

Annexed to France. Exclaimed against these conditions. Distinguished for his bravery. Infringe on rules. Prejudice against Religion. Reduced Carthage under her yoke. Reduce a vulgar fraction to a decimal. Bestow bounty upon another. Comply with this command. No disparagement to them. No derogation from their station. Governed by the Verb. Celia died for love. He died of grief. Died of a fever. Died by a stroke. Dissent from you. Adapted to this purpose. Navigable for boats. No exception to this proposal. Revenue is above one million.

RULE XLIII.—Gave me no meat. Give me what is mine. Tell me the truth. Fetch me the inkstand. Hand me that book. Lend me five pounds. Sent me the present. Sell me your horse. Bring me a light. Get him a book. Taught thee to write. Write him on this subject. Give the horse his oats. Lend me your sword. Buy him a copy book. Pay me what you owe. Teach them to read. Shew me the Church. Looks not like Andrew.

RULE XLIV.—Lives in France—to go to London. Arrived at Plymouth in England. Born in London, now lives at Gretna Green. Been at Paris,—to call at Geneva in my way to Italy.—Touched at Lisbon—arrived at Elba—arrived in Sicily. Was at the appointed place. Sometime in America. Been at London, after a year in France. and now lives at Islington. Lived in Grosvenor square, now resides in Duke street, at No. 10.

RULE XLV.—Spoke Latin and wrote Greek. His fault, and entreat thee. To profess regard and to act. Understands the subject. Between him and me—between him and her. And to proceed temperately. My brother and he are tolerable. You and we enjoy. She and he are unhappily. Life continue we shall meet. But it will not produce. But he is defective. Riches, but they do not command. Hasty yet he is not ungenerous.