FUMES BETRAY HUGE STILL IN AN APARTMENT

Scientifically Planned Liquor Plant Discovered, With 400 Gallons of Whiskey—Former Janitor Arrested.

New York, July 6.—Fumes from a chimney on a five-story apartment house at 105 East Ninety-sixth street have disturbed persons living in that neighborhood for several weeks. The curiosity of the neighbors led finally to a "tip" to Federal prohibition headquarters and the "tip" led to a visit to the apartment by Agents Van Tassel and Emanuel Morgans.

In the guise of gas inspectors, Van Tassel and Morgans went into the apartment and went down to the cellar. There they reported, they found a completely equipped distillery. Two fifty-gallon stills were used in a specially constructed chimney carried off the fumes. A charcoal filter to remove fuses oil and give the proper coloring was a part of the apparatus.

Four hundred gallons of whiskey in kegs and jugs of from one to twenty gallons lined the walls of the cellar and twelve barrels of mash stood in the centre. According to the agents, it was the biggest privately owned distillery found in the city. Everything was systematically arranged. The distilling was done in one room, the bottling in another, and there were special compartments for filtering, coloring and other steps in the whiskey-making process.

The agents called a van and then made a search for the occupant of the premises. They found Isaac Perish, who three years ago was janitor of the Perish was charged with the manufacture and possession of liquor.

BOY TUNNEL BUILDER BURIED BY CAVE-IN

Quick Work of Policemen and Workmen With Shovels Too Late to Save Lad.

Sharon Stewart, 18 years old, lost his life when a tunnel he was building at Riverside Drive and 19th street, New York, caved in and buried him. His 6-year-old brother, Robert, a cripple, was saved by the prompt action of 18-year-old Alfred Williams.

In a bank of clay left by apartment house builders the boys had burrowed three passageways leading to a large central space. Yesterday afternoon Sharon was busy excavating there and his brother was trying to crawl in through a passageway, and Sharon told him to go back. Williams, who had just carried out a load of dirt, saw the roof of the cave collapse and he seized Robert and jumped backward. Realizing Sharon's plight, the boys shouted for help and Policemen James Murray of the West 17th street station and two workmen from a nearby building hurried with their shovels. In a few minutes they extricated Sharon's lifeless body. Hook and Ladder Company 45 arrived a moment later in response to a call from the policeman, followed by an excited crowd.

CHOPPED BODY FOUND IN LONG ISLAND FIELD

Hatchet Which Nearly Severed Victim's Head Picked Up Near By.

New York, July 6.—James Henaberry of Elmhurst, L. I., was walking through a field belonging to the Leverett estate with a pet dog when the dog came to a stop near a tree and began to bark. Henaberry went to the spot, which is about 300 feet north of Park avenue and found the body of a man lying in a pool of blood. Inspector Fornace, Captain Ernest Van Dicksel and Captain Martin Bove of the Newton Precinct, with Detectives Knap and Digilio hurried to the scene and notified the homicide squad in Manhattan.

The man was about thirty years old, was well dressed in brown, with brown stockings, brown oxford shoes, cotton underwear and a white shirt with green and white stripes. His head, which was nearly severed from the body, had been cut to pieces by a hatchet which was found in the grass about thirty feet from the body.

The man had a knife, small scissors, nail clip, gray silk handkerchief and a pipe in his pockets. There was no money or any mark of identification. The cap which the man wore was new.
