PHILADELPHIA'S NEW WATER WAGON

PHILADELPHIA MOTOR CAR WATERING STATION FOR HORSES

Philadelphia, Pa., June 15.—The latest thing in water wagons has arrived. It is a motor-driven vehicle which will be abroad in Philadelphia streets, but strange to say, its purpose is to supply drinks not to the prohibition agent. Let it be realized at the outset however, that this new water wagon has nothing to do with man. Women and horses alone are interested.

This motor car water wagon is the only one of its kind in the world, and is the invention of members of the Women's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who hope to stave Philadelphia's thirst.

ARRESTS IN RAIDS BY POLICE OF BOSTON TO CHECK THE DRUG EVIL

Several Places Visited in Early Morning—Girls Included in Those Taken in Charge by Squad

Boston, June 15.—The first successful raids under the new drug law, known as chapter 272 of the laws of 1909, were made on April 29, and making it a crime to have certain drugs in one's possession or even to be present when they are found, were conducted early yesterday morning by police of the East End district station. Twelve persons were arrested, and a quantity of the contraband goods were confiscated.

The penalty for having the drugs in one's possession is a fine not exceeding $100, and for being present where they are found is a fine not exceeding $50.

For some time agents of the New England Watch and Ward society have been making investigations and securing evidence in the South End, where Capt. John Driscoll of station 5, also has had men go along the same lines.

The police obtained warrants to search certain houses in the South End where they suspected the drugs were kept and used Serg'ts McCloskey and Hughes, started out quietly to visit the suspected places.

Strong arm and sledge hammer work took no part in the raids, for in every instance the policemen went quietly to the doors of the houses, rang the bells and when the doors were opened quietly explained their errands and went about the work. Their success was so unusual that Capt. Driscoll warmly complimented the men, for they had accomplished their work without outside assistance.

Most of the prisoners were white persons and four are young girls.

As fast as the arrests were made the patrol wagon was called and the prisoners sent to the station house, where Lieut. Michael Crowley booked them and made their investigation.

Four of the prisoners were kept under the guard of a policeman in the signal room of the station house, and the rest were arrested charged with having been in the first time, for they appeared to be at least deserving of a second.

They were permitted to send out a messenger for hot coffee and sandwiches, which they ate with an apparent relish until it was time for their removal to the house of detention for women, where the matron took charge of them, pending the opening of court.

It was about 1.10 a. m. when the police raided the house at 47 Bradford street, conducted, it is charged, by Almon Spring, 28, colored, and his wife, Rhoda, 21, colored. They were arrested charged with having cocaine in their possession, and a small quantity of the drug was confiscated.

All of these prisoners are being held in a room where the drug was found, Eva Brown, 24, colored, Josephine Foster, 22, white, and Marie Foster, 28, colored. They were all locked up in default of bail.

At 3.05 a. m. the same officers went to 15 Upton street, where they arrested James Richmond, 26, of 381 Columbus ave., Catherine Fallon, 20, Julia Godard, 21, and Marie Fowler, 22, all colored. They were charged with having opium in their possession and the girls, who were very nicely groomed and quite pretty, were charged with being present where the drug was found.

Although the girls told a pathetic story of being invited to see the opium smoking and declared that they are innocent of any wrong doing, and that they did not know it was a crime to be present, they were held for the court. Not one of the girls appeared to have been smoking, although the police said that when they entered the room somebody had stopped smoking. They seized a small quantity of opium in this house, and a costly opium pipe, richly studded with precious stones and silver and ivory and mother of pearl. The remainder of the layout also was seized.

All of these prisoners are white persons. At 4.25 a. m. the same policemen went to the house at 188 West Canton street and arrested Charles E. Brooks, 24, a white man, charged with having opium in his possession. Brooks smelled strongly of the drug and the police said he had just finished smoking when they entered the room. George Collins, 24, and Rose Melien, 20, also white, were charged with being present. At this house the police seized a small quantity of opium and an ordinary pipe and the layout.

Later in the morning the same men visited several other houses, but they were unsuccessful in the quest of drugs. Although a young man giving the name of Charles Lennon and a young woman who said her name is Marion Langdon, were arrested, charged with another offense. They were found at 29 Wellington street, when the police searched for contraband liquors. At the station house the young man produced a roll of bank notes which counted up $440, and he promptly deposited $104 with Bail Commissioner Maurice Murphy and they were released.

But of these prisoners will be in the police court for a hearing later. In the meantime the work of stamping out this evil will be strenuously conducted by Capt. Driscoll and his men.

Dr. Noble is a director of Syracuse university and Drew Theological Seminary and Kenes Hospital, and is a member of the American Philosophical Association, the American Philological, the Alpha Delta Phi, the Phi Beta Kappa, and of the Graduate Union of New York, and the University of Baltimore.

THE CONTROLLING OF BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS

The issue of the report of the International Commission on the Control of Bovine Tuberculosis is of significant interest at the present time, particularly in view of the active public demand for some definite and authoritative pronouncement in consideration of the whole situation as regards bovine tuberculosis in its relation to the welfare of the live stock industry and to its influence on public health.

The economic importance of the subject has occasioned a very great deal of discussion in scientific and agricultural circles, and has led to the adoption, by various legislative and municipal bodies, of measures for the suppression and eradication of this great scourge of domesticated animals and the protection of the people against infection through the consumption of diseased meat or polluted milk.

It has long been felt, however, that for the American continent a really effective and satisfactory programme could be arranged and carried out only by the united action of the United States and Canada and only after legislation enacted or policy adopted by both governments.

The report offered to embody the deliberations of the commission and its recommendations which it has at length determined to make. The decisions which have been reached are eminently conservative in their nature and for this reason, if for no other, they will exercise a much stronger appeal than would have been possible, particularly in the case of those who may for any reason be prejudiced against legislative interference. The prevalence of the disease and the consequent loss to the breeders, as well as the danger to the public health, are not minimized but gravely acknowledged and seriously considered.

It is unnecessary to enter into a further discussion of the details of the report of the commission, as a copy may be easily obtained by any reader. The fact that this report is likely to form the basis of a new policy to be adopted by the department of agriculture at Ottawa should give its contents a special interest for Canadian owners of cattle and swine. The time is evidently ripe for such a departure and the minister's hands will no doubt be strengthened by the steadily growing sentiment on the part of the public in favor of such action.

In the meantime and until a definite policy is announced, a careful study of this publication should be made by every farmer and breeder in the country. Whether or not it may be to his advantage to buy his plans forthwith, in accordance with the proposed scheme as therein outlined, will remain for him to decide, but the information which the report contains is of immediate practical value and should not be neglected. It may be obtained by addressing the Veterinary Director General, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

THE RAIN

We knew it would rain, for all the morn, A spirit on slender ropes of mist Was lowering its golden buckets down

Into the vapory amethyst Of marshes and awnings and diana fies, Dipping the jewels out of the sea To sprinkle them over the land in showers.

We knew it would rain, for the poplars showed The white of their leaves; the amber grain Shrank in the wind, and the lightning now Is angled in tremulous skeins of rain.

—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.
