JUDGE, ROOST ROBBED, BECOMES DETECTIVE. Follows Footprints Until He Finds the Wearer of a Patched Boot. 22529-3-16

Leptandros, March 15—Oscar and David Williams, brothers, will be ar-rogued in police court in Leptandros, Orange county, charged with raising the hen-roost of the village judge as a result of some right smart detective work on the part of his honor.

Judge J. A. Griffin, it is charged, ex-aminant footprints leading from his hen-coop found the imprints of a boot with three patches on the sole. The judge and a vigilance committee, it is stated, traced these footprints to the door of David Williams' home and they ascertained, found one of the Williams brothers wearing the telltale boot with the three patches. The brothers were arrested.

Judge Griffin also alleged that he recognized a chicken found in the Williams home as one of ten stolen from his roost.

The Williams brothers were taken be-fore Judge C. O. Warford today and denied the charge of petty larceny and asked that trial be set for Monday.

When Constable Spengler received the warrants for the arrest of the brothers he took with him two other constables and a posse of poultry raisers, because he had been told that the brothers drove a horse and wagon over a constable who had a brush with them a few months ago.
