Living Within Our Means

The review of the financial in the Budget Speech is comprehensive and illuminating, and in so far as it refers to the work of the former administrations, it is not pleasant reading. The Minister in his comments has not hesitated to express frankly his opinion of the effect of the mismanagement, and has made it apparent that unless stringent measures are applied and more businesslike methods adopted, difficulties of the most serious nature lie in front.

In dealing with the industrial outlook he showed that a change and that by practicing frugality in every direction, and by judiciously fostering our trade and industries we should gradually recover from the effects of the
