

MUTUAL ENDOWMENT FOR CHILDREN.

IN order to afford to Parents and Guardians an opportunity of making adequate provision for Children on their attaining the age of 21, on terms as moderate as the true Rate of Mortality and interest will justify, the Board of Directors of the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY have determined to open two Classes, (A and B), upon the following plan:—

Class A shall consist of Children under 6 years of age; and Class B of Children from 6 to 10 years of age, inclusive.

Upon entry of a Child's name in either Class while any multiple of the sum of $10 will be received in his or her name, the sum of $10 is required to be paid.

The funds so received will be accumulated at compound interest, upon a system similar to that of the Mutual Branch in the Company, and divided at the end of 18 and 14 years, respectively, amongst such Members as may survive the term of the Class to which they may belong, and in proportion to the sums originally deposited in each name.

The division will be made within three months of the first of May in the year in which each Class terminates, and the survivors, on the 1st of May in that year, will be the participators in the division.

The result will be that the survivors of Class A will receive from $50 to $55 for each $10 paid in; and of Class B from $30 to $35.

Those who desire to retain the control of the Endowment, can do so by holding the Bond themselves until maturity; while those who desire to make an absolute gift to Children or others, can as readily assign the Endowment Bond, either on subscription or subsequently or take it out at once in their own names. The information required on entry is little more than a certificate of birth or age.

The foregoing is one of the many useful branches in which a LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY can offer its assistance to the public, and it certainly is a most efficacious method of enabling Parents to provide Endowments for their Children on their attaining an age, when, in all probability, money will be of most service to them:—as thus, a Parent deposits on account of his Child, now aged three years, ten or twenty pounds; for which his Child, on attaining the age of twenty-one years, will be entitled to some £60 or £120, as the case may be. It may therefore be regarded as a sort of SAVINGS BANK, of which the Directors of the Company are Trustees and carefully manage the funds entrusted to them, finally dividing such funds, with their accumulations, among those entitled to receive them,—the survivors of the number on whose account the Deposits had been originally made.

But this is not the only advantage which the system is likely to subserves. Data will be furnished thereby, on which to form Tables of Mortality among Children this in country—the absence of such Tables rendering it impossible for any Company to undertake Assurances on the lives of Children with that degree of certainty which should always characterize Life Risks, while the rates for Endowment (necessarily based on English data) will doubtless prove in the result to be materially too high.

The Classes will be kept open until the close of the current (the 6th) year of the operations of the Company. Intending Assurers in the MUTUAL BRANCH will bear in mind that, in order to participate in the Dividend to be declared in August 1854, Proposals for Assurance must bear date on or before the 30th April, prox. the period from which the annual valuations of the Company commence.
