

Here's a Hat That Will Stand Up

We make no sugared claims, we won't guarantee it to last forever, we won't guarantee that it is better than the best hat ever made—hats are being improved on every day—we just say this: if it doesn't give you satisfactory wear for the price paid, we'll give you your money back or a new hat. All you need do to get a hat that will stand up is to look on the sweat-band for either of these names—

TRINITY.

As I write I have before me the "Visitors Book" of the Parsonage at Trinity, and as it takes me back to thirty-six years ago, it appeals to me as sufficiently interesting to write to you. The book, like the majority of books of that date, is substantially bound: every sheet of its paper bears the watermark of Britannia in outline, in a three inch circle, surrounded by the royal crown, together with the words and date, "Somerton and Son, 1816." This, evidently, was a guarantee of a good quality of paper in those days, for the one hundred and fifty pages of the book are of the best hand-made paper, such as is found in all the Church registers of a hundred years ago.

On the outside of the cover is a square of roan leather with an ornamental border and large lettering—"Visitors Book, in heavy gold leaf printing; and at the top of every page of the book, are the words—Date, Name, Residence.

It was purchased at the shop of "George Boake, Stationer, to Dr. Rev. National Schools, York House, St. John's, Lond." It was presented to the Parsonage in 1825, when Rev. William Bullock was the parish priest of Trinity. The person who presented it, wrote on the fly-leaf, as follows:—
"Rev. Sir, Will you kindly put your name at the top of the first page of this book as its custodian, together with that of Mrs. Bullock, and permit me as the donor to place my name here. Then followed the name, which has so faded, that it has successfully defied all my efforts to decipher; hence the donor must, I fear, remain unknown for ever—for which I am sorry."

There is nothing very deeply interesting in this book, other than it takes us back to the times that we have often heard the old folks tell about; to men and women who were leaders in Church and State in their day and generation; and whose names and actions as therein recorded, give us a glimpse of social duties fulfilled by those to whom those duties were very important, and who long since have passed to their eternal rest.

In compliance with the request of the donor of the book, Rev. William Bullock wrote their names at the head of the first page of the book.
The first visitor at the Parsonage after the book was ready for duty, was C. F. Bennett, St. John's. At first sight I thought this was Charles Fox Bennett, I wonder was it? I think it must be too far back for him. However, whether it was Charles Fox Bennett's signature or not, the name takes me back in memory to my early boyhood days, when the Charles Fox Bennett that this signature has reminded me of, was a candidate for political honours in Trinity Bay. He was addressing the electors of Trinity in the old Court House, whilst I, as a small boy, was in a corner just inside the main door.

Mr. Bennett, at that time was deeply interested in the copper mines of Green Bay. He assured the voters that he was essentially one of themselves. He said:—"Men, I am a working man, as you are." From the far end of the room some one asked, "What did you ever work at?" Mr. Bennett replied "I am a miner." Again, the same voice replied "Yes, you're an under-miner." I don't think he voted for Mr. Bennett.

The next person of great importance to write his name, was Frederick Bullock, H.M.S. Snap. The "Snap" wintered in Trinity that year, and was safely moored, by being frozen in the harbour ice at Rosey Cove, N.W. Arm. Frederick Bullock was in Command of the "Snap," on which his brother, Rev. William Bullock had been a Lieutenant before he began his training for Holy orders.

Three other names of officers of the "Snap" also appear in the book as visitors at the Parsonage during the winter, viz: Doctor James Lindsay, Mr. E. Slade, and Mr. G. Williams. It was a gay winter in Trinity, and mutual regrets were felt and expressed when, with the spring, the good ship "Snap" left to patrol other parts of the coast.

In 1827 Archdeacon Coster, the Bishop of Nova Scotia, Judge Des Barres, the Governor, High Sheriff Buchanan, Malak Campbell, and John Slade, some were among the distinguished visitors.

In 1829 I find the autographs of Chief Justice Tucker and Sheriff Stubb, St. John's; and John Slade, Harbor Grace. Whilst George Garland's name appears in 1827, that of John Slade, Garland first appeared in 1828, and then once or twice a year for several years after that date. The name of Garland is still remembered in Trinity with deep and grateful respect.

