Many new Educational Features are introduced for the first time in Dictionary-making.

It is authority in all the Departments of the United States and Canadian Governments. 20 United States Government Experts were on the Editorial Staff.

It represents the costliest literary enterprise ever undertaken in America. Over $960,000 were actually expended upon it before a single copy was ready for the market.

It contains scores of valuable Tables, not to be found in any other Dictionary or Encyclopedia in the world.

It represents the recent progress of the Arts and Sciences, and contains the results of recent legal decisions and legislation, in matters of domestic and international importance.

Nearly 100 of the leading Universities, Colleges, and Scientific Institutions of the world were represented on the Editorial Staff. It could not be otherwise than authoritative.

"The Most Perfect Dictionary Ever Made."

A. G. Wilkinson, A.M., M.D., Ph.D., a Principal Examiner in the United States Patent Office since 1869; formerly Professor of Languages, University of Missouri, says: "The high authority of the Standard Dictionary is one of its most important features. Being several years later than any other similar publication, and more distinctively the work of specialists in all departments of the language, its superiority in this respect can not be questioned. I should give it the preference on all disputed points. . . . It is the most perfect dictionary ever made in any language, and I have them and consult them in six different languages almost daily."

Unquestionably Better than the Century, the International, and Worcester's.

B. O. Flower, Editor of The Arena, Boston, said, August, 1895: "Without desiring to disparage the excellent Century, the International, or Worcester's, I feel it simple justice to the Standard to say that in this case the latest is unquestionably the best Dictionary of the English language."
