GOOD THINGS COMING TO THE THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

FINAL SHOWING OF "PASSION" TODAY

The final day of exhibition for the gorgeous European history-drama, "Passion," begins at Imperial theatre this afternoon at two o'clock. There will be the usual four shows. No lover of moving pictures, let alone lovers of art, should allow this remarkable photoplay to be taken off the screen at the Keith house without enjoying it. Yesterday the patronage was again most generous.

It is a striking tribute to the excellence of this feature that for three days, under stress of an unusual number of counter-attractions, it has drawn capacity houses from all classes of ladies and gentlemen hereabouts. The fact that it is being shown at a scale of prices ranging from 15c. to 50c. is another privilege of which the people are taking advantage.

DON'T COME TO IMPERIAL FRIDAY

If You Have Lost the Faculty of Laughing—A Riot Coming.

Imperial Theatre goes from the sublime to the ridiculous in pictures in presenting Mack Sennett's roving six reel farce, "A Small Town Idol," on Friday and Saturday. In a recent review of the outstanding pictures of the last twelve months a jury of film experts gave this comedy a place in the favored ten fests. They claimed it to be the best example of burlesque drama and uproarious amusement turned out in the year.

One only has to mention that "A Small Town Idol" is a mixture of melodrama, slap-stick comedy and elaborate spectacle in which Ben Turpin, Charlie Murray, Phyllis Haver and Mable Trevort take the leading parts to show how funny this picture will be. The story deals with Ben Turpin, who leaves the village home to become an actor in New York in spite of his cross-eyed beauty. When he returns to the village the folks do him honor for which he puts on a show, using village amateurs to complete the cast. The Imperial anticipates a riot.