The last person to bear the honoured name in our midst, and to confirm the claims upon our gratitude, was Mrs. (Garland) Cooksey; whilst the most beautiful of the mural tablets in the mortuary Chapel, is the offering of grateful Trinity to the memory of George Garland, who died in 1888, aged 40 years.

The signatures of Judge Brenton, and Judge Des Barres, Robert Slade, James Slade, Rev. G. Dodsworth, Rev. William Nesbitt, and Rev. A. Coster grace the pages of 1829; whilst those of the Bishop of Nova Scotia, Archdeacon Coster, Mr. Inglis, Rev. W. William (Wesleyan Minister), The Governor, James Crowdy, Esq., Major Griffiths, Mr. Stooking and others appear in 1833. The signatures of Benjamin Sweetland, Mrs. Sweetland, Trinity, and Messrs. Milfin and Gayler of Bonavista are the only ones of 1834.

Then, I think, the book must have fallen down behind the desk, and was not found again for seven years, as no entries appear from 1836 to 1843.

In 1843 I find the signatures of Judge Des Barres and H. A. Emerson; and in 1844 the only signatures are those of Rev. H. T. Fitzgerald, Henry Laidly, Esq., Lisbon; and F. C. Hopburn, Trinity.

In 1849 The Bishop of Newfoundland and David Candow, J.P., of Tickle Cove, Bonavista Bay registered; whilst the signature of Thomas Dunn, St. John's is the only one under 1850, and that of Rev. J. Vickers, St. John's during 1855. On January 30th 1856 the following persons paid their respects to the person—George Darling, Capt. Purvis, (R.N.) H.M.S. Argus, Alexander Bremner, and William S. P. Lockyer; and on August 20th 1857, Capt. Fyfe (R.N.) H.M.S. Basilisk, Lady Bannerman, Rev. Benjamin and Mrs. Smith, F. B. T. Carter, The Roman Catholic Bishop, The Bishop of Newfoundland, and Rev. Mr. Peley of Heart's Content, constituted a distinguished party.

The year 1858 is represented by the signatures of J. W. Marriott, Doctor Winter, Mr. Haddon and Judge Robinson.
In 1864 the name of Capt. Orlebar, of the survey steamer, "Margaretta Stevenson" appears for the first time. Those of us who attended the old Colonial and Continental School, under James Collis, at that time, have many causes to remember the dignified and hearted Capt. Orlebar, who never failed to visit the school, when in port; and to him we owe the pleasure of many a half-holiday, and other indications of his kind interest in us. He held a License to act as Lay Reader, which License was gladly endorsed by the clergyman whose parish or mission he found himself on a Sunday; and not only in Newfoundland but also in Cape Breton, I have heard of him conducting a service in some outlying part of an extensive mission. He was most highly respected by all who knew him—may he rest in peace. This review will be continued next week.

Mr. Richard Hiccock and his bride spent a week in Trinity with his mother, at the old home. We were glad to have the privilege of meeting them, and the opportunity to assure them of our deepest interest in their welfare. They have gone to Grand Falls, and to a home, which we have been told, is in every sense very beautiful. Bon voyage!

The Hon. A. Mews joined his wife and family in Trinity last week, and is enjoying the rest and quietude of Trinity, such as is not only delightful in the present, but such as will also re-fill the storage batteries of physical and mental energy, for use during the depressing days of winter and spring.

Mr. Gates an Inspector of the Royal Bank of Canada, paid an official visit to Trinity last week. This was his first visit to Trinity, and after his routine duties were attended to, he found time to climb Gun Hill, to visit beautiful Barrow Beach and Glenora, and to examine the old records of St. Paul's parish—so full of tragedy and comedy. He expressed himself as very much pleased with us and ours, and we believe he will be glad to come again some day. We, too, shall be glad to have him come, and we shall leave the latch string out.

Miss Evelyn Lockyer of Harbor Grace spent a week with friends and relatives at Trinity East and Trinity.

A party made up of Mrs. Pittman, Mrs. Mews and Hon. A. Mews, in charge of Mr. Eriksen, motored to Port Union, Bonavista, and on one day last week. They saw the sights of the respective towns; met several old friends, and made some new ones, and returned delightfully pleased with it all. This was a part Mrs. Pittman's 56th birthday programme.

