SATURDAY'S DROWNING DISASTER.

Verdict in the Case of Young Kelland's Death.

Accidental Death—Workmen Who Failed to Respond to a Call for Help Censured —Suitable and Safe Bathing Accom-modation Should be Provided.

The inquest as to the death of William Matthew Kelland, who was drowned in the Thames last Saturday afternoon, was held in the futerin Sessions room in the court house last evening before Coroner Ferguson. The jury was composed of R. A. Jones (foreman), J. W. Fletcher, Reginald Christian, John Jeens, John Lord, William F. Ellis, Williamm Peters, W. R. Hammond, J. Crockett, J. Axtell, J. Lackey, sen., E. Hunter and County Constable Kennedy. Coroner Ferguson read the minutes of the inquest on the body held at John Stephenson's undertaking establishment and then proceeded to take the evidence.

The first witness called was R. W. Ward.

held at John Stephenson's undertaking establishment and then proceeded to take the evidence.

The first witness called was R. W. Ward, county constable. Witness identified the body as that recovered; he was one of the searching party. The body was found about 50 feet west of the Cove bridge, in about eighteen feet fect of water. He heard of the accident, and at once notified High Constable Schram, who sent him down to help in the search.

The next witness was Harry Phair, a boy 11 years of age, who resides in London West, and who was with Kelland at the time. He said he was walking along the river bank with deceased on Saturday afternoon, and Kelland wanted to go in for a swim. They crossed over the bridge and walked along the bank to a spot where it was shallow near the edge. Deceased went in first and walked out about six feet, when he lost his footing and went into a deep hole. Kelland rose three times, but made no cry for help. Witness called upon a party of railroad workmen employed on the bridge, but they did not respond to his appeal.

Robert Peacock and Walter Gash, 14 and they did not respond to his appeal.

Robert Peacock and Walter Gash, 14 and Robert Peacock and Walter Gash, 14 and 11 years of age, corroborated the evidence of the previous witness.

Harry Gibson was then called and said that he was in the river about an hour, and found the body in about eighteen feet of water.

Thomas Jeffries corroborated the previous (witness' evidence and described the finding of the body.

The room was then cleared and the case given to the jury, who after about fifteen minutes' deliberation returned the following verdict:

ing verdict:
"We find that the said William Matthew "We find that the said William Matthew Kelland came to his death by accidental drowning. We are of the opinion that the city and county authorities should provide the necessary tackle and grappling apparatus for the recovery of the bodies of the dead. We consure the party of railroad workmen (unknown to us), who failed to respond to the cry for heip. We are also of the opinion that it is incumbent upon the proper authorities in the interest of the public health and safety to provide suitable and safe public bathing accommodation, thereby preventing the recurrence of these accidental deaths from drowning while bathing so frequent in the past history of the River Thames at and in the vicinity of the city of London."

A Mother Drowns Herself and Two Children.

Bay City, Mich., June 15.—Mrs. Geo. Beaudry, of South Bay City, jumped into the river yesterday morning with her two children. All were drowned. About 6 o'clock Mrs. Beaudry arose as usual and began gotting breakfast. Her husband and the children were in bed. A few minutes later she went to the bedside of the two younger, and dressing them, started from the house, carrying Victoria and leading George, who had been blind for several years, by the hand. Mrs. Beaudry went into the street, passed to the north to a point beyond Thirteenth street, and then went to the river and sat down upon the dock. The little blind boy was scated beside her. Suddenly she pushed him into the river. Seeing a man coming down Harrison street; she jumped in herself, with the girl in her arms. The man, who was Joseph Hines, reached the river in time to see the mother and children about to sink. She was holding the little girl under the water and the blind boy was floundering about. Hines ran back to the street and gave the alarm. The coroner was notified and the bodies were recovered. The husband of the woman says he cannot account for the awful action of his wife. The neighbors say that whisky laid the foundation for the awful crime. Annie, the eldest girl, says her father and mother frequently quarreled. The little girl admitted that she herself had tried to commit suicidea year ago. Beaudry is a harness maker, and came from Montreal with his wife eighteen years go.

Pell 1.500 Feet.

Baltimore, Md., June 15.—Charles Waite, an aeronaut, who gave a balloon exhibition at Tolchester Beach, an excursion resort on the Chesapeake Bay yesterday, received injuries which are likely to prove fatal. When 1,500 feet above ground he cut loser from a chest which are prove tatal. When 1,500 feet above ground he cut loose from a parachute, the ropes of which became tangled, preventing its opening properly. Waite came down like a flash, making frantic efforts to disentangle the ropes. He fell in a corn field, and when the steamer left the beach last night was still unconscious. A Girl Graduate's Determination.

MARHALL, Ill., June 15.—The twelfth annual commencement exercises of the Marshall High School were held in the opera house recently. Rather an interesting feature was the appearance of Miss Anna Claypool among her classmates. Only a few weeks ago she unfortunately broke her right leg, and, though suffering constant pain, pluckily pursued her studies, passed the examinations successfully, and last night was carried to the opera house in her invalid chair, delivering her oration while seated in the chair.
