CHAPTER XIII

A NOBLE TRIUMPH.

"Allow me to introduce my friend, Lord Heatherdene," said Hamilton.

Katrine held out her hand with a curiously questioning look; Charlie bent over it, and was about to speak, when Lord Hamilton uttered a cry of warning, and Katrine, turning swiftly, saw that Olive, who had drawn slightly back at the sound of Lord Charles' voice, was leaning against the door, with her hand pressed to her heart.

Katrine was at her side in a moment, but Olive would have fallen if Lord Charles had not sprang forward and caught her in his arms.

"She has fainted!" said Katrine, with compressed lips. "It is what I feared—she has been too calm throughout. Well, one of you get a little water—gentle, stay!—there is some in my room."

She opened the door as she spoke, but Lord Hamilton had darted off at the first word, and Lord Charles raised Olive in his arms and carried her into the room.

Every chair was full with the dresses which had been thrown down as they had been taken off; there was no place on which to lay her down, and he still held her while Katrine moistened her lips and forehead.

Charlie looked up from the sweet, white face that rested so trustingly on his arm, to the powdered and painted one above him. Katrine was still dressed as Madame Deschappelles and looked at least sixty.

"I'm afraid she is very ill," he said, his voice grave and anxious.

Katrine shook her head.

"No, she has fainted, that is all," she said, in a low voice. "Poor child!"

"Poor child," echoed Charlie, almost unconsciously.

As he spoke a thrill seemed to run through Olive's frame; she slowly opened her eyes and looked up. As she met the anxious gaze of his handsome eyes, her own seemed over-weighted and closed again, and a warm flush stole faintly over her face.

Scientific Cure for Eczema

New Discovery—Thousands Find Relief.

No scientific discovery in recent years has attracted such wide-spread attention among physicians in this country and throughout Canada as the wonderful D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

After years of debate, medical authorities are now agreed that eczema and other skin diseases are not seated in the blood but are caused by myriads of microscopic germs gnawing the skin just below the epidermis. The patient is perfectly healthy, it is only the skin that is diseased.

Hence, scientists are now agreed that you must cure the skin through the skin. The medicine must be in liquid form in order to penetrate properly. The true remedy has been discovered in D. D. D. Prescription. The instant you wash with this cleansing, soothing liquid you will find the itch gone. Simple to use, absolutely harmless to the most sensitive skin. D. D. D. Prescription is the most scientific and efficient remedy known for Eczema in all its forms. Bad Leg, Pimples, Scalp Troubles, Open Sores and Itching Rash, Salt Rheum and Ring Worm, and all other skin troubles yield to D. D. D. The first bottle will prove it.

Stop that itch now, get a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription to-day. Sold Everywhere. Recommended by T. McMurdo & Co., A. V. Kenned, M. Connors, Peter O'Mara.

"My sister leaves everything to me, Mr. Gossop."

"She could not be in better hands. Lord Hamilton said last night that I was to see you."

"Oh," said Katrine; "and he gave you instructions last night, Mr. Gossop, and what does he propose?"

Mr. Gossop coughed behind his hand. As a matter of course Lord Hamilton had said, "Whatever Miss Haldine proposes, I agree to—leave the matter in her hands." But Mr. Gossop was not going to admit this.

"Well, you see, his lordship leaves the matter to me, Miss Haldine, and I think that if we were to say a year's agreement at twenty pounds per week, that would meet the case."

He smiled nervously at Olive, and seeing what he mistook for a look of dissatisfaction on her face, whereas it was sheer amazement and incredulity, he went on earnestly:

"The expense of the theater, I assure you, Miss Adrienne, will not allow of more liberal terms; where is there another that would be so free-handed? Twenty pounds a week—a thousand as a start. It's—it's—fabulous!"

Olive rose, pale and open-eyed.

"A thousand pounds a year for me, do you say? Truly—"

"I don't think his lordship ought to offer more," said Mr. Gossop, in a tone of grief and sorrow. "I fully appreciate your astounding talent, Miss Adrienne; fully, no one more so—but a thousand a year—"

"Is not half so much as they would give at the Crescent or the Royal," put in Katrine. "No, Mr. Gossop; we will say one hundred and twenty-five pounds per month for the first six months; after that we shall see! Another cup of coffee—are you quite sure?"

Mr. Gossop groaned, but was only too delighted at the terms. If Miss Haldine had demanded fifty pounds per week he would have had to yield.

Mr. Gossop got up and produced a document.

Bolled milk makes a good substitute for cream in coffee. Chicken fat or salad oil can be used for making pastry.

The most sanitary way of disposing of dirt is by burning. Honey can be safely kept in any place where salt remains dry. Pumpkin pies can be sweetened with molasses, instead of sugar.

Bolled salt mackerel should be garnished with lemon and parsley. Bolled custard is much smoother if only the yolks of the eggs are used. A rich pudding needs a plain sauce, and a plain pudding a rich one. A teaspoonful of sugar saved every day makes five pounds in a year.

LONDON

LONDON, Feb. 4th, 1918. GERMAN "STRIKES."

A great deal of space has been given in the London newspapers during the past few days to the strikes in Austria and Germany and especially of late to those in Germany. Two conflicting editorial views are expressed with regard to this labor unrest in the enemy countries. On the one side we have the "Daily Mail" leading the champions of the camouflage theory. They declare that the German and Austrian strikes are all prompted by the governments of those countries with a view to deceiving the workmen of the Entente countries. Whenever they have fulfilled that purpose the strikes will disappear as by magic. On the other hand we have the party headed by the "Daily Telegraph" which pronounces itself against the camouflage theory. This party states that the German and Austrian strikes are genuine, spontaneous outbursts on the part of the working people of those countries who want bread and peace. Towards the end of the period under review both these conflicting views have rather shaded off into a third and more or less neutral view which declares that so far as Germany is concerned the government of the Kaiser thought the time had arrived when a little blood letting on the part of its over-strengthened population might be advisable. It therefore closed up all the ordinary channels of public discussion such as meetings, newspapers, etc., drove the people into the streets and then set the armed police on them at that time emissaries of the secret service were busy arresting all the
