Conditions

Attention is drawn to some curious anomalies in the existing temperance laws. Montreal wholesale dealers may use the mails to advertise their goods in Nova Scotia, but no paper published in the province is permitted to publish liquor advertisements. Persons who have not tasted strong drink for years, and others who never drank or never intended to, moderate drinkers and hard drinkers, are receiving through the mail pamphlets and price lists from liquor dealers in Montreal who intrude their obnoxious propaganda into the quiet sober homes of temperate communities in an endeavor to bring their barrooms under our very noses, and to flood the country with strong drink. Under the present law the post office people are obliged to handle this matter. There is not a newspaper in Nova Scotia that will carry one of these advertisements for any money. Yet the mails carry them into every part of the country, with the result that thousands of dollars daily are being sent to Montreal from this province alone for intoxicating liquor "for personal and family use." So we have the unreasonable condition that while no person in this province may sell a drop of liquor to another resident of the province, the liquor dealers of Montreal may sell all they like, without the payment of either taxes or license fees.

There's a Reason. Quality Counts.

An editor works 365 days in a year. And once in a while some year to get out 52 issues of a paper. A son-of-a-seacock of a deadbeat per. that's labor. Once in a while takes the paper for two or three a subscriber pays a year in advance then skips out without payment for his paper, that's caping for it, that's anarchy.
