soliloquy, like unto this,— To wed or not to wed ?--that is the question, Whether' is nobler in the mind to suffer The stings and arrows of ditrageous love, Or to take up arms against the powerlu flame, And, by opposing, quench it. To wed, to marry, No more?--and by a marriage any see and The heartache, and the thousand painful shooks Love makes us her to--tis a consummation Devoulty to be wished 15 w wel-to marry--To marry, perchance a social ave, there's the rub For in that wedded 15 w wel-to marry--To marry, perchance a social ave, there's the respect That makes the bachelors a numerous race, For who we have shuffled off our single state, Must give us serious pause-there's the respect That makes the bachelors a numerous race, Spen' by single men-cheered by no smile, To sit like hermit at a lonely board In silence ? Who would bear the crual gibes With which the bachelor is daily tasaed, When he himself might end such heartielt grief, By wedding some fair maid ? Oh ? who would ve anifested in Mr. Lovejoy's card. ESTABLISHING A PRECEDENT. - AC cording to advices from Ottawa in our "General Notes and News," it will be seen that the Dominion Government proposes to indemnify that city for its loss of revenue arising out of the nontaxation of Government property and civil service incomes. If this is done the same principle must be applied throughout the Dominion.

Leap Year Notes.

e Yawning and staring sadly in the fire Till collbacy becomes a weary life, But that the dread of somothing after wedlock, (That undiscovered state from whuse strong A valued correspondent sends us the hains No captive can get free) puzzlos the will, And makes us rather choose those ills we hav Than fly to others which a wife may bring? Thus, caution does muke bachelors of us all, And thus our natural wish for matrimony Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought And love, adventures of great pith and momen With this regard their currents turn awry And miss the name of weelock. following paper which he recently read at a social and literary entertainment given by a club of which he is a member.