Mrs. (Dr.) Levisconte of St. King's Cove, together with her sister, Mrs. White, and Miss White of Catalina, paid a short visit to Trinity on 16th instant. We were glad to have the pleasure of meeting them, and to be assured that they are interested in the Trinity items of Saturday's Evening Telegram. Doctor Levisconte is a Trinitarian.

The schooner, Cecil M. Beck, Captain Whately of Belleoram, landed 195 tons of coal last week for Mr. Joseph Morris, and left again for Sydney.

Miss Somerton left last week for Montreal.

Mr. M. Parsons, representing N.F. Boot and Shoe Co., registered at Garland Hotel last week.

Mr. Edward Somerton of the Royal Stores' staff, Grand Falls, is spending his holiday with parents and friends in Trinity.

Master Harry Mott, very reluctantly, left Trinity last week, and returned to St. John's by the Sisu.

Mr. John Jolliffe, Methodist School Teacher at Old Perlican, came to Trinity by the Prospero, registered at Garland Hotel, and went by train to Musgrave Town on a visit to friends.

Mr. Lawrence, representing Brandram, Henderson Co., and Mr. Fullerton, representing the Imperial Oil Co., registered at Garland Hotel last week.

Whilst taking a party of observing passengers from the Prospero, around Trinity last week, it was pleasing to hear such remarks as:—"What a clean town." "How nice to see a town where people believe in the use of paint and lime." "I am sure, I should like to live here."

Miss Guy, who has been teaching at Bonne Bay, is spending the summer at her home in Trinity.

Mr. Nicholas Ryan, Rev. Fr. Dwyer, Mr. John Hennebury of Bonavista, and Mr. Daly of Melrose, registered at Garland Hotel on Sunday last.

The annual Flower Service—in memory of the departed—was held in connection with St. Paul's congregation on Sunday last. The day began with a celebration of Holy Communion in the Mortuary Chapel. The building was filled with a devout congregation, made up of representatives of nearly every family of St. Paul's congregation, and constituting the largest number of communicants that, to date, have met there for the Saviour's own and only service. This is but one of the many proofs of the increasing love for the Chapel Service, and of the fruit-bearing of the lesson taught by its appointments.

At 2 o'clock an open air service was held in the cemetery, at which a stranger remarked, "I did not think there were so many people in Trinity." After the prayers, hymns and address by the rector, the people were asked to follow to the grave of William Pittman, who was the first person buried in the Cemetery, forty years ago. There, as the congregation stood around the grave a short address was given on the life and death of Mr. Pittman: the hymn "For all the Saints who from their labours rest" which had been sung at the burial forty years ago, was sung again; all recited the Creed and joined in the Lord's Prayer.

Then all the people followed the officiating priest to another part of the cemetery, and stood around the grave of a little child—Nellie Louise Woodridge, of Dunfield, the last person buried in the cemetery. These two persons—the first and the last buried there, represented the seven hundred bodies in the whole cemetery, and as the prayers were said, and the hymns were sung by all the people, each person thought particularly of his or her own loved ones then in God's care, and asked of God for them, a share in every blessing that He has reserved for them in "the Paradise of waiting souls." The rector conducted all the services, and his sermons at morning and evening services in the Parish Church, were in harmony with the special services of the day. The Chapel was beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreen, whilst the graves in the Cemetery were lovingly marked by profusion of flowers. Mrs. W. W. White, the Mortuary Chapel organist had charge of the music. It is deeply interesting to notice the gradual increase of devotionally taken in the upkeep of the Cemetery, and in the annual Flower Service, year by year. We thank God, and take courage.

Mrs. Benedict, Mrs. Fallon, and Mrs. Herder, of St. John's, are registered at the Garland Hotel, and they are thoroughly enjoying the many good things that Trinity always provides for its visitors—including the weather which is most generally, always fine, sometimes—W.J.L. Trinity, Aug. 27th.

Rectorship Accepted.

The Hon. R. Watson, Churchwarden of St. Thomas's, received a cablegram last evening from the Rev. Ernest Charles Earp, of Holy Trinity Church, Hull, England, stating that he accepted the invitation to become Rector of St. Thomas's Parish, and that, subject to the Bishop's decision, he proposed leaving for St. John's on October 7th. The nomination will now be presented to His Lordship for approval.
