The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

If there is one inalienable right of childhood it seems to me it's the right to all the sleep it needs, even when that happens to be more than it thinks it wants.

And for that reason nothing makes me more indignant than to see a sleep-headed little kiddie being hauled around on the cars or streets at night and deprived of its right to sleep by the very people who ought to be the most zealous guardians of that right.

In the theatre car on which I came last night there were three of them—one lucky in being small enough to sleep, a troubled, cramped, intermittent sleeper, nothing like what he should have been having in his crib at home, but still a sleeper. One little girl five or six years old, leaning uncomfortably against her mother's arm and occasionally lifting her head to ask, fretfully: "Aren't we most there, mamma?" The third, a boy of eight or nine, less obviously suffering from sleeplessness, to be sure, but an even more pathetic sight than the other two, because he had beneath his eyes the deep circles that showed that he was all too well accustomed to such hours.

I don't suppose the society with a long name, that abbreviates to S. P. C. C., would be considered exactly justified in stepping in in cases like those, but I wish it were.

I wish there could be a law prohibiting parents from keeping children under ten out after eight o'clock at night, unless they could show that such a proceeding was absolutely necessary.

It is as cruel to children to bring them up without a full allowance of sleep as without sufficient food.

One of the saddest sights in a big city to me is to go through the slums at eleven o'clock or midnight in summer and see the little children still playing about the streets because it is too hot in the crowded, ill-ventilated tenement houses for them to have much chance of sleeping before them, and because they have parents that are too ignorant to realize what such hours mean for a child.

I think every child up to the age of fourteen might go to bed at seven o'clock practically every night of its life. Fourth of July, Christmas, my birthday and the night of the Church Fair were about the only exceptions to early retiring that I was allowed, and it didn't hurt me any.

Indeed, I only wish it had been enforced longer.

From fourteen years of age until the child gets through high school, I don't think half-past eight or nine for every night in the week but Friday and Saturday is one bit too early.

Of course, there's going to be a good deal of protest against such a rule when other children are going to bed at all hours of the night. The hard-hearted father or mother that enforces it is going to be pleaded with and accused of cruelty, and all that.

But never your mind.

Some day, when the girl realizes that she has a very much better complexion than the girls who went to parties or sat up and read or went to the theatre five nights of the week and your boy finds he has the kind of physique that's wanted on the varsity team, maybe they're going to realize that early bedtime had something to do with producing these blessings and come to the point of thanking the author of early bedtimes.

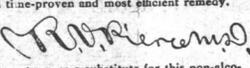

And even if they do forget that little formality—which I suppose is, or the whole, rather likely—I fancy you are going to be so glad of their healthy brains and bodies that you aren't going to need much other reward.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early age, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

A little kerosene added to the water used for washing windows greatly lessens the labor and improves the appearance of the window.

When ironing with gas, place two tongs side by side, then put one more on top of each. This will heat four irons on one burner.

A few peas added to the dish of creamed chicken, lobster, or shrimps are as pleasing to the eye as they are satisfying to the palate.

In using the rind of a lemon for flavoring, remember that it is only the outer or yellow part of the rind that holds the essential oil.

The simplest thing for removing lardine from hands or white goods is household ammonia, which converts the lardine into iodide of ammonia.

Use two pieces of glass and two pictures placed back to back in pass-partouting. Fasten the hangers to the cardboard between the two pictures.

Put a receipt for making plasters on your medicine chest door, it will be convenient in case someone unaccustomed to making them has to do so.

A drop of oil of cloves on the tongue takes away the sense of taste for a moment, and disagreeable medicine can be given without any trouble.

If a pancake griddle must be kept hot for late comers, slip it into the oven, close the door, and when the griddle is needed again it is hot.

A tablespoonful of Epson salts, added to one-half gallon of cold water thoroughly dissolved and poured over plant roots will hasten their growth wonderfully.

Instead of just heating butter and sugar together for hard sauce stir into it one-half cup of whipped cream and the white of an egg, beaten very light.

When a white enamel vessel has become discolored, simply fill the vessel with water and add a teaspoonful of fluoride of lime. Let boil a few minutes.

The best frosting for cakes is made by simply mashing five or six dark red strawberries and mixing with confectioners' sugar until stiff enough to spread.

Put a cupful of Indian meal, half a cupful of white flour and three tablespoonfuls of powdered borax into a paper bag and shake any article that needs cleaning.

In removing spots put a thick pad of cheesecloth or some other material underneath the spot to absorb the dirty cleansing liquid that soaks through the garment.

A wire clothesline can be cleaned perfectly by rubbing with a woolen cloth saturated with coal oil and afterwards with the same cloth liberally sprinkled with cleansing powder.

Union suits dried on a coat hanger and with the tape about the neck drawn up slightly will not draw out of shape about the neck as they do

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of the system and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again and all my color, spirits, vigor and health of former days have returned to stay."

Take any old discarded toothbrush to blacken shoes with paste blacking. It is better than anything sold on the market for getting into cracks where just is bound to collect.

When a cork falls into the vinegar bottle, to get it out tie a nail on the loop of a string so that it will not float, and it will be easy to get the string into place under the cork.

Interest in the Paper Supply.

New York, May 2.—Arthur Spurgeon, J. P., president of the British International Society of Journalists, and general manager for Cassell and Co., Ltd., publishers of London, who was a passenger on board the Carmania, which arrived from Liverpool yesterday, said that well bound books at a low price had come to stay and were causing publishers on the other side much concern.

"I know that the question of paper supply in this country is a grave one," he continued, "and I expect to look into the matter when I go to Canada. On the other side there is much speculation as to the value of the immense plant of Lord Northcliffe in Newfoundland, and articles on the subject were read with much interest."

Third $50,000 Prize Offered by Daily Mail.

London, May 3.—The third $50,000 aviation prize offered by the London Daily Mail, was announced to-day, it being for a flight from London to Paris.

Following the winning of the Mail's $50,000 prize for a London to Manchester flight by Louis Paulhan, the Mail announced a similar prize for another flight within England, which will probably be a round trip flight between London and Edinburgh.

The enthusiasm aroused by the discussion of a London to Paris aerial trip has been such, however, that the Mail has added this third prize.

WHEN THAT COLD COMES!

How is it to be cured? This method is simplicity itself: Rub the chest and throat vigorously with Nerviline—rub it in good and deep, lots of rubbing can't do any harm. Then put some Nerviline in water and use it as a gargle; this will ease the cough, cut out the phlegm, assist in breaking up the cold quickly. There is no telling how quickly Nerviline breaks up a hard racking cough, eases a tight chest, relieves a pleuritic pain. Why, there isn't another liniment with half the power, the penetrative qualities, the honest merit that has made Nerviline the most popular American household liniment. A large 50c. bottle of Nerviline cures ills of the whole family—and makes the doctor's bill small.

Lost Newfoundland Found.

The unfortunate young Newfoundland man named William Francis, who was reported missing at McGivney Junction, N.B., in these columns, was found Sunday night wandering in the forest. Chief of Police Gallagher, of Fredericton, assisted by a number of railway construction men, discovered the demented young man far in the interior. He was sent here in charge of his cousin, George Pyke, who will accompany the unfortunate boy to his home in Burin, Nfld.—Ex.
