His history of the "British gun" was as follows : We will suppose that there is a little village between two mountains. A man goes to the authorities, gets a very fine piece of mechanism in the shape of a large British gun, patented ; he then takes the gun to the top of one of the mountains, fires shot after shot into the village, killing or wound-ing nearly everyone. This causes great ing nearly everyone. This causes great consternation and the people tried to stop them, but n, it was patented. Just owith drink, it is killing everyone it meets. A number then signed the pledge.

Ready Retorts The number of witty replies, ready re-ROYAL torts, and "good things" generally attributed to Swift, Foote, Sydney Smith, J. FRENCH. The tailor looked at his son and said, "Jock, confound them that invented working by candle-light !" "Ay, replied young snip, "or daylight either !"

"You have no idea of the hard work there is in this business," said a canvasser to a shopkeeper. "I tell you it is either talking or walking from morning till night." "Beg your pardon," replied the victim; I have a pretty distinct idea of the talking part of your program. Now, please favor me with an exhibition of the walking part". me with an exhibition of the walking part". A saracastic question may sometimes do duty for the severest of replies. "I never consider a dinner perfect without soup," said one man to another; "I always have soup when I dine." And do you never have anything else ?" returned the other. A punning retort is also at times very effective. "I had no time to stuff the chicken," apologized a landlady. "Never mind, madam; it's tough enough as it is," quickly replied the boarder.

Murphy was present for Milburn and Mr. Delamere for plaintiff. A good deal of negotiation seems to have taken place among the lawyers and parties interested before the case was open-ed and a settlement was apparently made, for when the trial was called Mr. Delamere said he had no evidence to offer. Milburn stoutly denied the charge. The case was then dismissed.

The Defaulting Elgar.

It has been learned that Thomas Elgar, the defaulting teller of the Bank of Toronto, is now in Chicago, where a portion of his effects have been forwarded. The sheriff has a small quantity of Elgar's goods in his hands, which he has seized, and the bank obtained an order at Osgoode hall on Saturday for substitutional service on Elgar, with a view to reaching the goods in the sheriff's hands. The amount of Elgar's indebtedness to the bank, for which they sue, is $1500.

An Appreciating Public.

Notwithstanding the very hot weather and the number of people out of town, Messrs. Robert Shields & Company repor a steadily increasing demand for all their brands of tobaccos and snuffs. These goods are manufactured by Lemesurier & Sons of Quebec, for which firm they are the agents for Ontario. This shows that the Toronto tobacco using people know how to appreci-ate a good article when they get it.

Cure of Toothache

One of our citizens desires us to publish the following sure remedy for toothache : First cleanse the cavity with dry cotton, then with a broom splint or splint of wood apply a small drop of undiluted muriatic acid and the pain will instantly cease. Our informant says he has seen it tried in many cases without a failure. Another good cure is to fill your mouth with cold water and sit on the kitchen stove till the water boils. Try it.
