

From a picture by R. A. Sprout

PLACE D'ARMES IN 1830

The old and new Notre Dame churches. The old church in the foreground was built in 1672. The present church was commenced in the year 1821, opened for public worship in 1829. The old church was gradually removed. About 1815 the bell tower and steeple, which had been standing for several years, a landmark on the square, were at last pulled down.