TERRIBLE INDIAN TRIBAL TRAGEDY

Sqaw Choke to Death—Perpetrators Sought to Foil Evil Spirit.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Joseph and Jack Fidler, the chief and medicine man of the Sandy Lake Crees, are under arrest at Norway House, about 200 miles from Kenora. They will be tried for the murder of a squaw.
It is a case of a savage tribal custom. The woman became ill last spring and grew delirious. These Indians hold the belief that a person dies delirious an evil spirit, one Wendigo, escapes from the body to the woods, frightens away the game, and a famine ensues. He band, according to custom, appointed their chief and medicine man to choke the sick squaw, so that the spirit might not escape with the body, but remain secure in the dead body.
Before the whole band the chief and the medicine man did the deed. A rope about the squaw's neck was tightened by the two leaders of the band until the livings of the woman were stopped and the evil spirit was imprisoned and the game preserved.
The Fidlers asked the officials not to be too severe with them, as they had no idea that they were doing wrong. They were merely doing their duty by the band and followed the custom of their fathers. The execution of this day was a high honor, and, according to Norway House tradition, were handsomely paid by the parents of the victim.
The authorities here are trying to decide whether it will be easier to send a judge to Norway House to try the case, or have the prisoners and witnesses sent to Edmonton for trial.

HEAD WAS BURIED.

Unknown Man Meets With Ghastly End In Bush Beyond North River.
Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 2.—The body of an unknown man was found in the bush, 20 miles north of Blind River on the Tote road, near Eddy's lumber camp.
Every indication points to foul play, as the head was missing, and it is said the pockets of the clothes worn by the man were turned inside out. The body was found in a bush, and the head was found in a bush a few feet away, but owing to the dense nature of the bush, identification is rendered impossible. The hands are also missing, and have not been found.
The body was found by a lumberman while passing through the bush. The coroner and Provincial Constable Graham of Blind River, acting under instructions from Crown Attorney McFadden, have gone to make a thorough investigation.
The body was that of a young man of small size, wearing a dark suit and tan shoes.
Mrs. W. Shewfelt, a young married woman of Blind River, was assaulted in her home there by an unknown man in the absence of her husband Wednesday night. The man broke into the house, and intimidated the woman by firing a revolver, the bullet from which entered the pillow of the bed. Her husband is foreman in a camp at Blind River.

FEMALE FIRE FIEND.

Demented Woman Puts Lighted Torch to Wellston House and Barn.
Wellston, Aug. 2.—Andrew Hoover, whose farm adjoins the Town of Wellston, has suffered the loss of his large barn and the season's hay crop, amounting to about fifty tons.
It is thought that the fire was started by his daughter Margaret, a woman of 34 years, who is demented. The men were in the fields at the time, about 3:30 in the afternoon, and by the time they reached the barn it was impossible to save anything. The contents included a quantity of grain and a bull and all were lost.
While the fire was in progress Miss Hoover attempted also to set fire to the house. The demented woman was placed in custody and will probably be committed to an asylum next week.

THE WEATHER.

SHOWERS.
Toronto, August 1.—A depression which was in Manitoba last night, now covers the lake region, accompanied by numerous showers and thunderstorms. Heavy fog still prevails along the Nova Scotia coast, and a few showers have occurred in the St. Lawrence Valley, and the Gulf. In the western provinces the weather has been fine.
Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay.—Fresh to strong winds, shifting to westerly and northwesterly; showers and thunderstorms at first; then clearing and cooler.

THE HOLIDAY

FOUR HUNDRED WENT ON "BIG THREE" EXCURSION.

Citizens generally were seized with the holiday spirit yesterday. A holiday at this season of the year is always looked forward to with pleasure. The "Big Three" excursion to Port Stanley, which was attended by over 400, was the chief attraction of the day. The C. P. R. placed a solid vestibule train at the disposal of the excursionists and the run to the lake was made sharp on time. The outing in every respect was a delightful one and praise for the excellent services given by the C. P. R. has been heard on all sides.
Those who did not go on the excursion spent the day in divers ways. Many private parties were held, while a large number attended the horse races at Tillsonburg.

ANNUAL INSPECTION BOARD OF HEALTH

All the Places Visited Were Found in a Very Satisfactory Condition.

The following is the partial report of the Board of Health of the inspections of the establishments under their supervision, in the order of their visitation:
Harris' slaughter house was found in excellent condition during our visit. Killing was in operation and the care and attention to the minutest detail was practically demonstrated. The liberal use of lime wash in the building proper, and the use of a powerful disinfectant was evident as used in the surroundings and accessories. The liberal use of water which is constantly supplied from an automatic system is a prominent feature in this establishment, where about 100 head of cattle and other animals are prepared for the market weekly.
Jackson's slaughter house was also found in splendid condition, as were also the surroundings. The floors in the killing room were all that could be expected in an establishment of this kind, also everything pertaining to the trade was found in excellent condition.
Pumping Station.—This was also visited and evidence of care and attention was manifest. The power used is electric, with the steam power held in reserve and in readiness for any emergency. The gathering well was in good shape, substantial improvements having been made since our last visit, and an honest effort appeared to be made to clear the stream by the removal of fallen timbers and decaying vegetation which in the opinion of this board should extend throughout the whole of the contributing branches of our water supply.
Bucknell's Dairy, of 17 cows, was found in good condition, milk being treated in a specially constructed and well kept detached building, utensils in excellent condition and care and cleanliness in marked evidence throughout.
Hilston's dairy, also of 17 cows, was found in excellent condition. The milk is treated in a detached and suitable building, where care and cleanliness was such as to inspire absolute confidence in the purity of the product.
The dumping ground was also visited and such instructions as were deemed necessary were left to the sanitary inspector to see carried out.
The knitting factory was visited and so far as the sanitary arrangements were concerned found in excellent condition. The building throughout is heated by steam and every means taken for the comfort and security of those employed. The entire building is lime washed and painted, adding much to the appearance as well as of practical benefit to all concerned. The building is ventilated on the most modern and up-to-date system.
Elliott's slaughter house, while an incomplete structure in itself, the evidence of care and cleanliness was apparent. The dressed meat prepared for the market was covered with netting, and as a whole was very satisfactory.

Hunter's Dairy.—Milk house in good condition with ample supply for the treatment of the product; walls well painted and scrupulously cleanliness in evidence. Fourteen cows, in splendid condition, also care in the surroundings being manifest.

McKinnon's slaughter house was found in splendid condition, well lime washed and evident care in the handling of the product. At the time of our visit the dressed meat, prepared for consumption was encased in fly netting, as a safe and judicious precaution. About 100 head all told are here weekly prepared for the trade.

Pickard's dairy was found in excellent condition. An entirely new structure for the treatment of the milk, detached from the stables, has been erected. The dairy consists of 13 cows, stables and surroundings were all that could be desired. This is an entirely new venture in this line and everything is of the latest and strictly up-to-date. The utensils were in splendid shape, both as to repair and cleanliness. From seven to ten gallons of milk from this dairy are daily delivered in sealed glass bottles.

James Sinclair, Chairman Board of Health.
