The Orange Crops.

The California orange situation remains about the same, according to the Fruit Grower. Growers are anxious to sell at prices offered by buyers and shippers.

The season in Southern California is later than usual, and the quantity of fruit contracted to date much less than last season at this time. The grower's reports from Florida point to a large crop, heavy receipts and lower prices, the average for seven sales being $2.97 per box, as against $3.20 per box the week before, or a decline of 23 cents per box. The very severe cold weather throughout the east is attributed as the cause, while eastern dealers report the bulk of the Florida fruit coming to hand as being unripe. At the early auction sales held at Jacksonville, Florida, prices ranged as follows. Fancy, 2.75 @ 3.45; Bright, 2.40 @ 3; Golden Russet, 2.25 @ 2.50; Russet, 1.85 @ 2.40. Reports from Southern California continue rather unfavorable, particularly from the shipper's standpoint. Navel oranges this season are running to undesirable sizes. Shipments of Washington Navel oranges are going forward. One car of 300 boxes contained 35 boxes of 80s, 124 boxes of 96s, 16 boxes of 50-76s, while the balance ran 112 125 oranges to the box. This is very large fruit, and except for holiday trade is very undesirable from the retailer's standpoint. The trade give the preference to Navel oranges ranging in size 128-150-176, while a very large proportion of this season's crop promises to range from 80-96-112 oranges to the box. If past seasons are to be taken as a guide, this large sized fruit will show poorer keeping qualities than the medium sized. In the California market oranges are making some show, but trading is light. The weather is cold and unfavorable for the sale of fruit, the bulk of which is sour and hardly in condition to eat.

Very few seedlings have been marketed. Mandarin oranges are very plentiful, selling from 22 @ 75c per box, peddlers hawking them about at 5 @ 10c per dozen.

Riverside lemons are in fair supply.

At the demand of their foreign creditors the wholesale dry goods firm of J. A. Patterson & Co., of Montreal, has assigned. The principal creditors are English, French and German firms, who have claims amounting to $87,000. The principal Canadian creditors is the Bank of Montreal, which is interested to the amount of $115,000, of which $100,000 is indirect and the remainder is secured. The firm's total liabilities are placed at $200,000.
